BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. Once again the player-limit bugaboo has bobbed up to disturb the serenity of the Pacific Coast league There was no game at the local park yesterday between the Oaks and the Beavers, because of rain and, while the players and bosses were standing around under the stands trying to keep dry and warm, the Vernon club came in for a bit of attention.

George Stovall, it appears is following the same tactics that ran Ham Patterson out of the league last year, viz. disregarding league rules.

The Coast League has a rule requiring each club to carry at least four "bushers" in the list of 18 play-ers allowed after May 1. The so-called "bushers" are players who have not completed one year's service in either class AA or major league ball.

NEW YORK, May 6.—That the late Robert Boyd Ward, who at the time of his death, October 18, 1915, was president of the Brooklyn Federal League club and vice-president of the Federal League, lost a fortune in baseball was disclosed yesterday.
