17 GIRLS GRADUATED

St. Helen's Hall Programme Is Impressive.

ALL ARE ATTIRED IN WHITE

Bishop Sumner, In Commencement Address, Predicts New Powers of Administration for Women After War.

Lovely and girlish were the 17 fair graduates of St. Helen's Hall as they assembled last night in St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral to receive their diplomas. The girls all wore dainty white gowns and white veils.

An impressive part of the ceremonies was the processional in which all the students entered the edifice singing the hymn, "Ancient of Days." Throughout the evening the music was an important feature. The chanting of the psalm and the rendition of the anthem were especially lovely. The recessional, "For All Thy Saints," closed the programme. Carl Denton presided at the organ.

Seven graduates in the academic course and 10 in the kindergarten training course received diplomas as the finale of their years of study and excellent work.

Bishop Presents Diplomas.

Bishop Sumner made the presentation of diplomas and gave the address in which he spoke inspiringly to the young women in whose honor the large number of friends and relatives had gathered in the Pro-Cathedral.

Of the seven academic students, two had been attending St. Helen's Hall four years; two, eight years; two, 10 years; one, 12 years. "This," said the bishop, "shows loyalty to the school and is an evidence of its efficiency."

The bishop's subject for the commencement address was "The Responsibility of the Educated Woman to Democracy."

He declared that it is the duty of the people who have received a higher education to keep up the ideals of democracy.

"After the war, the status of woman will be different," said the bishop. "She will have larger powers of administration. She should by every right have universal suffrage and it is for the women of educated minds to carry out the ideals of a true democracy.

Need of Leadership Discussed.

"Their education should give to them mental processes whereby they may see true values. The educated woman must be a leader; she must be able to think in terms of honest values. The educated woman has a responsibility to the state and the state will expect from her a service that you graduates must have your part in giving."

The young women to whom this charge was delivered were: Academic graduates, Susan Green, of Aberdeen, Wash.; Doreen Wyld, Adelline Kendall, Nadine Caswell, Lucille Brown, Marguerite Bergh, Consuelo McMillen; kindergarten training department, Katherine Heroy, Marie Brady, Esther Merrill, Helen Block, Bertha Palmer, Ann Pauley, Lolita Holmes, Florence Kiehle, Jane Lowe and Janet Hancock.

NOTED MIMIC IS COMING

KATE STOUT WITH "FLORA BELLA" COMPANY SOON AT BAKER.

Early School Days Develop Natural Bent of Young Star Who Will Be Seen in Cort Play.

Miss Kate Stout, one of the principal members of the "Flora Bella" Company, which comes to the Baker Theater next week, is a comedienne—well, by nature.

Her talents both as a singer and a comedienne were not discovered by the leading Broadway managers. No—quite to the contrary. They were discovered in school, and many and many a whipping Miss Stout received and many a night after school punishment was imposed upon her because of her insistence of mimicking in a comedy manner songs and recitations rendered by pupils and teachers as well.

The teachers at first were averse to Miss Stout reciting her grammar, geography and botany so as to elicit laughter from the classes. Two of Miss Stout's favorite lessons to imitate were "Fly, Little Birdie," from Appleton's second reader, and the famous old school song, "Baby-bye, Here's a Fly."

When the teachers became reconciled to the fact that it was useless to punish Kate for her pranks they set aside a half hour every Friday afternoon to listen to her imitations. Miss Stout's debut was made in vaudeville as a monologist and imitator at the Majestic Theater, Chicago, where she scored a decided hit. When she appeared at the Palace Theater, New York, her work attracted the attention of Flo Zeigfeld, who placed her in the "Follies." She was engaged by Mr. Cort for the original production of "Flora Bella" at the Casino Theater, New York, last Summer.

ANSEL CLARK IS SENT EAST

Head of Commerce Bureau to Take Charge of Boston Office.

Ansel R. Clark, who has been in charge of the local office of the Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, will leave this morning to take charge of the office in Boston. He received notification Tuesday that E. E. Pratt, chief of the bureau, had appointed him to Boston to succeed W. A. Graham Clarke, who has been transferred to service with the Tariff Commission. He will go to Washington, D. C., to attend the conference of district office managers there, and will proceed after the conference, to Boston.

It has not been determined as yet whether the Portland office will be continued or not. Efforts are to be made to have the office in Portland retained, however, in connection with the Chamber of Commerce, as it has been operated for the past year under Mr. Clark.

Mr. Clark has been in the Portland office for about a year, during which time he has co-operated actively with the University of Oregon school of commerce, and the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

RICHARDSON FUNERAL HELD

Friends Pay Tribute to Memory of Portland Citizen.

The funeral of Tom Richardson took place at the Portland Crematorium Sellwood, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, and it was attended by a large number of friends as well as all of his Portland relatives. A great many of the leading business men of the city were present, representing the leading banks and commercial houses of the town, as well as the various railways. The auditorium of the crematorium was well filled, and the platform had seated upon it nearly all of the active pallbearers and practically all of the honorary pallbearers resident of the city.

Dr. John H. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, with which the family has been connected ever since coming to Portland, read the burial service. C. W. Hodson paid tribute to his departed friend.

Following the remarks of Mr. Hodson Dr. Boyd spoke feelingly of the life and works of Mr. Richardson.

The family had requested that no flowers be brought, but there were a great many wreaths and bouquets sent and brought, so that the coffin was well banked by these beautiful tokens of remembrance.

The body was cremated and the ashes will be sent to Wellington, Kan., where they will be received by his brother John and other relatives, and placed in the vault containing the earthly remains of the parents, grandparents and many other relatives.

FIRST SWISS CHEESE SENT

New Plant at Stanfield Turns Out 250 Cases of Product.

Word reached Portland yesterday from Stanfield to the effect that 250 cases of Swiss cheese, the first shipment to be made by the newly-established Swiss Cheese Company at Stanfield, left the Umatilla County city last Monday for San Francisco.

The new cheese company is owned by eight Swiss farmers and dairymen who are operating on the Furnish project, and who have already accumulated 250 cows. They report that there is a splendid market for Swiss cheese, but that they are finding difficulty in securing enough cows for milking purposes.

The company has a modernly-equipped plant, which produces cheese in five-pound bricks. A. L. Steiner is the plant manager.

Jitneur Plans to Assume Itinerant Peddler's Role.

Customers Obtained Under New License Will Get Free Rides, and Law Will Be Outdone, He Says.

HIST! One resourceful jitney driver who races with the streetcar along Hawthorne avenue has solved the question of jitney regulation. He's going to beat any and all laws and ordinances pertaining to the regulation and control of his business, he says.

As his "flivver" darted its uncertain way toward the Hawthorne bridge yesterday he unfolded his plan to an eager listener in something like this wise:

"I'm going to take out a license for an itinerant peddler and instead of being governed by these jitney regulations, I'm going into the gum, pencil and shoestring business. I'm going to fix a little box in front of the car and sell these articles for a nickel each; and every purchaser then will get a free ride out the avenue or back to the city."

APPLES TO BE IN DEMAND

New Yorker Tells Growers to Continue Production of Fancies.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 5.—(Special.)—Joseph H. Steinhardt, of the New York fruit firm of Steinhardt & Kelly, here today making a survey of the year's fruit yield, left a better feeling among local growers and Apple Growers' Association officials when he said that he expected the movement of apples to market and their distribution to be normal.

"Food Administrator Hoover's announcement that apples are food ought to be enough to satisfy you growers," said Mr. Steinhardt, "and let me tell you that you are going to have plenty of cars. Take my advice and continue to raise extra fancy apples and you won't have to go out of business for lack of profit."

COAST GUARD ROAD OPENED

Trail at Coos Bay Bar Widened to Twelve Feet.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 5.—(Special.)—The trail for use of the Coast Guard between the station at Charleston Bay and Bastendorff beach, a distance of two miles along the high bluffs in the Government reserve at the bar, has been opened to a width of 12 feet.

Captain O. P. Britt stated the trail is fairly level, and with an expenditure of a small amount of money can be made into a serviceable thoroughfare for getting the Coast Guard equipment at any point on the bluffs where it may be needed in case of shipwrecks.

TWO BOOTLEGGERS TAKEN

Pair Captured After Getting Liquor From Oil Tanker Deckhand.

Another drive on bootleggers was made early yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Phillips, Ward, Christofferson and Huriburt, when they arrested two men giving the names of Gus Olson and Henry Johnson just as they were leaving the oil tanker William F. Herrin, which had just docked at the Associated Oil Company's wharf near Linnton. A suitcase containing eight quarts of whisky was taken.

The men had procured the liquor from deckhands of the ship but they refused to tell who had given it to them.
