

ALAMO OPENED TO GENERAL FUNSTON

Signal Honor Is Paid by San Antonio to Late Commander of Army.

FUNERAL SERVICE SIMPLE

Popularity of Officer Is Shown in Number of Floral Tributes Almost Filling Building and Representing All Classes.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 20.—A funeral service of military simplicity, in which regulars at Fort Sam Houston, National Guardsmen at Camp Wilson and thousands of civilians from San Antonio joined, was held this afternoon for the late General Frederick Funston, commander of the Southern Department, whose sudden death occurred last night from a heart ailment.

The culminating honor paid the dead general here was the placing of his body within the Alamo, the first time that historic structure has been used for such a purpose.

The only religious services held today were at the Alamo, the official residence at Fort Sam Houston. Chaplain Barton W. Perry, of the Third Field Artillery, read the prayer, and the burial service, "Lead, Kindly Light," was played by the Nineteenth Infantry Band. A procession formed at the residence after this brief service in order as follows:

Police, mounted orderlies, Nineteenth Infantry Band, Thirty-seventh Infantry, Battery E of the Seventh Field Artillery, Squadron A of the Alabama Cavalry, General Funston's body, carried on a caisson; General Funston's pallbearers, officers of General Funston's staff and of the Southern Department.

Arrangements for placing General Funston's body within the Alamo were made this morning after a conference between city and county officials and officers of the Southern Department because of the general's personal popularity with San Antonio citizens. This popularity extended to all classes, and was evidenced this afternoon in the floral offerings, which almost filled the Alamo. Costly floral tributes were sent by side with the simple tributes of humble workmen, who, with official heads, filled the building.

Train Will Skirt Border.

The route of General Funston's funeral train for more than 1000 miles will skirt the international border over which the late commander kept a watchful eye for 11 months.

The private soldiers standing at attention beside the caisson on the train will be relieved every two hours.

At the service this afternoon, the most of the officers attending was in full dress. Like the enlisted men, all wore the regular khaki service uniform, the only distinction being the designating stars, or bars, and the sidearms that the officers wore. This was done by regular officers out of consideration for the officers of the National Guard, many of whom had only service uniforms here.

The one incident distinguishing the funeral service from that of any other was that of the chaplain finished reading the burial service at General Funston's residence. At that moment 13 cannon boomed out the Major-General's salute. The band of the Nineteenth Infantry then began playing softly "Lead Kindly Light."

Muffled Drums Beat on March.

Only once on the two-mile march from Fort Sam Houston to the Alamo did the band play a funeral march. The remainder of the way only the solemn beat of muffled drums marked the progress of the long procession.

At the Alamo, where the most touching incident of the funeral occurred when Brigadier-General Henry J. Greene, commander of the Provisional Division at Camp Wilson, stepped apart from the group of officers with whom he had been standing and approached the caisson where General Funston lay. He gazed intently at the face a few moments, then bent over, patted the dead commander's head gently, turned and walked out of the building.

CANNOT WORK OR PLAY

When you are run down in health so that it impairs the efficiency of your work as well as your power to enjoy the pleasures of life it is time that you gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The condition that doctors describe as all is outside of the experience of most physicians until the blood has become so impoverished that it can be called anemia. Unless this condition of bloodlessness has been reached you simply complain of failing energy, loss of appetite, constipation, lack of ambition and animation. If you are well-to-do your physician will probably advise a change of climate. If not, he will tell you there is nothing much to be done for you. He means that there is no organic trouble.

BILL TO BE RELEASED

ARMY STAFFS TRAINING PLAN TO BE SENT TO CONGRESS.

Secretary Burke Does Not Indicate Whether or Not War Department Will Make Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Army general staff's universal military service and training bill probably will be sent to Congress during the present session, Secretary Baker said today, but the first year under the staff plan, followed by two weeks of review work during each of the next two years. Reserves would not be subject to call thereafter except in case of a war emergency, and then only for defensive operations.

The staff plan, based on a year's intensive instruction for boys beginning in the 19th year, would bring about half a million men of that age to the colors each year. The Senate military bill already ready for introduction would provide for six months' training for about the same number of men.

Given months of training would be given the first year under the staff plan, followed by two weeks of review work during each of the next two years. Reserves would not be subject to call thereafter except in case of a war emergency, and then only for defensive operations.

ADOPTION OF U-BOAT ASKED

Support of Crews by German Cities and Towns Proposed.

COPENHAGEN, via London, Feb. 20.—The Kiel Zeitung, a copy of which has been received here, announces that a new plan for the promotion of German submarines is starting throughout Germany.

Under the plan it is proposed that the imperial towns each "adopt" one submarine and its crew, entirely defraying the cost of the upkeep of the vessel and men, supplying them with clothes, food, and other necessities, and paying pensions to disabled men or widows.

Initiative Not Changed.

Another amendment is one requiring that all future amendments be declared on their face the parts of the constitution that they propose to repeal or amend, and that the repeal of any constitutional article or section by implication. This was the only one of a number of proposed amendments suggested by the Constitutional Revision Association that got by. Another one proposed by the Club of Portland, and aimed at making it harder to get initiative measures on the ballot, was defeated.

The Senate likewise killed the one requiring a majority of all votes cast at an election to adopt any constitutional amendment. The present law requires a majority of all votes cast on the measure.

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—W. W. Chapin, a newspaper publisher formerly of Seattle, was sued for divorce in an action filed here today by Mrs. Katherine Gray Chapin. She alleges cruelty, both mental and physical.
