

POINCARÉ OPPOSES TEMPORARY PEACE

French President Comments on Wilson's Note and Friendship for America.

REPARATION IS DEMANDED

Nation Feels That It Is Fighting on Defensive, but Is Not Willing to Be Obligated to Defend Itself Perpetually.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—President Poincaré has received Edward Marshall, an American newspaper writer, at the Palace of the Elysee, and talked with him in regard to President Wilson's note and the reply of the entente allies. The crux of the interview appears in these words of the President: "We are condemned to continue the war until we, our gallant allies and ourselves, can obtain the reparation and guarantees rendered indispensable by the aggressions of which we have been the victims, by the sacrifices to which we have subjected ourselves, and by the losses which we have suffered."

RELATIONS WITH AMERICA CLOSER

"May I tell America that France is our friend, even though we are not fighting with her?" the American visitor asked. "The United States of America and France are closely united by ineffaceable common recollections, by the same political traditions, by the same attachment to free institutions," said President Poincaré. "This war, which Germany unleashed upon Europe and which France did everything to avert, could not alter the good relations between the United States and France. It has even made them closer and strengthened them."

"The United States," M. Poincaré continued thoughtfully, "has remained neutral, but the sympathies of individuals in every section have manifested themselves in favor of France and her allies. We have been deeply moved by innumerable demonstrations of friendship."

Belgium Held Symbolical. "The violation of Belgium brings out the symbolical significance of this whole war. Germany was not satisfied with declaring war on us without protection; she had willed to butcher us without warning, and to attain that end, she trampled under her feet in passing a sacred people, the Belgians. It is enough evidence by which to judge the responsibilities of our enemies; it is enough to define the nature of the struggle in which we are engaged."

"Are you willing to make some comment with regard to President Wilson's note?" the correspondent asked. "Knowing as we do the feelings of America, we have not failed to understand the thought which inspired the recent initiative of President Wilson," M. Poincaré replied. "I am convinced that in the mind of the illustrious President the suggestion made to the belligerents was in accord with the traditional friendship between our two nations. But, being conscious that we are fighting for mankind, we find ourselves without the right to lay down our weapons before we can sign a peace really humane and which would spare the world from the repetition of such a terrible catastrophe as this war."

Germany Not Ripe for Peace. "Unhappily, it is certain that Germany, who now pretends to consider herself victorious, although she can hardly enterprisingly do so, is not ripe as yet for such a necessary peace."

"The answer which the allied nations collectively have just given to President Wilson is perfectly clear in this respect. For our part, we have nothing to conceal. We were attacked. We are defending ourselves. We are not willing to be obliged to defend ourselves perpetually against fresh attacks. Therefore, we are determined to have restoration of the past and guarantees for the future."

"You feel that the President was justified in putting to the belligerent powers the question which he asked?" "It will not be from our side," said President Poincaré, "that will come any repulse of the generous ideas of President Wilson regarding the international agreements to be concluded as soon as the peace is signed in order to assure respect for the pledges given."

Restoration Put First. "On the contrary, we are willingly shall associate ourselves with his noble intentions. But in order that such understandings later may produce their full, beneficial effect, we must begin by restoring the right violated, and by protecting Europe against a peace which would contain the germ of future outbreaks."

The correspondent asked President Poincaré whether France felt the return of her lost provinces, Alsace and Lorraine, as essential to the conclusion of a satisfactory peace.

"In our reply," said the President, "we also have pointed out that the return of provinces torn away in the past by main strength or separated from us against the will of their inhabitants. Note this, that during 44 years France has struggled the pain which her old wounds have caused her."

"In 1871 Germany took from her Alsace and Lorraine, and against the unanimous wish of the inhabitants. Whatever may have been the burning regret which she felt for this, France never would have been willing to make a war of revenge."

"Instead we waited, taking care to avoid all occasions for conflict. France proved herself patient and resigned. She endured provocations such as that of Agadir and many others."

"But today, when war has been declared upon her without just motives; today, when her blood has been poured out through the fault of others, how could she fail to claim vindication founded upon right and justice? President Wilson and the people of the United States certainly will understand the high moral import of the answer of the allies."

PROGRESS OF THE WAR.

ARTILLERY bombardments and patrol engagements appear to be occupying the armies on the entrenched war fronts of Europe. Current official communications from the capitals of the warring nations mentioned no hard fighting except on the western end of the front in Moldavia. Austro-German guns are pounding at Oena, a railroad town in the Trots Valley, according to Petrograd. In the Suchitza Valley, farther southward, Russian attacks, Berlin says, failed with heavy losses. On the eastern end of the front between Fokshani and Galatz there has been no important activity, and Field Marshal von Mackensen apparently has been checked in his advance on the Sereth River.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(By wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The Overseas News Agency gave out the following for publication: "The Zeitung am Mittag has published the details of the report of a sergeant-major of prisoners, a corporal of telephone detachment and a grand-ader, all of whom declared Germans taken prisoner by the French were coerced into doing work directly connected with the war. This was done by the direct orders of the chief commander on the Verdun front, that is General Nivelle, in supreme command of the French forces on the west front. The statements made by these three soldiers, who escaped from the French, follow: "Without interruption, German prisoners are forced to work in face of violent artillery fire, and in spite of daily sanguinary losses, to do work on roads and railroads carrying ammunition and material, while the French from behind shoot at them if they attempt to escape from the zone of fire. If prisoners are new to the zone, the leaders of the detachments receive threats that they will be shot according to the order of the chief commander of the army."

"Those taken prisoner were lodged near a depot at Balleu-Court, not far from Verdun, where they were exposed to a strong artillery fire. Their losses were 25 men within two months."

1000 U-BOATS BUILDING. GERMANS BELIEVE SUBMARINES WILL BRING VICTORY.

Neutral Writer in Cologne Says Berlin Hopes to Gain Place of Dictator of Terms of Peace.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Times prints an article this morning by a neutral, the article purporting to be dispatched from Cologne on January 12, uncorroborated, deals, among other things, with submarines, and says: "While it is true that the big submarines have not been the success expected, the feverish building of submarine parts in various manufacturing towns seems to indicate that the government shares the general opinion, which is spreading everywhere in Germany, that the submarine can make victory out of the present abyssal gloom."

The correspondent quotes the head of one of the largest manufacturing concerns in Europe who is a strong advocate of peace as saying that the point of view of the German government is that the war is being fought to a starvation match between Germany and her enemies, and that the submarines may place Germany in a position to dictate terms.

"More than 1000 submarines," said this man, "are now in course of construction; 800 are in use and more than 100 have been lost from all causes. Submarine crews are being trained in 12 weeks. Submarines are operating in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean, and communication between Holland and England continues only by permission of the German government, which, for its own purposes, allows certain steamers to run."

FERRY HINDERED BY ICE. Vancouver Boat Delayed by Floes in Channel.

YANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—The Vancouver ferry valiantly tried to run on schedule today, but the heavy ice floes will likely prevent the regular boat from operating tomorrow. On several occasions the ferry was heavy that it took the boat more than an hour to make the usual 10-minute trip, and once it drifted far towards the rails before it could get free from the ice.

If the ice is heavier in the morning, as is expected, the boat will undoubtedly tie up. Pedestrians can cross on the nearly completed Interstate Bridge, which was pressed into service the last week of December, when ice prevented the regular boat from running.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(By wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—A member of the German Reichstag, Matthias Erzberger, one of the leaders of the Catholic Centrum party, has expressed to the Overseas News Agency his opinion of the entente allies' reply to President Wilson. Herr Erzberger is quoted as saying: "The entente want the reorganization of Europe from top to bottom, and wish to base this reorganization upon certain principles which are not entirely consistent with each other and often even clash among themselves. "In the first place, the entente want to base this upon the principle of nationalities and of the rights of all small and large nations, and in the second place the entente desire that the provinces and districts which are not voluntarily taken from the entente by force or against the will of their inhabitants shall be given back. The entente contends, at the same time, that she herself ought to be judge and plaintiff in one and that she herself be established as court and render judgment."

No man hunt, officials said, would be organized just at this moment, because no man could be found who knew exactly what he would do if he encountered the entente. The police department of Vallejo stood firmly on the statement that it had received no official notification of the war in the district in which Banates lives for a while was burned last night. He left his shack at the County Hospital late yesterday.

ARMED SHIP IS AT CANAL. GOVERNOR HARDING ASKS FOR RULING IN SUCH CASES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Application for permission to pass through the Panama Canal by a Japanese merchant ship with guns mounted "for defensive purposes," as said by her commanding officer, has caused Governor Harding, of the canal, who is now in Washington, to ask for a definition of the rule to be followed in such cases. The War Department has referred the matter to the State Department for a decision.

The War Department already has held that there is nothing in the President's proclamation issued early in the war, defining the conditions under which warships might use the canal, which would place any limitation on the passage of merchant ships armed for defense. In view of the possibility that the whole subject of the status of armed merchant vessels may be reopened, it was deemed advisable to refer the matter to the State Department.

The Japanese government recently notified the United States of her intention to arm merchantmen for defense and asked whether any special regulations applied to such ships.

The object of the measure, the Deputy says, is to prevent a false conception historically of the origin of the war. M. Roche and his colleagues supporting the bill point out that history refers to certain previous wars as invasions by Attila, by the Teutons and by the Cimbrians.
