CHICAGO. April 30.—Assertion that European buying of both cush wheat and future deliveries had been halted helped depress, wheat prices today. The market clesed unsettled at 3½ one to lower to % o gain with May at $2.71 and July at $2.25% (2.26%). Corn inished $21\times down, casts % of to \( \times \) cadvance, and provisions varying from $25\times \) decline to a rise of 10c.

Sharp upturns at the opening in wheat prices reflected to a considerable extent the bearish effect of suppressing grain speculation in Canada would be only transient, so far as markets in the United States were concerned. It was not long, however, before more sober views began to count, and the possibility of Government measures looking to a maximum limit being fixed on domestic prices, as done in Canada and Great Britain. Unfavorable weather conditions in the Spring crop region had only a temporary builtish influence, Opening prices, which ranged from \( \times \) cos \( \times \) as a market in the united States were followed by an additional jump of 4 cents in extreme cases, but then a general fall function and the public withstanding asmouncement that the United States' visible supply total was the lowest at this season in more than 10 years. The sentence allies were said to be making no purchase of either cash or futures, and it was asserted the Belgian Relief Commission had enough wheat bought to last until next.

Corn and oats followed wheat, and trade was meager, except that foreign governments were credited with buying considerable amounts of future deliveries of oats here. On the other hand, large increases of seeded acreage were reported in the states which have the heaviest oats production. Provisions averaged higher as a result of the readiness with which offerings were absorbed by commission houses. Breaks in the value of grain and hogs failed to act as an offset.
