

FAST MATCH WON BY A. S. FROHMAN

J. W. Moore Presses Singles Victor in Second Day of Tournament.

WOLFORD IS EASY WINNER

Contender for Patriotic Play Honors Beats K. Smith, 6-0, 6-1—Defeat of Miss McBride by Miss Fox Surprises.

Playing superb tennis J. W. Moore gave A. S. Frohman a hard battle in the second day's play of the Oregon state patriotic tennis tournament at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club courts yesterday.

The Frohman-Moore match went to three sets, Frohman winning 6-4, 4-6, 6-5. The driving of winning was equaled by the wonderful returns made by the loser.

In the mixed doubles W. L. McDougal, of Salem, and Miss Agnes McBride disposed of H. Holl and L. Gynther in a hard three-set match, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Catlin Wolford, contender for tournament honors, made quick work of Kenneth Smith in the men's singles, winning 6-0, 6-1.

The defeat of Miss Agnes McBride by Miss Lilly Fox was the big surprise of the day. Miss McBride had a habit of winning tournaments, but was no equal for Miss Fox, losing in two straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

"The world must be unified, but with the consent of nations which remain independent and autonomous," declared Jules Bois, the famous French writer, who is in Portland on the invitation of the Alliance Francaise, in his lecture before the alliance last night at the library. His subject was "French Democracy—The Rights of Man and the Rights of Nations."

"The rights of nations proceed directly from the rights of man. We picture the world of the future as a republic of nations, where each people would be as the free citizens of the republics which cover the earth.

"The systematic hegemony of our enemies is also to conceive the world unified, but as they have no liberty at home and seem to have no taste for it, they do not admit the basic principle of the rights of man.

"Not admitting the rights of man, they also deny the rights of nations. For it is only logical for a nation of slaves to try to enslave other nations."

Bois is in Portland.

"In a lecture given at the Sorbonne of Paris, in 1882, long before the present events, Ernest Renan had foretold this great clash of ideals. He had stated that not only would liberty be lost if the world had only one master and one law, but the seeking and the reaching after the beautiful would be diminished and abused. It would be fatal that one race, one people, by its brutal strength should, with the needed liberties, destroy the rights of other peoples, the varieties of feelings, the shades of emotions, the special flavor of the national genius.

"Therefore we can hope that, by the victory of the allies and of their aims, the world will become not only more liberal, but happier and more beautiful.

"Before the war certain extreme battles had tried to oppose the idea of nation to the idea of humanity; in their mind the nation or the international had to be sacrificed to one another; these 'extremists' had become anti-patriotic under the guise of being humanitarians. This war has proved that only the real patriot is the true humanitarian and that one can only reach a true conception of humanity through the path of duty to one's country.

France and America Compared.

"So French democracy prepared international democracy. Our revolution of '93, putting forward the rights of man, prepared the triumph of the rights of nation and French democracy has always been in full accord with American democracy.

"The Constitution of the United States of America can become the starting point of the constitution of the United States of Europe and from that, later on, the United States of the World."

M. Bois' lecture was to have been given in room H of the library, but so great was the throng that attended that it was necessary to change the place of meeting to the larger library hall, which was well filled. The lecture was delivered in French, and the foregoing is translated in excerpt from it.

M. Bois was the guest yesterday of S. C. Lancaster in a trip over the Columbia Highway, and on his return he was enthusiastic in commending it to the most famous highways of the old world.

He was the guest of honor at a dinner at the University Club last night, at which C. Henry Labbe, French Consul to Portland, presided.

The second and last Portland lecture of this distinguished member of the French Academy will be on "The Spirit of Sacrifice—Joffre and the French Soldier," and will be given in English, tonight at the Lincoln High school. An admission of 50 cents will be charged, and the proceeds will go to the fund of the American Red Cross.

Bevo A BEVERAGE. Look for this Fox on each crown top. Watch!!!

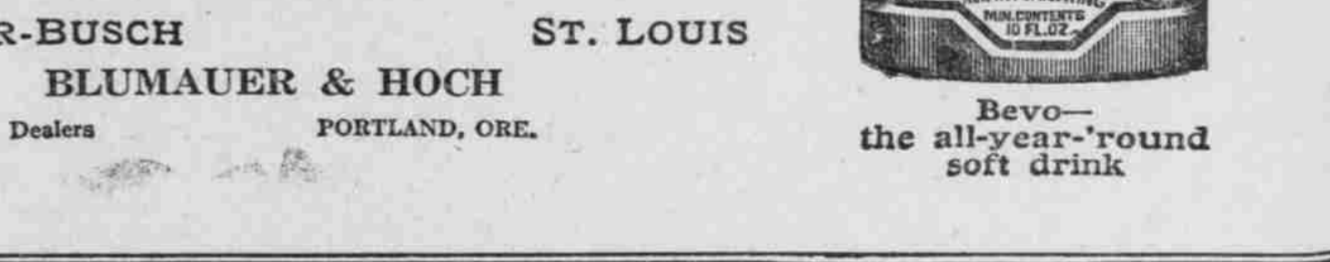

For some years, various and sundry concerns have been making beverages which are grouped under the general description of "near-beer." Then came Bevo—a cereal-beverage, not a "near-beer," but offered purely for what it is—a delightful, wholesome and nutritious drink. Bevo met with instant and complete success. A whirlwind success. Owing to Bevo's popularity, some beverages are now being offered in a way to make the appearance of the package look as much like the Bevo bottle as possible. The intention is obvious. But you don't taste the shape of a bottle—it's the flavor of the contents of the bottle that you must depend upon for enjoyment. Then beware of impersonators—don't be satisfied to try to identify Bevo by the shape of the bottle alone—

Look!! There are these certain identification marks that are your protection against imitations. Not just imitations of the product, remember—but those more insinuating imitations which try to deceive you by putting an old failure into a bottle similar to a new success. So look for these unmistakable marks of the genuine Bevo—demand that the bottle be opened in front of you, then—

Look for the Seal See that it is unbroken covering the Crown Top Look at the Crown Top, and see that it bears the Fox Be sure the Bottle bears this Label

Listen! Bevo is a pure drink. This means more than that it contains pure ingredients—it means that though you might often well be afraid of possible germs in milk or water, Bevo, being a pasteurized product in sterilized bottles, is absolutely free from bacteria. Bevo is a nutritive beverage—the fine cereals from which it is made give it this quality. Bevo is a delightful and refreshing soft drink—unlike any you have ever tasted—indeed a Triumph in Soft Drinks. You can't get these good qualities in anything but Bevo—demand the genuine.

You will find Bevo at inns, cafeterias, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, soda fountains, dining cars, steamships, canteens, soldiers' homes, navy, and other places where refreshing beverages are sold. Your grocer will supply you by the case. Bevo is sold in bottles only—and is bottled exclusively by ANHEUSER-BUSCH ST. LOUIS BLUMAUER & HOCH Dealers PORTLAND, ORE.
