

NATION TO PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO DEWEY

Public Funeral Ceremonies to Be Held in Rotunda of Capitol Saturday.

PRESIDENT LAUDS MEMORY

Navv to Go Into Mourning for 30 Days for Admiral—Services to Be Held on Board Every Warship.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Funeral services for Admiral Dewey giving fitting expression to the Nation's affection and sorrow and bestowing the highest public honors that can be given a National hero were planned today by officials of the Federal Government.

It was decided to hold the public ceremonies Saturday in the rotunda of the Capitol and to bring to Washington for an escort of honor all available forces of both the naval and military arms of the service. Congress will be in recess during the funeral and under an order by President Wilson the Government departments will remain closed during the entire day.

President Lauds Memory.

The President sent a special message to Congress today announcing the death of the aged Spanish war hero and declaring that "the people and the Government will always rejoice to perpetuate his name in honor and affection." Both Senate and House adopted resolutions of regret, appointed committees to represent them at the funeral and adjourned before the usual hour to emphasize the respect which will be in recess during the funeral and under an order by President Wilson the Government departments will remain closed during the entire day.

Under the President's order flags on all American Government buildings, forts and naval vessels throughout the world will fly at half mast until after the funeral ceremonies. In a separate order Secretary Daniels directed that the Navy Department building here be draped in black and that all officers of the Navy and Marine Corps wear mourning with their uniforms for 30 days. The Secretary also ordered each senior ship afloat to fire an Admiral's salute of 19 guns at noon on Saturday.

President Offers Sympathy.

Thousands of messages of condolence were carried to Mrs. Dewey today at the Dewey home here, where the Admiral died late yesterday and where his body will lie in state until the Capitol Saturday for the funeral. President Wilson was among those who called to tender their personal sympathy.

The funeral plans, as far as they have been completed tonight, provide for a private service at the residence, attended only by members of the immediate family before the body is taken to the Capitol. In the cortege that will follow it up Pennsylvania avenue before the public services and then from the Capitol to its resting place at Arlington, will be practically the entire corps of high officials, the midshipmen from Annapolis, sailors and marines from the Norfolk Naval station and the Washington Navy-yard, and various other Army and Navy units.

Chaplain of Olympia in Charge.

Chaplain J. B. Frazier, who was chaplain of the flagship Olympia when Dewey won his historic battle at Manila Bay, will be in charge of the services at the Capitol. At the residence the Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church here, the Admiral's place of worship, will officiate.

J. H. Glennon, commandant of the Washington Navy-yard, will have general charge of arrangements for the military features.

High Government officials today canceled all but the most pressing engagements and announced that until after the Admiral's funeral they would make no appointments. Secretary Baker, who had planned to entertain President Wilson at a Cabinet dinner tonight, postponed the function and Secretary Daniels canceled an engagement to speak in Philadelphia tomorrow.

Naval officers said tonight that probably never before had such signal honor been paid a dead hero as that provided for Admiral Dewey in Secretary Daniels' order, sent broadcast by the Arlington wireless station to American vessels and shore stations everywhere.

Record Is Reviewed.

"It is with feeling of genuine grief," the order said, "that the Secretary of the Navy announces the death at 5:56 P. M. yesterday at his residence in Washington, of the Admiral of the Navy."

The career of George Dewey ran in full current to the end. Young and his mother state and there was always in his character something of the granite of his native hills. Dewey was under fire with Farragut in the Mississippi River and bore himself gallantly throughout the war between the states.

"The battle in Manila Bay on May 1, 1898, made him the foremost naval officer since Farragut and victor of the first American sea fight with a foreign foe since the War of 1812.

"Gentlemen, a higher power than we has won this battle today," the Commodore said to his captains at the conclusion of the battle, when it had been learned that the victory, one of the most decisive in our history, had been won without the loss of a single American seaman. In peace, in war, in sickness, in health, in victory and in

Washing Won' Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Adv.

conflict, and in every relation of life Admiral Dewey invariably exhibited the virtues of the patriot and the Christian.

Service in Peace Distinguished.

"His wide life, 62 years of which were spent in the Navy, was full of honorable achievement and his service in peace has been hardly less distinguished than his laurels in war. As president of the general board of the Navy since its inception, he has played a leading part in making the Nation ready for war on the seas. The same statesmanlike qualities which he exhibited in handling the international situation in Manila after the battle of May 1, 1898, he has shown as the head of this board of naval experts.

"In recognition of his victory in Manila Bay the then Commodore was advanced one grade to that of Admiral and in addition received the thanks of Congress. Later, by special act of Congress, he was promoted to be the Admiral of the Navy, a rank never held by an American naval officer previously, although two, Porter and Farragut, were rewarded with the rank of full Admiral. He was placed by Congress on the active list, until such time as he might see fit to apply for retirement. But his active spirit could not rest. He never folded his hands. He chose to die on the bridge, even until the pilot came aboard his life craft who should take him across the bar. He died one of the foremost figures of modern times.

All Ships to Fire Salutes.

"On the day of the funeral the flag will be displayed at half-mast at all Navy-Yards and stations and on board all ships in commission, and 19 minute guns will be fired at noon from each Navy-Yard and from the senior ship present afloat.

"The Navy Department will be draped and all officers of the Navy and Marine Corps will wear the badge of mourning with the uniforms for 30 days.

"The Navy Department, by executive order, will be closed on Saturday, January 20, 1917."

"The resolution adopted by the Senate and House, drawn by Senator Tillman and Representative Padgett, chairmen of the naval committees, was as follows:

"Resolved, That the Senate has learned with profound grief of the death of Admiral of the Navy George Dewey, who has served his country brilliantly for more than 62 years.

"Resolved, That the president of the Senate is directed to transmit to his bereaved family a copy of these resolutions, and an assurance of the sympathy of the Senate in the loss they have sustained.

Senate Adjourns Out of Respect.

"Resolved, That the president of the Senate appoint a committee of seven members to confer with a like committee of the House, and after consultation with the family of the deceased, to take such action as may be appropriate in regard to the public funeral of Admiral Dewey.

"Resolved, That as a further mark of respect the Senate do now adjourn."

President Reviews Dewey's Career.

The President's message followed: "It is with deepest regret that I announce to the Congress the death of Admiral George Dewey at 5:56 o'clock on the afternoon of yesterday, the 17th of January, at his residence in this city.

"Admiral Dewey entered the naval service of the country as an acting midshipman from the First Congressional District of Vermont on September 23, 1854; was graduated from the Naval Academy as midshipman June 14, 1858; served with distinction throughout the war of 1861-1865, and 30 years later had risen to the rank of Commodore.

"It was as Commodore that he rendered the service in the action of Manila Bay, which has given him a place forever memorable in the naval annals of the country. At the time of his death he held the exceptional rank of the Admiral of the Navy by special act of Congress. During the later years of his life he was the honored president of the General Board of the Navy, to whose duties he gave the most assiduous attention and of which office he rendered a service to the Navy quite invaluable in its sincerity and quality of practical sagacity.

Sterling Qualities Mentioned.

"It is pleasant to recall what qualities gave him his well-deserved fame, his practical directness, his courage without self-consciousness, his efficient capacity in matters of administration, the readiness to fight without asking any questions or hesitating about any details. It was by such qualities that he continued and added luster to the best traditions of our Navy. He had the stuff in him which all true men admire and upon which all statesmen must depend in hour of peril.

"The people and the Government of the United States will always rejoice to perpetuate his name in all honor and affection."

President Wilson also issued the following executive order:

"As a token of respect to the memory of Admiral George Dewey it is hereby ordered that the National flag be displayed at half-mast upon all public buildings and at all forts and military posts and naval stations and all vessels of the United States, with the exception until after the funeral shall have taken place, and that on the day of the funeral the executive offices in the city of Washington be closed."

RAE-TANZER STILL FIRM

JAMES W. OSBORNE AGAIN DECLARED WOOER.

Girl Says Previous Admission of Mistake Was Made on Advice of Attorney to Avoid Prosecution.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Miss Rae Tanzer testified under cross-examination today that "Oliver Osborne," who she now asserts to be James W. Osborne, ex-Assistant District Attorney, proposed marriage one hour after they met. Miss Tanzer was a witness for the defense in the trial of Franklin D. Safford, who is charged with perjury in the proceedings that grew out of Miss Tanzer's breach-of-promise suit against the attorney.

While Miss Tanzer gave this testimony, the man she accuses and Charles H. Wax, who asserts he courted her while masquerading under the name of "Oliver Osborne," sat facing her only a few feet away.

Miss Tanzer admitted having told the United States District Attorney in March, 1915, that she made an honest mistake in accusing Attorney Osborne, but insisted she had been forced to make the statement by her attorney, who assured her if she withdrew her charges the case against her would be dropped.

"I wanted to tell the truth; I could not keep it in any longer," Miss Tanzer said when asked why she had later recanted her new story.

Woman Gets House Seat.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Evangeline Hearst, Democrat of Denver, today was sworn in as a member of the lower house of the Colorado Legislature, following a report by the elections committee, which said that a recount showed she received more than 100 votes more than George P. Waters, Republican, of Denver, whose election she contested.

Mrs. Hearst is the second woman to hold a place in the Legislature at this session. Senator Agnes Riddle, of Arapahoe county, being the first.

"This great book in such compact form is simply superb!"

India paper makes the new Encyclopaedia Britannica so light in weight that you can easily lift it and move it about—and there are 44,000,000 words, 30,000 pages, 15,000 illustrations and maps in it!

Only a few sets printed on genuine India paper are still unsold. Act at once if you hope to own one of these. They are the last that can be offered printed on this marvelous thin-and-tough paper.

ANYTHING that we might say as to the advantages of the Britannica printed on India paper could not be put stronger and more convincingly than is this paragraph:

By a Big City Merchant

"I bought the Britannica to use. I expect to get out of it in dollars many times more than I paid for it. I know what a wonderful book it is for anyone who uses it. India paper makes it so light, so convenient, so inviting, that one can't fail to read it frequently. You say the Britannica printed on India paper is 'five times more valuable' than an ordinary book paper. I should say 'a hundred times more valuable.' This is based on my own experience.

"I owned a set of the old Britannica on heavy paper, but I didn't read in it four times a year. It was too heavy; I never had much inclination to look up anything in those big, bulky books.

"I've had the new Britannica, printed on the delightful India paper, less than six months. I use it constantly, looking up whatever I want to know, sometimes reading as many as four and five articles a night."

This experience is repeated over and over in the case of owners of the new Britannica, for of the 160,000 sets already sold, more than 150,000 were India paper sets. The use of this wonderful linenlike paper for printing the world's most interesting and most comprehensive book of knowledge was inspired by the thought that it would increase the handiness of the Britannica—hence, increase its real value to those who possess it.

What the Britannica will do for you

Think of the Britannica as an investment, and consider whether you know any other way of investing the same amount of money, or ten times the amount, that will yield such large returns in profit and pleasure.

The Britannica will stimulate you to improve your education, whether or not you've had a college education. It will furnish you with a teacher of any subject you wish to study—a teacher who is master of his subject and who is always at your command.

It will give you the answer to the thousand and three questions prompted by the morning paper, lectures, sermons and books. It will make everything you see, read and hear more interesting.

It will put you in touch with all the interesting people in the world—the scientists and their ideas. It will give you hundreds of five topics to talk about.

It will help you form an intelligent opinion on all the questions of the day and follow the course of current events both at home and abroad.

It will enable you to lay out a plan of education for your children and keep abreast with their studies.

It will give you the history of every country in the world, every race, every city and the lives of all the men and women who have left their mark upon the world.

It will serve as a guide to the literature of every country, will cultivate your appreciation of music and the fine arts; it will explain science to you. It will increase the efficiency with which you perform your duties, whatever they are.

It will build up your self-confidence, your influence upon others.

Miss Gertrude B. Lane, Editor of the Woman's Home Companion, writes: "Since the publication of the 'Handy Volume' Britannica the task of dragging down a heavy, bulky book from the shelf is no longer a matter for serious consideration; perhaps that is why I have found myself really using the book dozens of times each day rather than merely referring to it occasionally to clear up some obscure point in my reading."
