

WOMEN NOT TO BE EMPLOYED AFTER 6

W. F. Woodward's Plea for Permission to Replace Men Is Not Allowed.

NEED IS NOT APPRECIATED

Commission Believes Men Who Are Not Accepted by Military Can Be Used to Fill Places of Those Who Enlist.

The Industrial Welfare Commission yesterday turned down the plea of W. F. Woodward, of the Woodard-Clarke Drug Company, to employ women clerks after 6 o'clock at night.

Employers to Be Protected. "In case the suggested emergency should arise in the future," said Father O'Hara, chairman of the commission,

A letter was directed to be sent to Mr. Woodward, stating the position of the commission in regard to his application.

Your conference to which was submitted the request of the Woodard, Clarke Company for a modification of the commission's ruling so as to permit women to work after 6 o'clock P. M.

Like everyone else, we heartily approve the position of employers who feel that men of suitable age and qualifications should be encouraged to enlist, and that their positions should as far as possible be held open for them.

But it does not appear on the evidence before us that there is any difficulty, actual or imminent, in filling the places of men who are enlisting with other men of practically equal serviceableness who, for one reason or another, are not acceptable for military service.

It may be true that women are better adapted to some of the work than men by reason of their personal qualifications or that they are more willing to accept temporary service because of their better opportunities supported in part, but these considerations are either not drawn between the women's work and working hours, on grounds entirely apart from any present emergency.

While we have not attempted any consideration of these larger questions it may not be amiss to say that we believe a distinction with respect to the time of women's work may justly be drawn between those occupations, such as selling special lines of merchandise which so far as the major interests of the community are concerned can perfectly well be confined to daytime, on the one hand, and on the other hand occupations which it is manifestly for the general welfare to encourage, such as night schools, libraries, or charitable activities, and also those enterprises which cannot be successfully conducted without evening hours, such as restaurants, moving picture shows, and the like.

There are undoubtedly extreme cases where the distinction is of doubtful validity, but every general rule is difficult and uncertain of application at its margins.

April's Record in 1917 Is Distinctly Bad.

Rain Is Excessive, Temperature Subnormal and Only One Day Is Clear.

APRIL, 1917, has gone into the records as one of the most cantankerous Spring months in 30 years.

It seemed to go bad in every possible respect. There was just one fair day in the month of April, 1917.

There were only four days recorded "TIZ"—A JOY TO SORE, TIRED FEET

Use "Tiz" for Aching, Burning, Puffed-up Feet and Corns or Callouses.

"Sure! I Use TIZ Every Time for Any Foot Trouble."

Good-bye, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, tender feet, tired feet.

Good-bye, corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now at any drug store or department store.

Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

as "partly cloudy" and all the rest were cloudy—and this in the month when Spring is expected to be budding and burgeoning and setting the lamb to gambol on the green.

Out of those 25 days recorded "cloudy" it rained on 24.

It was 22 degrees too cold to be a normal April—and this on the heels of three years of Aprils in which it had never been warmer than usual.

Everybody is hoping now that April managed to get all of the cantankerousness that normally gets spread over both April and May crowded into one month, in which case we may have weather that will make us forget and forgive the gloom of the month just closed.

Hints on Early Garden Crops for Oregon.

BY R. A. BLANCHARD. RADISHES are essentially an early-season crop, but they do not thrive well during the hot summer months.

For early crops they require hot-bed treatment, but can be sown in the open ground as soon as danger of severe frost is over and the season opens well.

For Eastern Oregon and higher altitudes from April 20 to May 30 is a good time to start this vegetable, warm seasons anywhere from April 10 to June 10.

Letuce is another cool-season crop that does not thrive well during hot Summer months, and therefore, its best growth is in early Spring or in the late Fall.

For Eastern Oregon, the Tennis Ball and Hanson, both head lettuce, would be the best to use, planting 2 1/2-inch deep in the soil in rows 10 to 14 inches apart, thinning out from 6 to 10 inches in a row.
