TEXAS IS CHURCH SPEAKER

Prof. P. W. Horn, Superintendent of Schools in Eastern Texas, addressed the children of Central Presbyterian Church yesterday. He told them interesting experiences in the Southland, speaking in particular of Easter Sunday in El Paso, where he addressed a large number of little Mexican children. "It is about as dry there," said Professor Horn, "as it is wet here." The little people of Central Church expressed profound interest in the story of the resurrection plant, which is found in that section, and of characteristic features of the desert country. Dr. F. Bishop preached the regular sermon. The church was filled to overflowing and the parlors were opened for service.

NURSES ASSOCIATION TO MEET—The Visiting Nurse Association will hold its annual meeting this afternoon in room B, Central Library, starting at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Robert G. Dieck, president, has specially invited all who are interested in the visiting nurse work to attend. There will be a number of reports, showing the work accomplished during the past year, and the last year in its efforts to relieve suffering and to improve the condition of the extremely poor.

WAR SHIPS PROMISED

NAVY DEPARTMENT RECOGNIZES ROSE FESTIVAL CLAIM.

Meeting Will Be Held Tonight to Plan Whirlwind Canvass for $25,000 to Stage Event.

There is every indication that Portland will have one or two war ships in the harbor for the Rose Festival June 13, 14, 15, unless the war situation at the time is such that no vessels can be spared.

Following telegraphic information from Washington that Secretary of the Navy Daniels is favorable to the proposition, there came a letter yesterday from United States Senator Chamberlain, in which he promised the Festival Association to do everything possible to persuade the Navy Department to detail a ship or two to Portland during the June-time demonstration.

It is understood that the Government took a favorable attitude toward the requests of Senator Chamberlain and Representative Hawley for ships, particularly because the Festival this year is expected to receive largely to patriotic demonstrations.

Tonight the festival board and committees from a score or more patriotic, civic and business organizations and clubs will meet at the Oregon Hotel for the purpose of making final preparations for the whirlwind canvass to raise the $25,000 necessary to finance this year's Festival.

Weather permitting, the campaign will start Tuesday and continue until the latter part of the week.

HONOR GUARD TO DRILL

HILL MILITARY ACADEMY WILL TRAIN PATRIOTIC GIRLS. Organization Will Take Active Part in Parade Next Thursday; New Classes Are to Start.

The Honor Guard will take part in the big patriotic parade next Thursday at 3 o'clock. In order that they may make a good showing and add to the dignity of the parade, Joseph Hill, of Hill Military Academy, has offered the drill, as well as his personal services in drilling the girls correctly. All members of the three corps of the Honor Guard are earnestly requested to be present at the drills tonight and tomorrow night and Wednesday afternoon, April 18. The Hill Academy is located on Marshall street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets.

An important meeting of the Second Corps in social service work will be held at the Hillers Hall tonight, Mrs. J. George Keller (phone Marshall 580) is captain of the Second Corps.

All the auto classes at all and classes in first aid are being formed by Miss Jean Mackenzie. Those who wish to join may call the city office, A 3457, or call at 312 Selling building.

An important business meeting will be held at the Hill Military Academy Tuesday evening after the drill.

PUMP FACTORY PROPOSED

Irrigation Equipment Concern is Considering Portland.

Portland may become the manufacturing center for high-grade irrigation equipment as the result of investigations about to be undertaken in Oregon, Washington and Idaho by W. R. Layne, well-known hydraulic engineer of California, who has just arrived here yesterday morning. Mr. Layne represents a syndicate of pump manufacturers, he says.

Despite the fact that parts of Western Oregon and Washington have long maintained that the abundant rainfall renders irrigation unnecessary in most instances, this is far from the fact, said Mr. Layne yesterday.

BAKER PLAY STRONG

"The House of Glass" Admirably Put On.

PARTS ALL WELL TAKEN

Story Is Life of Girl Who Gets Emmeshed Innocently by Criminal and Escapes, Then Marries, but Arm of Law Follows Her.

"THE HOUSE OF GLASS" AT THE BAKER. Nellie Ethel Whitmer. Margaret Case Alina MacDermott. Mrs. Brandt Lora Rogers. Frank Karl Vanden. James Burke Will Lloyd. Carroll George R. Taylor. Crowley Charles Compton. Watson George Bradford. Harvey Albert McGovern. Edward McClellan Harold Holland. Judson Atwood Geo. P. Webster. Edith Correy Jones. Edith Eleanor Parker. Hon. H. T. Patterson Henry Norman.

BY LEONE CASS BAER. The crook is rapidly becoming as necessary to drama as are references to Hans Wagner, a certain well known musical comedy plots. Ever since the never-will-be-forgotten "Within the Law" brought jaded theater patrons to the edges of their several and collective seats and kept them there, we have seen a parade of crooks, masculins and femines, in an inexhaustible number of guises and forms.

Max Marcin in "The House of Glass" which opened yesterday at the Baker Theater with the deplorable Alena players in excellent acting roles, has followed the theatrical philosophy of George M. Cohan and "given the public what it wants."

This detective role, played by George R. Taylor, is a brilliant piece of character drawing.

The story centers about the attempt of Margaret Case to escape the constantly threatening shadow of the law. When a young girl, stenographer she is made the innocent victim in a robbery and serves a year in prison and break-back her parole, leaves for new scenes and a new life in the West. She marries happily and eight years later the arm of the law descends upon her and she comes face to face with the detective who has relentlessly hunted her. Margaret's husband is the man who lives in the "glass house."

The story of "The House of Glass" concerns the lesson taught the husband that people who live in glass houses must not throw stones.

Alina MacDermott plays the emotional role of Margaret Case with undoubted power and brings to life the transition from the impressionable girl of 19 to the resourceful woman of 27.

Will F. Lloyd, as Burke, did an excellent piece of work. He gave a rugged clean-cut performance, whether he was fighting the police on his own behalf or on behalf of the girl who suffered through his misdemeanors. Albert McGovern played Lake, the husband, with subtlety and quiet force, suggesting at all times the strength and sincerity of the cold austere exterior. Harold Holland gave an excellent performance of the breezy lawyer friend of the Lakes. George R. Taylor portrayed rigorously the detective. In Oregon, Norman was a benevolent Governor. Lora Rogers is delightful as a busy and inquisitive landlady. Charles Compton distinguishes himself as always, an exceptionally clever work, as Crowley. Correy Jones is a peach-of-a-Jap, and Eleanor Parker is a monkey in a cast is augmented, and the scenic equipment is notably fine. If you care for excellent dramatic entertainment you'll like "The House of Glass" at the Baker this week.

NEWLYWED IS IN JAIL

M. ZELLER, ALIAS ALBERT ADAMS, ACCUSED OF FORGING CHECK. Paper Given by Youth on Raymond Bank Leads to Arrest of Operator Once Paroled.

M. Zeller, alias Albert Adams, who Monroe with Victoria Kingburg, few weeks ago, was arrested yesterday morning by Alfred C. Holmes, superintendent of the Pinkerton's National Detective Agency, and Detective Snow, who is working on charges of forgery preferred by the Willapa State Bank at Raymond, Wash. He will be returned to this city.

Zeller is charged with having passed a bad check on Otto Sampson, a Montana grocer. The check was recently signed by Tessie Linder, hotel proprietor at Raymond, for whom, it is said, Zeller once worked as cook. When arrested in Portland he was working at a local bowling alley, and was questioned by detectives Saturday. He said the check had been sent to him by M. Zeller at Raymond. He was known in Portland as Adams. When his bride, of a few weeks called for him at the bowling alley at 7 o'clock Saturday night Zeller left saying he would return soon. He failed to reappear Saturday night and yesterday morning Superintendent Snow and the city detectives and made the arrest at Montavilla, where Zeller was seeking to settle up with his victim. Zeller was arrested in 1911 on a similar offense and paroled by Judge Gantenbein.

KINDNESS WEEK IS HERE

PRACTICE OF MERCY TO DUMB ANIMALS IS IN ORDER.

Daily Instruction on Humane Treatment Given in Schools; Motion Picture Houses Co-operate.

Today is great on the calendar of kindness. It is the first of Humane Week, during which petition is made for kindness to all living creatures.

Launched under the auspices of the Oregon Humane Society, it and its fellows are set apart for the practice of mercy and consideration for the voiceless.

In Portland the teachers of public and private schools have been asked to give daily instruction on the humane treatment of animals, and have declared their happy co-operation in the work. Motion picture theaters have responded to the plea for aid in spreading the gospel of kindness by arranging to flash appropriate slogans on their screens.

In one theater, a Persian cat, caught by the camera in a genuine laugh, will pose in pictures for the patrons. Beneath the laughing cat will appear the line, "I do not catch birds." For, so say the propagandists of mercy, the cat is more stung against than singing, and those who have homes and friends are not prone to be foes of the feathered folk.

Yesterday in Portland's churches many clergymen announced that on Humane Sunday, April 22, at least part of the service will be devoted to petitions for kindness to animals. Members of the Oregon Humane Society have worked tirelessly everywhere, asking the humane Week be observed in order that its lessons may have the broadest circulation and lasting value.

The campaign is being led in Oregon, is under the direction of Mrs. Frank W. Swanton, state secretary of the society.

ARSON SUSPECT MOVED

MRS. M. W. GARWOOD TAKEN TO MEDFORD FROM PORTLAND. Woman Is Said to Have Been Go-between in Ring at Ashland. Hemphill Declared Suicide.

Mrs. M. M. Garwood, arrested in Eugene in company with N. E. Hemphill of Medford, charged with arson, who took her to the county jail in Jackson County, left Portland yesterday morning in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Paul Anderson, of Medford, who has taken her back to Jackson County to face trial.

Following her arrest in Eugene, Mrs. Garwood was brought to this city by Eugene authorities, who conferred with District Attorney Evans and Deputy District Attorney Robinson. She is charged with being the go-between in an arson ring at Ashland, Or.

Hemphill, it is alleged, at the behest of Mrs. Nan Strickfadden and Mrs. L. L. Strickfadden, induced to set fire to an Ashland residence, which had been insured for $5000. He was arrested in Eugene several days ago, and his lifeless body was discovered by the jailer last Thursday night. An analysis of the coffee which had been consumed by the prisoner disclosed cyanide of potassium.

W. W. GARROW IMPROVING

Victim of Auto Collision Thought to Have Chance of Recovery.

The condition of W. W. Garrow, of 253 Fargo street, who was seriously injured in an automobile collision Saturday evening, was said to show a slight improvement yesterday, although pointing to fracture of the base of the skull at first created grave doubt as to his recovery.

The accident occurred at Union avenue and Fargo street, when the car

EIGHT COMPANY FIRST

Albany Captain of Artillery Corrects Enlistment Report.

Eighth Company, Oregon Coast Artillery, under command of Captain F. W. Wright, yesterday went into action to retrieve a lost position of honor. It had been mistakenly reported in Albany that Fifth Company, Coast Artillery, was the first recruited to full strength since the recent call to arms.

"Fifth Company is a fine outfit," began Captain Wright as he opened his attack on the editor, "but so is Eighth Company, and we were, begging the pardon of the Albany correspondent, the first company recruited to full war strength, as the records in the Adjutant-General's office show. We were at full war strength—150 men—April 2, having been called into action March 23. We now have 210 men enrolled on the company's list, the extra 100 being to get men in shape for future need. We have had 210 enrolled since April 19, if you can make this correction we will give the counterclaim and go about our business."

Monroe Cannery to Contract for Yield of 1000 Acres.

MONROE, Or., April 15.—(Special.)—W. H. Paulhamus, president of the Payalup-Summer Fruitgrowers' Association of Washington, who has been engaged to open and operate the Monroe cannery plant, proposes to enter into a contract with the growers of this section for 1000 acres of strawberries, black raspberries and loganberries on a one to five-year contract at the highest market prices.

The growing of small fruit in this section has languished in the past two years owing to the failure of the Corvallis cannery and the difficulty in reaching a market, but Mr. Paulhamus' proposition seems to have given it new life.

Suppose you manufactured the Apollo Player-Piano and knew—

—that the Apollo was the only instrument in the world that "touched down" on the keys—in other words, played as a pianist plays— —that it was the only piano in the world that has a motor that winds and re-winds the roll without necessity of pedaling. —that it was the only piano in the world that would accent the melody note or enable you to omit it altogether, or to play the accompaniment in eight different keys—

How would you tell it to the public in a way to persuade them to come and at least spend a few minutes with the Apollo before they spend their money for a Player Piano?
