of Captain L. M. Clark the drill team was put through its paces, while in the clubhouse the big symphony orchestra prepared for its August concert under the direction of Frank Eichenlaub. John C. Boyer, the regular conductor of the orchestra, is away on a business trip. Friday is card night, the hosts for the evening to be Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Ebenshade. We have to do? The task seems much harder and more distasteful if we com-plain about it and deciare that we "just hate it." Isn't it a good idea to do the task as well as we can and be as cheerful as possible, and if we can't in truth like it, we can work with a determination to be doing something more to our liking in the near future? The Honor Guard Girls are fortunate

If you wanted to talk to a girl wouldn't you 'ry to lo-cate her? If you run after a man he will run away. PORTLAND, Or, July 18.—Dear Marian Miller: I am in love with a man who has taken me out to saveral parties, but who never said he cared for me. One day I saw him with another girl and next time he saw me alone I scoled him for it and cried. He said: "Don't be a fool." What shall I do? ELSIE M.
