

PORTLAND SEES ITS FIRST BIG ROUND-UP

Multnomah Field Well Adapted for Staging Contests of Cowboys and Rough Riders.

BIG EVENTS ARE MANY

Addison Bennett Finds Fault With Management for Not Taking Audiences Into Its Confidence. Suggestions Are Made.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

The Portland Round-up Association put on its first performance in Portland at the Multnomah Field yesterday afternoon and repeated the same last evening. The weather was most auspicious and the field where the show was staged is certainly well adapted for such a performance, with the possible exception of a shortage of room for housing the wild horses and wild steers, but that is something that can easily be overcome. As far as the track is concerned, as well as the enclosure within the track, these are all that could be desired, while the seats are so arranged that every one gives a full view of the entire arena.

Twenty-four Acts Billed.

There were 24 acts billed for yesterday and a couple more were added to these, one of which, a song, "Montana," rendered on horseback by Tracy Lane, was about as well received as any of the set acts. The published programme was as follows:

- No. 1—Introduction of noted riders.
- No. 2—Song by Tracy Lane.
- No. 3—Cowboys' pony race.
- No. 4—Trick and fancy riding.
- No. 5—Cowboys' relay race.
- No. 6—Hind bucking burro.
- No. 7—Cowboys' relay race.
- No. 8—Steer riding.
- No. 9—Hind bucking contest.
- No. 10—Pony race.
- No. 11—Trick and fancy riding.
- No. 12—Hind bucking.
- No. 13—Hind bucking.
- No. 14—Cowboy's drunken ride.
- No. 15—Indian pony race.
- No. 16—Indian pony race.
- No. 17—Cowboys' relay contest.
- No. 18—Cowboys' Roman race.
- No. 19—Cowboys' bareback riding.
- No. 20—Cowboys' relay race.
- No. 21—Quick-change race.
- No. 22—Indian relay race.
- No. 23—Indian relay race.
- No. 24—Wild horse race.

Much Enthusiasm Elicited.

Some of the events were well contested and elicited much enthusiasm from the audience, which numbered somewhere about 2000 people. The bucking contests were about medium, perhaps taking the ten of them their merit was a trifle above the average, but there were no hair-raising exhibitions for the reason that the horses that bucked the worst gave but very few jumps before dropping into a docile condition. That is only to be expected when horses are frequently used for such a purpose.

The management could add to the pleasure of its audiences by making the announcements more explanatory and by placing numbers on the backs of the men and women who do the stunts. These numbers are given these people in the programme, but there is no way for a member of the audience to tell who is doing a stunt unless he or she knows by personal acquaintance. Also the time of the continuing events should be announced (if taken) and there should be some particulars either published upon the programme or rendered audibly by the announcer as to the number of rounds of the track to be made and other conditions of the events, and by all means an announcement should be made at the close of an event as to the winner. That certainly was not always done yesterday afternoon.

Show Should Do Good Business.

With the fine talent in the way of people and good animals, well up to the average, the show should do a good business all the week and will if the management will take their audiences a little more into their confidence and keep them informed on every detail of what is going on in the arena or on the track.

There will be two performances each day during the week, one at 2 P. M. and the other at 8 P. M.

The following were the winners in the various events yesterday afternoon: Cowboys' relay race, Shorty Hall; cowgirls' pony race, Bertha Blane; pony express race, Jimmy Taylor; chariot race, Tracy Lane; Indian pony race, James Changrow; cowboys' Roman race, Buff Jones; cowgirls' relay race, Bertha Blane; Indian relay race, James Changrow.

SCENE IN THE TEMPLE

CHARMING PORTLAND GIRL HOSTESS AT SMART LUNCHEON AT MULTNOMAH HOTEL YESTERDAY.

Miss Marguerite Templeton.

A beautiful and impressive ceremony last night, Miss Marie Haller became the bride of Neagle Sealy. The wedding was solemnized in Westminster Presbyterian Church in the presence of a large company of friends of the young couple.

Pink roses and snapdragons mingled with ferns adorned the church and the altar where the vows were exchanged. The bride entered with her father, H. M. Haller. The service was read by the pastor, Dr. Edward H. France, and officiating in the ceremony with him was the Rev. John H. Boyd, pastor of First Church. The bride was beautiful in her gown of white tulle embroidered in pearls and made over a foundation of white satin. The train of satin depended from the shoulders and was veiled in tulle edged in lace. A band of orange blossoms held the veil in place.

The bride bouquet was a shower of orchids and white roses. Miss Helen Haller, who was her sister's maid of honor, was charming in a gown of pink tulle made over silver lace. The bouquet was of pink buds and sweet peas arranged in shower effect. Miss Ellen Sealy, sister of the bridegroom, was attractive as one of the bridesmaids, wearing pink tulle over cloth of silver. The trimming of the gown was of silver lace and the bouquet was a graceful arrangement of pink sweet peas. Miss Arvilla Beck with a lovely girl from Salem, another bridesmaid, wore a gown of pink tulle made over white silk lace. Her bouquet was like that of Miss Sealy.

A charming, pretty little flower girl was Harriet Hofmann, who wore a smart French frock of white with sash of pink. She carried a basket of pink blossoms. Mrs. Haller, mother of the bride, was distinguished in royal blue tulle made over black. Franklin Korrell was best man and the ushers were Russell Johnson and Stanley Bowby. Mrs. Luis Dahl Miller sang an Indian love song before the ceremony. J. Hutchinson presided at the organ and played the wedding march and bridal march.

After the church ceremony the party went to the Haller residence, where a table decorated with Canterbury bells, roses and delphinium giving the artistic pink and blue effect so popular at smart affairs. Serving in the dining-room were Mrs. George M. Hyland, Mrs. C. Lewis

Mead, Mrs. Theodore Nicolai, Mrs. C. W. King, Mrs. J. B. Ettinger, Mrs. F. J. Raley, Mrs. Louis Abell and Mrs. W. J. Hofmann. A bevy of pretty girls assisted about the room. Among these were Miss Marian Chapin, Miss Sara Patrick, Miss Genevieve Chapin, Miss Eugenie Calhoun, Miss Harriet Kern, Miss Margaret Rader, Miss Margaret Porter, Miss Marjorie Reed, Miss Geraldine Coursen and Constance Hyland. After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Sealy departed for their wedding trip amid a shower of the good wishes of their friends. The bride wore a going-away tailored suit of dark blue cloth with chic hat to match. The couple will be at home after August 1. The bride is popular socially and the bridegroom is well known in business circles.

One of the prettiest luncheons of yesterday was that at which Miss Marguerite Templeton was hostess. She entertained in one of the private tearooms at the Multnomah Hotel. Miss Ruth Miller, daughter of Mrs. Myra Kingman Miller, was an honor guest. Sharing the favors with her was Miss Helen Powell, niece of the hostess. Dorothy Perkins roses, from which trailed sprays of baby roses. At each place a miniature jar of jam. The couple left on a trip, and after a fortnight will be at home in this city.

Members of Lincoln High School Alumni and friends will attend a boating party tomorrow night. They will start from the beach at 8 o'clock and will be at the Kiloogee boathouse at 8:15 o'clock.

In honor of Miss Helen Ladd, whose marriage to Alan Green will be June 25, Mrs. John Cronan will entertain this evening with a smart dinner party. On the menu will be a dinner at their home on East Twenty-fourth and Beach streets. On Tuesday Miss Ladd will go to the beach with Miss Mary Stuart Smith to rest at the Jay Smith cottage at Bay Ocean until the end of the week.

Tennis is claiming the interest of devotees of the sport, and the attendance at the tennis courts on Friday and Saturday for the Northwest tournament bids fair to be large. There will be a number of out-of-town visitors, and in addition to tennis there will be the social side that will be arranged for them.

The committee of prominent women who will serve tea and who will be assisted by a bevy of lovely young girls too often neglected. The prettiest thing to do is frequently to take a boat ride around the pond rather than to ride the noisy merry-go-round. Richard L. Gallienne says that many children spend the day at Coney Island without knowing that it is next to nothing. It is a neglected kind of exploring. It is much more comfortable than in winter. It comes at a time of day when one is not too exhausted to do anything. Why not become familiar neighbors with your family of all the principal constellations this summer?

There is a mental exploration, suitable to home journeys on the porch in the coolness. Laura Spencer Porter has remarked that "the only thing that is a drinking cup of the mind." Why not quench the thirst and broaden the vision of your children this summer in one of Andrew Lang's many-colored compartments? Poetry, too, takes the traveler's rest off the earth. Get Coney Island's "Golden Straws" and climb it, or enrich your home with Burton Stevenson's "Home Book of Children's Verse."

Home-Made Vacations. To the Editor: For a long time something the other day about being "fellow-explorers" with our children. Just how could I apply this to our vacations, which we must this year spend at home? SOPHIA W.

O. M. PLUMMER PRESIDES

Department of School Administration Holds N. E. A. Session.

The opening sessions of the department of school administration of the National Education Association in the Auditorium yesterday were governed by O. M. Plummer, of the Portland School Board, and during one of his addresses he forcefully emphasized the important and honorable position held by the School Director in any community.

"No office within the gift of the people carries with it such importance and has such honor attached to it as that of the School Director," said Mr. Plummer, "and no man should be on the board who is not a lover of children."

SEGREGATION IS FAVORED

Addresses Interesting in N. E. A. Department of Science.

Interesting addresses and discussions featured the session of the department of science instruction of the National Education Association in the First Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday.

Segregation of classes in chemistry was the consensus of opinion of those who spoke.

The addresses were made by Arthur Deane, superintendent of schools of Fargo, N. D., his subject being "General or Elementary Science"; Charles Kirkpatrick, vice-president of Broadway High School, Seattle, "Physics and Chemistry"; L. M. Higgins, of the department of science, Tacoma High School, "Earth Science and Biology"; George H. Black, president of the State Normal School, Ellensburg, Wash., and E. R. Edwards, state high school inspector of South Dakota, "Training of Science Teachers."

Professor Norman C. Thorne, of the Lincoln High School, Portland, presided.

COUNTY FARM COST DROPS

Hospital, However, Shows Increase to 91 1-2 Cents a Person.

Out at the Multnomah County Hospital the grim specter of high cost of living has stalked during the month of June, according to the monthly report of Miss Gertrude Creasey, superintendent, which was filed yesterday with the County Commissioners.

Her report shows that the daily increase per capita amounts to 3 1/2 cents. The jump is from 88 cents to 91 1/2 cents per day per person.

On the other hand, the cost of living has shown a marked decrease at the Multnomah County farm. The superintendent's report shows that the per capita daily cost has decreased from 55 2-3 cents a day to 51 1/2 cents. The decrease is due to an extensive vegetable garden, from which much of the food is now secured.

Silks are now printed by means of color photography by some French textile manufacturers.
