Nichol Simpson looked like a "brass nickel" in his tilt with Sid Mitchell, a rangy Australian from Seattle. Both boys were awkward, and, although there were many punches landed, the erowd did not warm up to the battle. Simpson appeared very tired from the

If the second game of the National play-off is in Ottawa March 10 I do not see any reason why the winners of the play-off between Ottawa and of the play-off between Ottawa and Canadiens cannot leave on the midnight train," said President Patrick. "They would arrive in Vancouver the morning of March 15 and in Seattle the same evening. With one day's rest they could easily play Seattle March 16. The Portland team last year arrived in Montreal on Sunday night and played the first game of the world's series Monday night and won it."

Bernie Morris' Goal Expensive to Players and League.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 6.—(Special.)—If Bernie Morris, of the Seattle Mets, had stopped to think in Portland on Friday night when he shot the goal that won the game and the champion-ship for Seattle and the league scoring ship for Seattle and the league scoring honors for himself he might never have let it loose, or at least he might have become nervous and fumbled the puck. For that shot will go down in the history of hockey as the "five-thousand-dollar shot." Bernie probably had no idea how much money his shot was go-eague in gates, not to mention the players getting a week's extra salary.

Altogether it looks as though Bernie Mooris' shot was the most expensive in nockey history.

Veteran Pitcher Asks for One More Trial With Beavers, Saying He's in Shape.

1916 RECORD IS NOT GOOD

Former Hero of Portland Fandom Indicates He Is Free Agent. Baseball Boosters Called to Session Saturday.

BY HARRY M. GRAYSON. Who do you think wants to come back to Portland? No one else but Irve Higginbotham. that grizzled veteran of the National pastime who for nearly six years toiled on the hillock for McCredie; the same Higgy who for season after season was the hero of the Portland fans; the same Higgy who single-handed practically pitched the Beavers to their last pennant in 1914.

In a special delivery letter mailed from Yates Center, Kan., Hig's home town, and received at baseball headquarters yesterday, iron-armed live speaks as if he is a free agent. Hig-ginbotham was sold by Portland to Oakland in the middle of last season.

His work with the Cak's was as bad as it had been the few months previous with the Beavers and he was as out of place in the Coast League as a faro layout in a Sunday school Consequently Higgy was cut off the Oakland pay-roll and the big pitcher with hands like bunches of bananas was as friendess as an alarm clock.

Hig cast his line once more and caught on with the Des Moines, Ia., club, where his record was far from imposing. He took part in 20 games with Des Moines, winning seven and losing 12, while in the Coast League with Portland and Oakland he started 28 times with the coast League with Portland and Oakland he started 28 times, winning but four and walk-ing to the bench raging from disap-pointment on nine different occasions.

George S. Shepherd and Hugh McCredle, in charge of baseball head-quarters during the absence of the MeCredles, answered Irve vesterday, informing him that Walter McCredles would be advised of his letter upon his arrival in California. They told Hig to write Walter at Stockton so that he will be able to get prompt action on the subject in case he decides to give Higginbotham another trial or place him in the Northwestern League.
