

JOHN'S ESTRANGED BROTHER SUCCEUMBS

Frank Rockefeller Passes at Home in Cleveland at Age of 72 Years.

WEALTH IS CONSIDERABLE

Speaking Relations Not Maintained With Oil King and Mention of Blood Tie Resented—Model Stock Farm Operated.

CLEVELAND, April 15.—Frank Rockefeller, 72, youngest brother of John D. Rockefeller, died today. He was not on speaking terms with his brother, John D., as a result of a quarrel they had years ago.

Frank Rockefeller was a brother of John D. Rockefeller and William A. Rockefeller, and was for many years associated with them in the oil business, but was not as widely known as they.

Born in Richmond, N. Y., in 1845, he was the youngest of the three Rockefeller boys, and when his brothers organized the Standard Oil Company he became identified with them, serving for a time as one of the vice-presidents. He acquired considerable wealth, but his relations with his brothers became strained and he severed business connections with them.

Stock Business Entered. In 1900 he turned his attention to stock raising, purchasing 12,000 acres at Belvidere, Kan., for a stock farm, which became recognized as a model throughout the Southwest.

Although he closely resembled his brothers, he was more sturdy and a little more squarely built than they and well equipped physically for the new work he had undertaken. Attired like a farmhand, he was the active "boss" of his ranch, and when fences were to be repaired, ditches dug, or other heavy work to be done, he did his part.

Some of the purest bred cattle in the world were to be found on his Kansas farm, and from there he also directed large range interests in Texas and Arizona.

Frank Rockefeller always manifested great aversion to being referred to as "John D. Rockefeller's brother," or "the other Rockefeller."

Publicity Avoided Stodiously. "I am Frank Rockefeller, stockman," he would say, "not Frank Rockefeller, a brother of John D." He studiously avoided newspaper publicity.

Although exceedingly fond of horse trotting as a sport, he confined his indulgence in it to his own track, on his own place, with his own horses. "Next to my family," he once remarked, "I love animals more than anything else in the world, and by simply having fun with them I have found out a good many things and learned a good many lessons that I could never have learned otherwise."

One of his great desires was to prevent the disappearance of the buffalo. He presented a grant many wild beasts and birds to the zoological gardens in Cleveland and some to other cities. During five months in the year, Mr. Rockefeller lived in Cleveland, as did his brother, John D., but they were never seen together.

DAILY ROUTINE AT PULLMAN TO HAVE PLENTY OF TOIL.

Enactment After Week's Vigorous Training to Conclude With Sham Battle With Idaho Boys.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, April 15.—(Special.)—The entire cadet battalion of the State College, numbering 650 student soldiers, augmented by faculty members of the officers training corps, will encamp for the week ending April 23 in the vicinity of Pullman. Eight hours of drill and marching will be the daily routine of the cadets, according to the statement today by Captain Frederick J. Ostermann, commandant of the cadet battalion of the State College.

The encampment will substitute for the proposed two weeks' tour of Yellowstone National Park, announced by the military department of the college some time ago. Daily drills in the annual of arms, camp sanitation and tent pitching will be supplemented by practice on the target ranges and practice in the construction of trenches.

The culmination of the week's period of vigorous training will be celebrated by a sham battle with the 200 cadets of the University of Idaho. The battalion of the Idaho cadets will arrive at Pullman early on the morning of the 23rd, and the sham battle will be fought within battle range.

GERMAN REPORTS RIDICULED BY SOME NEWSPAPERS.

Others Indulge in Attacks on America Which Are Equaled by Few Really Teutonic Editors.

BERNE, April 15, via Paris, April 15.—(Delayed.)—The combination of the Wilson message and the interviews granted by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to a Spanish correspondent have furnished the Swiss press with food for seemingly unlimited editorial comment, which it utilizes quite as variously as the differences in the language of the publication or temperament of the editors.

Papers published in the French language not only give the utmost prominence to the British victory, but also ridicule upon von Hindenburg for declaring in the very hour that the entente forces were capturing Germans by the thousands, that the western front was secure. These papers also make report of the German official communications.

The Germanophile portion of the German language press, on the other hand, takes delight in indulging in attacks on America equaled by few in any other language.

General Carranza concluded by saying that history would show whether he has complied with his duty as a first chief. He assured Congress of his sincerity and disinterestedness of his motives and declared his only object was the redemption of the Mexican people. He urged Congress to do its duty and to show that the revolution had not been a failure.
