

BELLS TO REMIND PEOPLE OF BONDS

Secretary McAdoo Announces That Warning Will Be Heard in Every Town in Country.

EVERYONE MUST HELP

Campaigners Think That Only Some Great Shock Will Awaken Entire Nation to Peril and Cement People in War.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the United States Treasury, in a message sent today to the Liberty loan committee for the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, here, declared: "America has been forced into the conflict now convulsing the world and hopes to bring about the following results: "To prevent the destruction of our great country and to secure to responsible peoples throughout the world the blessings of self-government. "To aid in stopping the crime against civilization which the German autocracy has been perpetrating for three years. "To bring the world nearer the day when by agreement or a concert of powers peace will be assured to all nations, particularly to democratic nations."

Money Now Is Only Need. Every American, native born or naturalized, should be willing to make every sacrifice to secure these results. Soldiers, supplies and money, backed by the unconquerable American spirit, can achieve these great objects. "We will have the soldiers and the supplies if the people will furnish the money by subscribing for the Liberty loan, the safest investment in the world. "It is the golden opportunity for the achievement of the hope of the civilized world for a permanent peace brought about by a concert of democratic nations."

Bells to Call People to Help. Secretary McAdoo announced that in every city, town, village or hamlet beginning tomorrow the bells in churches, schools, courthouses and town halls throughout the Nation will toll every night at 9 o'clock. This, he said, is to remind Americans that the time for patriotic spirit of the Government through subscription to the Liberty loan is drawing to a close. The bells will ring four times tomorrow night, indicating that four days remain in which to make subscriptions. They will toll three times on Tuesday, twice on Wednesday and once Thursday.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Survey of the country made by the Liberty loan committee here has revealed, it was asserted tonight, that while the people are awakened to the significance of the bonds, the tangible results are far from satisfactory.

Americans Need Shock. "There would be a more generous response if we were in the present position of France or England," said Guy Emerson, secretary of the Liberty loan committee. "Seemingly, it will require food tickets, trainloads of wounded men, personal loss and other physical and mental manifestations of war to arouse the country to its full responsibility toward this loan. "There is a refusal to realize the horrors that accompany war, because as yet they form no part of our life."

Success in Campaign Forecast. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, returning to National headquarters here after a conference with Government officials in Washington, predicted that the organization of the four-day bond-selling campaign throughout the country would be successful. The Nation has been divided into 15 zones for this work, which begins tomorrow.

BIG DRIVE IS ORGANIZED

H. W. STONE REPORTS NORTHWEST WILL GIVE RED CROSS QUOTA.

Every Citizen Should Contribute to Liberty Loan, Red Cross and Army Y. M. C. A., He Says.

H. W. Stone, American Red Cross manager for Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, returned to Portland last night after having spent the last few days touring his territory. Saturday he was in Helena, Mont., and organized the state for the big Red Cross drive next week. The entire Northwest has been organized, and Seattle has named 25 of the most prominent business men of the city to head the drive. The quota for the four Northwestern states has been placed at $2,500,000, of which $600,000 is to come from Oregon. Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle have been organized along the same lines as has Portland. While in Walla Walla, Wallace, Idaho, Mr. Stone was informed that Shoshone County alone was going to raise $50,000 for the Red Cross. Everywhere along the line he found the same enthusiasm. Subscriptions to the Red Cross can be made by Liberty bonds, Mr. Stone announced last night, and he further said that it was the duty of every American who did not serve his country at the front, to assist the work of the Red Cross, the Army Y. M. C. A. and the Liberty loan bonds.

72 MINERS ARE RESCUED

(Continued From First Page.) The drift until the air became so foul that we could not stand it any longer. We built this bulkhead about 1 o'clock Saturday morning and were there until we broke through because the air got so foul.

Dugan Soon Is Lost.

"When we found the air getting foul Dugan told us it was time for us to get out of there and try for the shaft. He broke down the bulkhead and he, with three others, went through first while the rest of us made the shaft and were taken up. "I don't know where Dugan went as he got out first but we think he must have tried to reach the 2000-foot level and make the Rainbow from there. If it hadn't been for him we never would have gotten the bulkhead built and probably all would have been dead. "There are 12 bodies known to be still on the 2400-foot level. It is believed there are several alive on the 2600-foot level. "Nothing to drink but copper water for 36 hours," said Albert Cobb, one of the rescued men. "I'm not hungry," he said when food was offered him. "Only thirsty. I feel as if I could drink a barrel of fresh water." One of the rescued men was Josiah James. He refused an automobile to his home, where mourning was turned into rejoicing. Some one had identified one of the bodies recovered early in the day as that of James.

Rescuers Renew Efforts. Another of the rescued men complained that he lost two shifts because of the disaster. Because of the rescue of 27 men alive, the safety first men at the Speculator mine have renewed their efforts. The opinions of a number of the men rescued that others are alive in the lower levels also has increased the efforts of the safety first crews. Physicians are kept at the mine day and night and ambulances from every hospital in the city are kept in readiness.

The men rescued today were in good condition, with the one exception, and all were able to proceed to their homes after a cup of hot coffee.

WAR BILLS NEAR TO END

MEASURES GO TO PRESIDENT BEFORE END OF WEEK.

River and Harbor Items Are to Be Considered Today and Railroad Regulation Will Follow.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Resigned to another hot weather session, Congress plans this week to dispose finally of important war measures long pending and to begin consideration of legislation promising at least a month or six weeks more work.

Before the week ends it is hoped to send the delayed war budget and espionage bill to President Wilson. In the meantime the Senate finance committee will continue revising the war tax bill, expecting to have it ready for debate in the Senate the first of next week. On the House side, discussion of the river and harbor bill will be resumed tomorrow and the agricultural committee will complete its draft of the food control bill, to be submitted about the middle of the week.

After disposing of the conference report of the espionage bill, stripped of newspaper censorship provisions, the Senate tomorrow will resume debate on the Newlands railroad regulation measure. The espionage report, approved by the House, is expected to occupy little time of the Senate.

The railroad bill, giving the President authority to order preferential handling of food and other necessities is meeting opposition from a few Senators, but its passage without delay is generally expected.

Publishers' excess profits and income taxes are the stumbling blocks facing the Senate war tax revisionists when the returns work tomorrow. An early opportunity will be taken this week for an executive session of the Senate to consider the many important provisions for the new Army. It is expected all of the nominations will go through without serious opposition.

Passage of the food control bill without the proposed maximum price-fixing authority is predicted, as Herbert C. Hoover and the Administration are representing an agreeing to the elimination of such a provision through minimum price-fixing power. The Senate judiciary committee meets tomorrow to consider resolutions opposing National prohibition. The committee is understood to favor reporting the resolutions to the floor for submitting a constitutional prohibition amendment.

BILL AT "HIP" CATCHY

"STYLE SHOP" IS UNUSUAL ACT WITH PRETTY GIRLS.

Sisters Do Good Contortion and Slack-Wire Work.—Musical Bits Please Audiences.

Something nice in lingerie—girls. And that is only a part of what one sees at the presentation of the "Style Shop," headliner at the Hippodrome Theater. Mrs. Carr, Parisian ladies' tailor, dresses the pretty girl models, manufacturing gowns of the latest style without the use of scissors or thread. There is some clever comedy, singing and dancing in the act also.

The Smilette Sisters do some good contortion and slack wire work which brings gasps from the audience. Music on instruments which speak of the quaintness of the Balkan states, feature the act by "The Two Balkans." Some dancing, clever hits, songs and dashing comedy are seen in "Oh Hello," staged by Hugh Skelley and Emma Hill.

"Rained In" is a catchy act in which a Summer visitor, who seeks the shelter of a cow puncher's cabin, is taken for the new cook. Fitch Cooper, the musical rube who was "hit between the conversation and the transportation" springs all kinds of funny cracks and plays tunes on all sorts of original instruments.

LIFE EBBS AS MAN FLEES

San Franciscan Cuts Throat After Accidentally Killing Friend.

OAKLAND, Cal., June 10.—Cleveland Graemela, of San Francisco, cut his throat and ran two miles from Mount Eden to Haywards, Cal., today after he accidentally shot and killed his friend, Baldi Bulotti, a San Francisco furniture dealer. Graemela may die, according to physicians. Graemela said that he was cleaning a rifle when it accidentally discharged, the charge entering Bulotti's back. "I didn't want to live," said Graemela. "I was wild. I took my razor and cut my throat. Then I was frightened. I didn't want to die. I ran and ran. Then I don't remember."

2000 WITNESS GOLF PLAY

Clark Defeats Evans and Swift in Kansas City Finals.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 10.—Two thousand persons composed a gallery which followed the final 18 of a 36-hole patriotic exhibition golf match here today over the links of the Blue Hills Country Club in which Charles "Chick" Evans, present open and amateur National champion, and Alden Swift, of Chicago, were defeated on the final round one up by Tom Clark, local professional, and Ned Sawyer, also of Chicago. As Evans and Swift had won yesterday's round by a score of four up the match ended three up in their favor.

The flag which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the "Star-Spangled Banner" was an immense one, being 30 feet wide and 42 feet long, when it was hoisted over old Fort McHenry, near Baltimore, just as the British were about to attack.

A. R. DRAPER IS DEAD

Principal of Shattuck School in Ill-Health for Year.

WORK WIDELY RECOGNIZED

Former Superintendent at Pendleton, Prominent in Educational Work Throughout State, Succumbs After 21 Years' Service.

A. R. Draper, principal of the Shattuck School since 1905, and connected with the Portland schools for 21 years, died suddenly of arteriosclerosis at 5 o'clock yesterday at his home, 442 Welder street. While his health had been bad for the past year, he continued teaching until last Friday, ending his 21 years of work in the Portland schools with a record of only three days' absence from duty.

Mr. Draper was born near Windsor, Mo., 52 years ago, and came to Oregon 27 years ago, after finishing a course in Drury College, in Springfield, Mo. He first went to Pendleton, Or., where he was principal of Pendleton High School and later city school superintendent. Coming to Portland he took a position as principal of the old Fullwilliger School, also known as the Fulton School, where he remained for one year before he was transferred to the Multnomah School, where he worked for another year. He was principal of the Stevens School for four years. Mr. Draper also held positions in the Atkinson

School, now the Boys' School of Trades, and in the Holladay School. He was next transferred to the Shattuck School. While principal here, the Stevens School Mr. Draper met Miss Flora A. Leroy, one of the teachers in that institution, who became his wife in July, 1905. They had one child, Leroy Draper, 9 years old. Mr. Draper was prominent in all educational work in this city and was known widely throughout the state. He was a charter member of the Portland Education Association and of the Portland Principals' Association. At different times he was president of each of these organizations.

Ability Widely Recognized. Mr. Draper's ability as an educator was recognized especially by his appointment as a member of the examining board of Multnomah County which has charge of licensing of teachers for work here. This later position, coupled with his heavy duties elsewhere, is believed to have caused the breakdown which resulted in his death.

Mr. Draper had been advised by his physician to take a vacation, but he wished to finish this school year, which ended this week. He had only three working days left in this semester. Two of the three days which Mr. Draper missed from his school work during his employment in Portland were just before last Memorial Day, when ill-health forced him to be at home. He talked by telephone with R. H. Thomas, school clerk, Saturday, and told him that he would be back to work today.

High Tribute Is Paid. Mr. Draper was a member of the Elks, of Hawthorne lodge of Masons, and of Willamette Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, as well as of Myrtle Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. He was past patron of Myrtle Chapter, Elks, auditor and a charter member of the Teachers' Retirement Fund and was past president of the Portland Whist Club. He was also a member of the Knights of Pythias. Mrs. J. P. Kelly, president of the Shattuck Parent-Teachers Association, last night paid a high tribute to Mr. Draper, saying that much of the credit was due to Mr. Draper's cooperation.

"He was a wonderful man, a man with a real soul, and remarkable patience," Mrs. Kelly continued. "I found that many of the children were coming to school under-nourished, and that Mr. Draper was paying for food for them out of his own pocket, and sending them to a nearby delicatessen to eat. Later we obtained a fund for this need, but Mr. Draper's work continued quietly and unostentatiously. "During the cold weather of the Winter of 1915-1916, Mr. Draper spent many nights at the school, helping to sort supplies which had been collected for the children. Whenever one of the boys or girls got into any difficulty, Mr. Draper was the first to aid.

Helping Hand Always Lent. "I remember, as one of the many cases, a new boy who got into trouble by making double collections from one of his customers. The matter was reported to me and to Mr. Draper. He called the lad into his office. "You don't care much for school, do you?" he asked the boy, smilingly. The youngster said he hated, and "If I get you a good job," Mr. Draper asked him, "Will you work at it and be honest?" "Yes, sir," the lad replied. Mr. Draper obtained work for him and for the last two years the boy has been living right. Later Mr. Draper induced him to go to night school, and the youngster, who is now 16 years old, has just finished the year at school and will cross the line to go back again next year. It was the same whenever any of the children started to go wrong. Mr. Draper was ever ready to help. He is survived by his widow and one son, of Portland, and two brothers and two sisters, in Missouri. Mr. Draper's body was taken to Finley & Son's undertaking parlors. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.
