It was a great battle from start to finish from a Portland standpoint for never were the Uncle Sams in danger. They scored three goals in each of the three periods and they had their de-fense working so that the visitors were allowed but one goal, that coming in the first period after 10 minutes of play. Strange as it may seem, Tommy Dun-derdale, the clever little Portland rover, was on the ice throughout the entire match. Heretofore he has been penalized anywhere from three to 30 minutes a period in his matches during the 1916-17 season, but last night he kept his hea- and went after goals. He scored scoring the goals came in the las period, when Bob Genge and Clen Loughlin tangled. There was a general jamboree in the Northwest corner of the ice. All of a sudden the combatants were separated and just when they were being ushered to the penalty bench, Genge sent a right cross to Loughlin's jaw. They were at it again but that was all, Beferee Irvine and Judge of Play Seaborn grabbing them and sending them to the bench for 10 minutes.
