SUICIDE EFFORT BALKED
Faulty Gas Meter Fails to Deliver Killing Ration.
Henry Lochenmeyer, Florist From Lockport, Pa., Rescued, but Refuses to Discuss Act.
A defect in the gas meter, which shut off the supply before a full quota had been delivered, prevented Henry Lochenmeyer, a florist, of Lockport, Pa., from taking his own life in a rooming-house at 233 Fifth street yesterday.
Making all apertures tight with torn paper and rags, Lochenmeyer dropped 25 cents in the gas meter, covered his face with a blanket, thrust a connecting gas tube beneath his chosen pall and lay down to die. As the fumes stole his consciousness he fell from the bed and floundered about on the floor. Then the gas meter quit.
Miss Beryl Grayson, a lodger, heard the commotion and called the manager. They found the door to Lochenmeyer's room tightly bolted and summoned the police.
Detective Swennes, with Patrolmen Crane and Gouldstone, broke through a window and rescued the would-be suicide, who was prone beneath the bed. The stove and other furniture in the room had been overturned by his struggles. He was able to walk to the patrol wagon and was taken to the

BRENT SEES COOS YARDS
MILLS PROMISE MATERIAL FOR 24 VESSELS A YEAR.
Marshfield and North Bend Believe Bay Region Will Get Share of Government Contracts.
MARSHFIELD, Or., April 12.—(Special.)—The visit of Theodore Brent, vice-chairman of the Federal Shipping Board, to Coos Bay today is said to have resulted in a tentative understanding that Coos Bay would get a good portion of the Government ship building that will be done on the Pacific Coast, and will probably be awarded at least 12 of the ships. However, nothing definite could be said until Mr. Brent makes his official report to the Shipping Board.
Mr. Brent and others here guaranteed the mills could saw sufficient shipbuilding material to construct 24 vessels every year. This would necessitate opening another yard in addition to the Kruse & Banks yard at North Bend, and a new one will probably be located at the Smith mills.
Mr. Brent left this morning by way of Eugene for San Francisco, and was met at Eugene by Naval Architect Underwood.

Tracey, the regent. Mrs. Hornbrook is the wife of W. H. Hornbrook, editor of the Albany Democrat and former United States Minister to Spain.
