

SOCIETY NEWS

BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

PORTLAND YOUNG WOMAN WHOSE ENGAGEMENT IS JUST ANNOUNCED.

Miss Emma Lenz

The event paramount in society's calendar yesterday was the garden fete for the benefit of the American Red Cross given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Burrell. The afternoon was brimful of features, each more attractive than the other, even the weather gods favoring the party with an unusual amount of warmth and sunshine.

The Macdowell Club gave their song cycle, "Hawthorn and Lavender," which had a natural setting of hawthorn trees in full bloom. Dancing by graceful barefoot maids followed the programme, and the assemblage of women and men strolled around the lovely gardens and made many purchases at the various tables, which were laden with myriads of articles, including antiques, some rare old bits having been donated by prominent families; a quantity of Summer fiction, another donation; candies, cakes, ice cream and household articles, ranging from jams to wearing apparel of dainty design.

Tea was served from a prettily appointed table presided over by Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. Winslow B. Ayer, Mrs. John G. Edwards and Mrs. George Good. Mrs. Clarence Jacobson, Mrs. Martin Guy Lombard, Mrs. J. A. Dougherty and Mrs. George A. Marshall presided at the flower booth. The household booth was in charge of Mrs. Charles T. Whitney, and Mrs. Chester G. Murphy, Mrs. Joseph Wiley, Mrs. Thomas M. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. J. V. Kitchman, Misses Loretta Hardy and Helen Honeyman assisted. The antique table was presided over by Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. William O. Van Schuyler, Misses Helen Ladd and Elizabeth Jones were in charge of the candies; Miss Helen Wood and Miss Clementine Lambert dispensed ice cream centers, while Mrs. Ralph C. Matson took charge of the cake sale. The books were sold by Mrs. William L. Brewster, Miss Flanders and Mrs. Gordon Voorhies.

This affair brings to a close temporarily the social events for the benefit of the Red Cross, but as soon as the ban is lifted at the close of the big drive they will start again with renewed vigor.

Rev. Charles P. Hessel and Mrs. Hessel, of Arcata, Cal., accompanied by their two children, are expected this month for the wedding of their daughter, Mrs. Hessel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Frotzman, Rev. Mr. Hessel's new church, said to be the finest and most fully equipped in Northern California, was dedicated Sunday, June 3. The dedicatory sermon was delivered by Rev. Warren H. Landon, president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, and formerly pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church, of Portland. At the dedication Dr. Landon christened Margaret Isabel, the year-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Hessel.

The 1916-17 Polites will give a trio of informal parties to celebrate the Rose Festival week, commencing tonight at Christensen's Hall and continuing until Friday night. Souvenirs and special features will make the affairs interesting.

MOLALLA, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—Rev. James T. Love and Lora Judd were married at noon Sunday at the Church of Christ, at this place. Mr. Love preached at the services immediately preceding the marriage ceremony. Rev. R. P. Williams, resident pastor of the church, officiated. The bridegroom comes from Crescent, Cal. The bride is a native of this place and the daughter of pioneers. They will make their home in Molalla.

Mrs. Ahlma Hallock returned last week from Los Angeles and San Francisco, where she spent a month visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. H. E. Boyle and little daughter, Mary Jayne, who have been visiting in Baker and other Eastern Oregon towns, will return to Portland shortly and will be at home at 135 North Twenty-fourth street, where they have taken a cottage.

Tomorrow night the Cherrians, of Salem, will give their annual ball in the Multnomah Hotel's ballroom. The committee is making preparations for about 175 persons.

The Rose Festival ball, which will be given at the Oaks Park on Saturday night, is attracting a great deal of attention. E. E. Larimore, president of the board, has a number of committees at work, and no effort is being spared to make this a notable function. It is an invitational affair, and will rank among the season's most delightful gaieties.

The Delta Gamma Alumnae Association of Portland, had a most delightful time Saturday at the home of Mrs. F. W. Plister. After a short meeting there were cards, several women called for tea, which added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Miss Caroline T. Paize, teacher of science at St. Helen's Hall, left Saturday for Minneapolis, where she will attend Summer school at the University of Minnesota. Later she will tour for hospital cases among the soldiers. The presentation was made through the Army and Navy League. Mrs. May, knowing of the resignation and to the check with appropriate words of appreciation.

MARIAN MILLER'S ANSWERS

If you know people who eternally are wanting to be in the limelight, who want to get all the attention and gifts and compliments possible and then never are satisfied, you will like to hear about a sweet, unselfish, lovely woman whom I know. She appeared on the stage a few days ago in a brilliant concert. Hundreds heard her and all loved and admired her every bit as much as they did her golden, glorious voice.

And this singer, young and beautiful, isn't one speck vain or selfish. She sang because she loved to sing and because the Red Cross was to have every penny that came in from the sale of tickets. Some of the singer's wealthy friends hinted that they would send flowers. This was several days before the concert. The little woman put her foot down emphatically and said, "No, please don't send me flowers. Buy tickets and give them to those who cannot afford to go and then the Red Cross will get the money and maybe some folks will be made happy because they can go. This is not the time for you to give to me. You must give to the cause of humanity."

And someone bought a ticket and sent it to me and with those other people I had the treat of my life. I have heard all the big stars of the day, but the message of that girl's unselfishness and her love for those who will be benefited by the money she wanted to get into every golden note and to glorify the songs she sang with such rare artistry.

No unselfish act done now will be lost. This is the time for you boys and girls who write me about your troubles to forget self as much as possible and think of some way in which you can be of service to your country. Do the duty nearest at hand if you can't go to the front. The biggest battles will not all be fought on the firing line. Don't get down-hearted. There is work for you all.

I have a little message for a girl who is thinking of marrying and who wants to get married. You must tell him the truth. It would come out sooner or later. Even if it didn't the thought would weigh you down with worry. I am sorry you wouldn't let me print the story, but, as I said, tell the man the truth. Maybe he will be a scrub and refuse to marry you. But, even so, keep a stout heart and remember that right will prevail. I don't like to have the opportunity of your coming back and refusing to tell the man the truth. You will think of him. It wouldn't do for me to write it, however.

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 10.—Dear Marian Miller: I am a young girl and am very much in love with a young man who is 10 years older than I. My folks have not let me to keep away from him because he is so old. Please advise me what to do.

RUTH H. You don't take this too seriously. You are young and have plenty of time. Listen to your family's advice. If the man is worth-while he will meet some of them later on and prove his worth. Don't deceive them, you will never don't fight with the family—they love you and wish you well.

BEND, Or., June 9.—Dear Marian Miller: Through following your advice I have been back to the love of my life. My home is now very happy. I am more grateful to you than I can tell. I realize now that we both were to blame. IDA G.

You are glad you are so happy. You must both learn to be unselfish. I hope that you will be happy forever and ever. Amen.

WHAT YOU CAN MAKE AT HOME BY MRS. PORTLAND.

The vacant lot gardener will find that the making of a compost heap somewhere on his ground will very much help in reducing the cost of fertilizer. There are many ways to make a compost heap, the fundamental idea being to get each thing to cover up and conserve all sorts of waste matter that will eventually help to enrich the soil for the growing of vegetables. A good place for a compost heap is on top of a hill or on a slope, so that such a heap or it may be better to dig the ground, in which case it is apt to be more unsightly and in a dry season may not rot so well as if partly under ground. If you are using the vacant lot beside your house, you can with a sharp butcher knife cut a breeding place for a pleasant odor, and ends of vegetable scraps and wilted flowers, alternating layers of this kind of material with layers of earth. During the dry season, you should occasionally pour water over the decaying matter, as that will hasten its settling and decomposition. Fruit and vegetable peelings, dish water, or spoiled bits of meats may be added.

There is one great danger, however, in the making of such a heap during the fly season and that is that unless kept properly covered with earth compactly pressed down, it will afford a breeding place for flies as well as emitting a very unpleasant odor. The only remedy for this is to use a sufficient quantity of dirt to keep down all odors covering of covering of covering. Turning the sods upside down helps to prevent their taking root and growing and so hastens their decay.

R. S. Hayes, alias A. P. Hammond, who attempted to commit suicide at the City Jail Monday by slashing his wrists with a pocket knife and strangling himself with his necktie, is reported improving at St. Vincent's Hospital. If he recovers he will have to face a charge of larceny preferred by Seattle authorities.

A Cordial Invitation and Important Notice

Rose Festival Patriotic Ball

Oaks Rink

Thursday, June 14, 1917

All members of organizations and those participating in the Rose Festival events and specialties—and their friends—are cordially invited to attend the social event of the Rose Festival.

Funds will be used to increase the good work of the Fruit and Flower Mission Day Nursery. Admission by invitation only. Owing to the inability of the patronesses of the ball to personally call on all those who desire to go or contribute to the cause, invitations may be secured at the Oaks Rink on presentation of membership card or introduction of any member.

Invitations may be secured in advance at the Rose Festival Headquarters—Suite 220, Hotel Oregon. Phones: Broadway 914 and 660. Invitations per couple $1.

OVERLAND CORNER SOLD

B. L. HARDING, OF LOS ANGELES, ACQUIRES PROPERTY.

William A. Lombard, of New York, Disposes of Improved Lots Subject to Option.

One of the choicest corners in the lower Broadway automobile district, known as the Overland property and located on the southwest corner of Broadway and Davis street, has been sold by the owner, William A. Lombard, of New York City, a brother of Gay Lombard, to B. L. Harding, of Los Angeles, subject to an option held by Frank E. Dooley.

Unless the option, which is based on a purchase price of $110,000, is closed before its termination, July 1, the corner will become Mr. Harding's property.

The entire quarter block involved in this transaction is covered with a three-story and mezzanine floor automobile building, which was built about two years ago under a long-lease agreement with the J. W. Leavitt & Co., who afterwards sold their interests along the entire Pacific Coast to the Overland Pacific Company, the present tenants of the property. The building itself cost about $40,000.

TONGS HAVE NO COUNSEL

Unusual Action Taken by Chinese Charged With Murder.

Before Presiding Judge Kavanaugh yesterday the three alleged Suey Sing gunmen, charged with murder in the second degree, appeared for arraignment without attorneys. They said they had not secured counsel and might be compelled to ask the court to appoint attorneys. Usually a Chinese gunman secures an attorney before he is arraigned.

Frank Hamilton, charged with a criminal assault upon a minor girl, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for July 2.

Dr. A. Bertschinger, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of a woman patient after an alleged illegal operation, pleaded not guilty.

Eye Hints to Grooms

Don't marry a girl who needs glasses but won't wear them.

In future she's apt to develop frequent headaches—at about the time the dinner dishes have to be massaged!

Her sight may become so poor that she won't notice what the laundry does to the buttons on your alphabetical Summer-weights.

She may not be able to see why it is much better for your health if you go out Saturday afternoon and root for the home team instead of coming home to root for dandelions in the front yard.

She may even become so blind that she can't read the clock until it's too late to give you anything for breakfast but a bale of alfalfa and a pair of soiled shoes to leave at the Greek's.

These are serious matters. Look before you leap. Also be sure how she "looks" before you leap. If in doubt—send her to us. People who wear Columbian glasses always "live happily ever after!"

SYMPTOMS OF HER DISEASE

Backache, Sideache, Nervousness, Dizziness, Faintness, all Disappeared After the Woman's Medicine was Taken.

Kingfisher, Okla.—"For two years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, and had backache and a pain in my stomach most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did."

After taking ten bottles I am now well and strong, have no more pain, backache or dizzy spells. Everyone who has how well I look and I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did it."—Miss NINA SOUTHWICK, R. F. D. No. 4, Box 33, Kingfisher, Okla.

Every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues, should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mrs. Southwick did, or if they need free advice in regard to any annoying symptom write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Paraffine Oil Wakes Up Sleepy Bowels

"Oil it and it moves easily" is applied to hundreds of conditions of every-day life. Lubrication is a principle. It has been shown that the oiling of the walls of the bowels and the softening of the matter that has caused the stoppage will allow the waste matter to move more easily—the natural muscular actions will then eject the waste matter from the system.

Paraffine oil is the product used in this method of treatment. It has been demonstrated that this pure paraffine, or Amersol, taken inwardly, brings such results. It relieves the conditions and removes the cause.

It is purely mechanical in its action—simply softens the congested charges and lubricates the intestinal channels. It is not absorbed or assimilated, and therefore does not clog the system. It is tasteless, odorless and colorless, easy to take, agreeable, effective and thoroughly safe. It is sold at the Owl Drug Company stores at 30 cents per pint bottle.
