

GERMANS BY SCORE ASK FOR PERMITS

Supply of Blank Applications for Entry to Armory Zone Is Quickly Exhausted.

JOBS OF MANY AT STAKE

Estimate Is That 200 to 300 Names Ultimately Will Appear on Roll and Marshal's Office Is Busy.

Puzzling Points Crop Up.

German was the principal language spoken in the corridors of the United States Marshal's office, in the Federal building, all yesterday.

Acting promptly upon the instruction of United States Attorney Reames that all enemy aliens residing within, or passing through, an area within half a mile of the Armory at Tenth and Couch streets must register and procure permits before June 1 or be subject to summary arrest and internment.

One hundred and ten application blanks, all that were on hand, were passed out to the eager applicants. Each required the places of employment and names of employers since July 1, 1914, the place of birth, age and full personal description.

Every applicant appeared in capital good humor, but many were manifestly worried when it was found that the supply of blanks would not suffice.

When the application blanks are properly filled out, they are passed upon by Federal officials and United States Attorney Reames. If found to be satisfactory, permits to enter the area about the Armory will be issued.

Jobs Are at Stake. Many of the applicants were men employed upon the waterfront, faced with the loss of their jobs if a permit was not obtained.

Anita Stewart in 'Clover's Rebellion' at Majestic Theater

Incidentally, Anita Stewart, "Clover's Rebellion" at the Majestic, Columbia-George Beban, "The Marcellini Millions," Sunbeam-Douglas Fairbanks, "The Americano," Peoples-Mary Pickford, "A Romance of the Redwoods," Star-Regina Badet and Albert Signer, "Atonement," Globe-George Walsh, "The Beast," Circulo-Ben Turpin, "A Studio Stampede."

THE craze for motion picture acting has spoiled many a good cook. My advice to screen-struck girls is 'Don't. Take a course in cooking and housekeeping. You'll be of more value there.'

So says J. Warren Kerrigan, matinee idol of the silent drama, who is a Portland visitor. Kerrigan is making personal appearances at the Columbia Theater, and will conclude his stay here by appearing at the movie ball scheduled for tomorrow night at the Multnomah Hotel.

It's really pitiful to see the thousands of girls who patiently sit outside the studio doors from 8 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, waiting for a chance to earn a couple of dollars, commented the ex-Universal star who is to begin work within a few days at the head of his own company. "There is not much chance for the many aspirants these days, for the professional people are getting the jobs."

Kerrigan is a husky Irishman, 27 years of age, a native of Louisville, Ky., and has never been married. J. Warren is a handsome chap, the unconscious victim of many haters from swains whose adored ones have raved over the film star.

Kerrigan is an affable, pleasant fellow, and despite his handicap of what some might characterize as excessive physical plumpitude, is a "regular guy"—a man's man. "Man's Man" is the name of the first picture he is going to make for the J. Warren Kerrigan Film Corporation. It's to be a five or six-reel picture, and will be his last picture of that name. Lois Wilson, the Alabama girl who won a beauty contest a few years ago, and has been seen in universal pictures, will be his leading woman. Nine or ten productions will be made each year, directed by Oscar Apfel and Raymond West, both well-known directors of the silent drama.

"Eyes of the World" Coming. H. Weir Casady, of the Deseret Film Company, of Salt Lake City, has booked the big nine-reel Clume picturization of Harold Bell Wright's popular novel, "The Eyes of the World," for the Helix Theater, commencing June 10.

This production ranks high among motion pictures, and in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Salt Lake City has played to record crowds. After the shutting of records in Salt Lake City, Mr. Casady and associates purchased the exhibition rights to the picture for 11 states.

Another Fairbanks Thriller. Douglas Fairbanks goes to the extremes in his athletic stunts for his second Artcraft production, "Wild and Woolly."

Jumping off the porch of a house onto a moving train that was averaging 40 miles an hour is one of the stunts performed last week by the athletic actor, while the cameraman and Director John Emerson watched with startled amazement from the side lines.

It seems that Fairbanks has no sense of fear. He plans his athletic thrills in the same manner as he would an ordinary dramatic scene. It's all in a day's work for our smiling hero. A recent fight on horseback, in which Fairbanks proves the victor, is one of the most thrilling scenes ever reproduced on celluloid. While the horses were galloping at break-neck speed he made a flying mount onto the other horse, and then the fight started with Sam de Grassie, who plays the part of the bad man.

"Wild and Woolly" promises to out-thrill the most thrilling of recent Fairbanks productions.

Screen Gossp. Pathe has secured picture rights to "The Neulakah," a Ruyard Kipling story; "The Weavers," by Sir Gilbert Parker, and "The Yellow Ticket," the A. H. Woods play.

Carmel Myers, the former leading woman with the Fine Arts Company, has signed a two-year contract with the Universal Company and will appear in feature pictures for that concern. Many offers were turned down by Miss Myers in making her decision.

They say that Bill Hart is "knocking 'em dead" in his whirlwind tour of the East. Mon Randall, personal advertising manager for Thomas H.

Louise Satterthwaite, North Carolina girl, who was one of the winners of the "Beauty and Brains" contest of Photoplay Magazine, has an important role in one of Mae Marsh's Goldwyn pictures.

Beesle Barricade finishes with Triangle on June 14. Then she goes to the Clume studio for the production of her first Beesle Barricade picture, "Rose o' Paradise," founded on Grace Miller White's novel of that name.

Donald Crisp, firmly convinced that he is doomed to direct most of the Italian colony of California during the course of his administration of George Behm's Microscopic production, has resigned himself to the task of learning Italian. Mr. Behm has specialized in Italian characterizations and therefore frequently necessitates the employment of real sons of sunny Italy that it behooves the director to learn to talk with his hands and feet after the manner of the spaghetti garglers.

Francis X. Beal, class president; Merrill Gibson, vice-president; Ruth Livingston, secretary; Marion Bosticher, treasurer; Naomi Duncan, Davis Leininger, Beatrice Sanders, Esther Gilbert, Hazel Cowan, Glen Monro-Smith, Ems Hutchison, Roland Allen, Herbert Wood, Guy Butler, Margaret Syter, Thelma Richardson, Charles Delancey, Alfred Olson, Gertrude Blythe, Walter Gilbert, Maude McDonald, Linnie Conner, Velma Kiger, Jessie Todd, Alma Ferguson, Julia Pastorek, Edythe Olmstead, Clarence Wiley, Georgia Egan, Esther Dawson, Louise Austin, Zed Grove, Winifred Hadley, Artie Pittman, Anne Kenady, Erma Mackey, Hannah Anderson and Melvin Moran.

When "Little Mary" visited the forest in connection with the production of "A Romance of the Redwoods," a delegation waited upon her requesting that they have the privilege of naming a giant redwood for her. She was asked to select one of the enormous trees, but Miss Pickford refused to accept any of them. Instead she chose a young redwood, only a foot in circumference, which seemed a mere dwarf among the giants, and requested that this little tree be named after her.

H. A. Sherman, of Sherman-Elliott, the Chicago concern that brought "The Birth of a Nation" to Portland for its last appearance here, is to become a producer of big photoplay features.

The Russian photodramatic invasion of America is on. Fifty films of Russian drama have arrived in New York.

For the screening of Vitagraph's "Within the Law" invitations were issued to all actresses who have played the role of Mary Turner to witness the premiere of the picture at the Broadway Theater, New York. The list includes Jane Cowl, who created the role; Helen Ware, Muriel Starr, Clara Joel, Emily Stevens, Margaret Blinington, Alino McDermott, Catherine Tower and Edyth Goddall.

"Smiling George" Walsh has found a new way of getting into an auto. Although he doesn't recommend it for general use, the actor, who has been seen in "Some Boy," George's latest picture for William Fox, George leaps from a bridge into a passing automobile through the roof.

Charles Gunn, who is achieving distinction as one of the young leading men of Triangle-Ince, grew up in San Francisco, where he is well known in business and social circles. Mr. Gunn brings youth, good looks and virility to the screen, and is a welcome addition. Though young, he is a student of men and affairs, and is a writer of much promise. His personality and finished acting contributed much to the success of "Chicken Casey," "Sweatheart of the Doomed," "The Snarl" and "End Bennett's delightful play, "Happiness."

In the burning houseboat scene in Pathe's new serial, "The Neglected Wife," the actors delayed their escape so long that at last they had to leap for their lives. Then Roland Holmstrom's foot came down on the head of Ruth Roland, the star, just as she was reaching the surface, and she was fished her out, stunned. As someone said, "It's a great life, if you don't weaken."

is more than a name to most of the population of this country. She is a friend, charming, interesting, lovable. As the heroine of Pathe's big successful serials "Who Pays?" and "The Red Circle," she added to a reputation already noteworthy, she became to many photoplay lovers their one, their chosen favorite. In "The Neglected Wife" she appears at her best. To the role of the other woman she brings a sympathy and an understanding that will make the part live in your memory.
