Board of Officers to Lay Policies of Regiment.

DEFENSE ONLY PURPOSE

Full Regiment of 12 Companies to Be Recruited for Drill—First Enlistment Will Not Be for Service Under Government.

Orders covering the organization of the new home guard regiment, to be known as the First Regiment Infantry, Oregon Reserves, were issued yesterday to Charles F. Beebe, its Colonel.

The order creates a military council consisting of the field, staff and line officers of the regiment, to be known as the "Board of Officers," to determine the policies governing the organization and to put in operation the ways and means necessary to accomplish an efficient maintenance thereof.

"Pursuant to unanimous action by the board of officers," continues the order, "this regiment will be organized as a 12-company, three-battalion infantry regiment, for home defense purposes solely. Until such time as the United States officially recognizes organizations of this character, the regiment will be an independent organization and membership therein will involve no personal obligation on the part of those who are enrolled either as officers or enlisted men for service under either Federal or state control.

"Should occasion arise later requiring the creation of a binding obligation under any official status controlled by either the United States Government or the state of Oregon, officers and members of the regiment will not be so bound unless at such time they may elect to give their voluntary assent to any obligation which may be required.

"Company commanders are charged with responsibility for the instruction and discipline of their companies. They will carefully note the attendance at all drills and parades, keep systematic records, embodying a roster with descriptive lists of the men, and render promptly to these headquarters reports and returns, as such may be called for from time to time."
