

MRS. McCAIN WILL STAND BY HUSBAND

Letters From Rev. C. T. Wilson Suggested Divorce, Salem Woman Says.

FULL VINDICATION SOUGHT

Accuser of Former Portland Pastor Says Statements Have Been Retracted in Part—Husband and Wife Live Happily.

SALEM, Or., July 4.—(Special).—Mrs. Harry McCain, whose husband has filed charges of lying, defamation of character and violation of law with the ecclesiastical tribunal of the Methodist Church at Portland, against the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, today declared that the Rev. Mr. Wilson had done all that was in his power to do to cause her to secure a divorce from Mr. McCain.

Through letters from the Rev. Mr. Wilson to Mrs. McCain, she stated, allegations had come which almost shattered her faith in her husband and nearly disrupted their home.

"I have no hesitancy in saying that the Rev. Mr. Wilson wrote letters to me against Mr. McCain, and these letters were written to cause me to secure a divorce from my husband.

"What these charges were I will not say. But they almost caused us to be estranged. I wish to state, however, that I have never made any charges against my husband myself. As Mrs. McCain has stated, I am 'with him heart and soul'.

"Whatever charges have been made against Mr. McCain's character were made by the Rev. Mr. Wilson and not by me."

No Reasons Are Asked. Mrs. McCain did not state what reasons actuated the Rev. Mr. Wilson to launch his alleged attacks against her husband.

As to the specific nature of the charges included in the letters, and as to the contents of the letters themselves, both Mr. and Mrs. McCain maintained silence today.

"It had been my intention not to bring these letters into the matter," said Mrs. McCain, when further questioned today as to the trouble which has been brewing in Methodist Church circles.

"They are not my letters, and I have no desire to have my wife's name brought into this controversy, but I see it has been. It was my purpose not to even bring the letters up at the hearing which will start tomorrow the ecclesiastical tribunal in Portland. At least I had no intention of doing so unless they were retracted in rebuttal, and what charges Mr. Wilson has made against me I intend to keep to myself, until the time of the hearing."

Mr. McCain Files Charges. "If Mr. Wilson made the statement, which he is quoted as making, that the charges filed in the church were filed at his request, I am filing them myself, to vindicate an untruth. He had nothing to do with filing these charges. I am filing them myself, to vindicate an untruth which he has made concerning myself."

The assertions which Mr. Wilson has made against me have been made to members of the Oregon Conference and upon such testimony I intend to conduct my case. The letters will not appear unless they are retracted, and testimony which may be given on the other side. No one in the world knew of these letters but my wife, myself and myself, and first knowledge of them got abroad in Portland must have come through Mr. Wilson, directly or indirectly.

Vindication Is Sought. "As to the statements which the Rev. Mr. Wilson has made to members of the Oregon Conference about me, I wish further to say that he has retracted them in part, but not fully, and it is to gain a complete vindication, before the conference and the church, that I am bringing these charges."

Mr. and Mrs. McCain apparently are living happily together in a pretty home on North Fourteenth street, in this city, and if there ever was an estrangement between them they appear to be completely reconciled. Mrs. McCain today staunchly vouched for her husband's character and declared that she "intended to sink or swim with him."

"I want it distinctly understood," she said, "that I never have used terms of reproach against my husband or made charges against him which would tend to blacken his character or injure his reputation."

CHURCH HEARING IS TODAY. Dr. C. T. Wilson Declines to Comment on Charges.

A special committee of Methodist Episcopal ministers will sit in the Masonic Temple in Portland today to give a formal hearing to the charges preferred by Harry McCain, temperance worker and active Methodist, of Salem, against the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, of Portland, former pastor of the Grace and Centenary Methodist churches, and for the past several years National executive secretary of the Methodist Temperance Society.

Mr. McCain has charged Dr. Wilson with lying, defamation of character and violation of law.

Dr. Wilson has declined to make any statement in reply, declaring that he is under strict orders from his superiors not to discuss the case. His friends intimate, however, that some lively counter charges in his behalf will make today's hearing an especially interesting one.

The hearing will be presided over by Rev. William Wallace Youngson, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This hearing will not be a trial. It will correspond more nearly to a grand jury hearing.

After all the evidence on both sides has been presented to the tribunal they may use their judgment in either dismissing the case or remanding it to the Methodist Conference of Oregon for trial.

The conference meets in Springfield next September. The ecclesiastical tribunal sitting today has the power if it considers the evidence sufficient, to suspend one or both of the parties pending this trial.

Dr. Youngson was in La Grand yesterday on church matters, but he returned on a late train so as to be in Portland for the hearing.

One of the counter charges that may be brought against Mr. McCain, it is said, is that Mr. McCain was virtually dismissed from the Intercollegiate Temperance Society a year ago, and that he holds this fact against Dr. Wilson. However, Dr. Wilson absolutely declined to discuss this allegation.

PANTAGES STAR PROVES STRENGTH IN ORDINARY STREET ATTIRE.

Mattie De Long.

From Chicago to Portland on five hours' notice and then have to make the first appearance in street clothes was the fortune of Mattie De Long, the vivacious young comedienne at Pantages this week.

To strengthen the programme, Alexander Pantages telegraphed Miss De Long to rush to Portland. She just made train connections in time to appear at the Monday matinee. But when the time came to dress for the act the wardrobe trunk had not appeared. Miss De Long gamely met the situation by going on in her street clothes and demonstrated the advantage that clothes do not make the man—or woman—by scoring heavily.

MUSIC IDEALS HIGH

Louis Graveure, Belgian Baritone, Lauds America.

DEMAND MADE FOR BEST

Noted Musician Says After War America Will Assert Her Nationality and Insist on Compositions in English.

Why? America is the greatest musical Nation on earth."

Louis Graveure, the eminent Belgian baritone, who is to participate in Portland's musical festival at the Auditorium this week, protested against the common impression that America has no taste for music.

"Your local symphonies and festival associations ought to be encouraged by all means."

Strongly reiterating that he is the unfortunate victim of a "relentless persecution" and declaring that he will quickly prove his innocence of any charge which has been filed against him, George N. Farrin, former well-known Portland attorney and at one time a candidate for Attorney-General, was brought back to Portland yesterday from Montana in charge of Deputy United States Marshal Ford, of Helena. He is held to answer a Federal indictment charging him with forging the name of Ralph Tatro to a United States Treasury Department certificate for $10.

Farrin admits signing his name to the American public likes the best. The tradition that Americans prefer light, flighty compositions is false."

Effect of War Expected. Mr. Graveure, who is staying at the Benson Hotel, declared that the war doubtless will cause America to assert her nationality in the future rendition of opera. America will insist on hearing the works of foreign composers in the English tongue.

"France doesn't tolerate an opera in anything but French," he explained. "Germany doesn't permit anything but the German. In Spain they demand the Spanish and in Italy the Italian."

"While some of the spirit of the piece may be lost in the translation it is more than made up by giving the people something they can understand. Only America and England continue to stand for the silly business of listening to operas or other vocal music in a tongue that they can't understand."

One immediate effect of the war, he said, will be the probable elimination of the German language from the operatic and concert stage. They are doing it already in many American musical centers.

German Music Upheld. "But it is absurd to eliminate the works of German composers from our musical repertoire. To do that would be to cut out the body and trunk of music. Why, what would we have left were we to take away Schubert, Schumann, Wagner and the rest?"

Mr. Graveure brings the glad news that "the great American composer" of which he has been discovered. He is Bryceson Trehan, a young man of Welsh extraction, who was interned in Germany at the beginning of the war. He was recently exchanged with other prisoners and brought with him from his prison camp about 80 compositions which soon are to be published in New York.

The young man never had attempted any serious compositions before his internment, but while suffering in the German prisons his soul was stirred to music. Verses of Lord Byron, Thomas Moore and other English authors form the words of what Mr.

GRAVEURE CALLS HIS ELECTRIFYING COMPOSITIONS.

Mr. Graveure came to Portland directly from New York and will go from here to Santa Monica, Cal., where he and Mrs. Graveure will pass their vacation.

Portland will find her new Auditorium a splendid investment," he commented. "It will attract music lovers to this city who otherwise would have no excuse to come."

"Your local symphonies and festival associations ought to be encouraged by all means."

VETS TO BE GUARD

Commander of Boys of '98 Suggests Plan.

250,000 ARE AVAILABLE

"Flying Squadrons" to Be Supplied With Automobiles, Rifles and Machine Guns, Ready to Respond to Riot Calls.

Spanish war veterans, almost 250,000 have formulated nation-wide plans for home protection, in every city and state, while national guard organizations are at the front.

Details were made public in Portland yesterday by D. V. Chisholm, of Washington, D. C., Commander-in-Chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, who, on a tour of the country, is visiting the local camp.

"We propose to organize 'Flying Squadrons' among the Spanish war veterans in every city of the country," said Mr. Chisholm yesterday. "These squadrons will use automobiles exclusively, each machine to be manned by four men, carrying rifles, riot guns and sufficient rations for 24-hour service."

"These machines will be donated to the work by patriotic people who are willing to assist their country during

FIREFACKERS CAUSE SMALL FIRE.

A small fire, caused by the shooting of fireworks, was the only damage reported to the police yesterday as a result of the Fourth of July celebration. The fire was in a house owned by J. Connel, 1513 East Ninth street North. The loss was about $150.

WHY?

Machine Guns to Be Supplied. In addition to rifles and riot guns, each squadron will be equipped with at least one machine gun and ambulance outfit. It is proposed to have 25 machine guns to each 100,000 population in the more thickly populated cities.

Spanish War veterans have come forward in a splendid manner during the present crisis, Mr. Chisholm said. Records show that 25,000 veterans of that war have already enlisted.

In private life Mr. Chisholm is Assistant Public Printer at Washington, D. C. That office of the Government printed 787,000 Army drill books during the month of May alone.

"I find people along the Coast and in the Middle West apparently are not as alive to the seriousness of the war as are people farther East," said Mr. Chisholm. "I do not believe, however, it is lack of patriotism, for I have
