Onkland versus Vernon at Los Angeles, negame, Oakland failed to arrive on time. BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

Kenneth Williams pulled another "Charley Ray" film stunt out at Coast League Park yesterday. Williams' feat consisted of knocking a sizzling home run over the right-field fence with the hases full in the third inning, permitting Portland to ride through the afternoon on whipped cream clouds of affluence at the expense of the Los Angeles cellar champions. The score finished 7-2 in Portland's favor, and the Grants Pass outfielder belted in five of the seven. In the second inning, with Southpaw Charley Brown in the box and Farmer on second from a two-base hit, Wil-liams prodded one of Brown's slants against the deep right center-field fence. His swat went for a triple and scored the first Beaver registration.

Hogg Williams' Victim. caused Frank Chance to banish Brown in favor of Hogg, and it was Hogg who run drive. It sailed so far over the palisades that a boy on an autoped was chasing it down Linnton boulevard SCORE IS 98 OUT OF 100 receipted for Williams' terrific home-

Judge McCredie put into effect his Tuesday ladies' day scheme, and about 2500 fans were out to welcome the Angels. The local magnate should let the baldheads in free, too, for they were the only ones who falled to get full satisfaction yesterday. Those with luxuriant foliage on top experienced the exhibitanting sensation of having their hair bristle at divers and sundry moments.

Lapan Prevents Shutout.

Another home run besides Williams' protruded into the sunshiny afternoon. When the game grew really lop-sided Manager Chance, of the Angels, benched Bassler and tried out young Lapan be-hind the windpad, and Lapan broke in four and never wavered on control for an instant. Fincher is beginning to exhibit big-league symptoms.

Two star fielding stunts by Rube Ellis and an oratorical tilt between Impire Phyle and Denny Wille added spice to the otherwise sensational afternoon. Phyle called a third strike on Wille when the latter was down on his hands in the dust and Wille's temper immediately backed its jolly way into the drammer. Wille called Phyle several pet titles, told him he had so little immediately backed its jolly way into the drammer. MIKE GIBBONS TOYS WITH AL SOMMERS

Exhibition of Boxing Art Before 1700 Fans.

OTHER BOUTS EXCITING

Bronson and Casey Battle to Draw and Gorman and McCool Get Even Honors-Wing Easily Stops John Rawley.

Mike Gibbons lived up to his name last night when he cuffed through six rounds with Al Sommers. The bout served as the main event of a six-bout card presented by the Western Athletic Club at the Broadway Theater. Al Sommers realizes today how much of a jump it is between a good "local champeen" and the world's champion. Gibbons got the decision.

The St. Paul phantom was branded by about 1700 fans as the greatest boxer in the world. His footwork was daxiling and he exhibited a variety of zling and he exhibited a variety of punches which were never before seen in a Portland ring. Mike stacked up against Sommers just like Dan Patch would look if placed alongside of one of Charley Cook's mules.

Sommers Has Stage Fright. The local lad did not hit Gibbons a solid punch in the six rounds. It was a sort of a lark for the man whom Les Darcy refused to battle. He seemed to enjoy the setto immensely. Sommers was frightened to death when he entered the ring, although he kept swing-ing his hands in the general direction of Mike all the while.

Gibbons is an artist, a fellow who has achieved something which only a master could have done. Sommers is a good-sized 158-pounder, still Gibbons was considerable taller and weighs around 155. The middleweight cham-pion could not give the spectators a sample of his true ability. He dared Chet Neff, another Seattle boxer who is well known here, having met Muff Bronson on several occasions at the Rose City Athletic Club, is also in Los light cuffs shook the Portland youth Angeles working for a film company. light cuffs shook the Portland youth up as early as the second round. Sommers finished with a pair of slightly discolored eyes and his nose bled profusely from the second canto on.

To make a long story short, Portland saw Mike Gibbons. It was worth the price of admission to see him stripped. Portland fans agree with the many crities who have propounced him the greatest piece of fighting machinery in the world. Other results follow:
