

TONG HEADS MUST PLEAD TOMORROW

Gatens Expected to Sustain State's Demand That Murder Suspects Remain in Jail.

DOZEN CHINESE ARRESTED

Detectives Spread Net for Suspicious Characters in Efforts to Solve Murder of Back Yee—No Known Progress Made.

Ching Jung Hing and Gon Woo, respectively, president and secretary of the Suey Sing tong, were arraigned yesterday before Circuit Judge Gatens and given until Saturday morning in which to enter pleas to the indictment charging them with the murder of Chin Hong June 2. Mol Hem, well-known Chinese interpreter, and Suey Fong, also a Suey Sing, were arraigned under the same indictment.

These prominent tong officials are the first to be arraigned on the secret blanket indictment returned against 27 officers and prominent members of the Hop and Suey Sing tongs.

E. V. Littlefield, of counsel for the defendant Chinese, yesterday appealed to Judge Gatens that he would follow the advice of the District Attorney's office, so it is believed that the Chinese must remain in jail until their trials are started.

Detectives yesterday arrested nearly a dozen Chinese in various sections of the city in connection with the latest killing, July 18, which, they say, the officials have been unable to fathom. Five Chinese were found quartered in a small house on Park street, but they were given their release after a close examination by Mr. Collier. They also denied membership in any of the warring tongs.

Others were arrested and closely questioned. Detectives and Deputy Sheriff are following out the advice of Mr. Collier to pick up any Chinese who might be able to give a good account of themselves and a number are under examination every day.

WHEAT YIELD SURPRISES

District Near Heppner Produces Better Than Was Expected.

HEPPNER, Or., July 26.—(Special.)—Harvesting is under way in some sections of the county and the yield is proving much better than was expected in the northern part of the wheat belt yields of as high as 11 sacks or approximately 25 bushels an acre are being reported. In the Eight Mile section, west of here, harvesting will not commence until next week, but most farmers are now expecting from 10 to 15 bushels.

A man of wide experience in growing and grading wheat in this county today expressed the belief that a large amount of this year's crop will grade as first-class milling grain, being exceptionally rich in gluten. The weather is cooler and is favorable for the maturing of crops.

ous entertainment value. Not only that sunny grin of optimism ever present, but Fairbanks trots out a repertoire of athletic and acrobatic stunts that make the spectator marvel at the versatility of this personification of high-voltage Americanism.

Fairbanks vaults fences, climbs up buildings, rides on brakebeams, wrecks an automobile, dons the padded gloves for a ring encounter and winds up his strenuous career with a glorious free-for-all melees with a squad of thugs after a boxcar. There are no slow moments in the picture.

Through all the exciting experiences of Peter Prindle, son of the pure food king, in his search for fame through the newspapers, there runs a love story, for his adventurous career looks forward to the goal of matrimony. Only by achieving fame can he meet his dad's demands and secure a slice of the Prindle fortune to lay at the feet of his beloved.

Peter starts out on the road to fame by writing a testimonial for a patent medicine. This gets his picture in the papers, but only enrages his father, the exponent of pure food. So he turns to accident and wrecks an automobile, but his publicity-seeking stunt is a dismal failure. He enters the boxing lists, but ere his victory is complete the place is raided. Finally, as he is "beating" his way home on a boxcar containing Prindle products he runs into a dynamite plot and wins fame and the approval of Pa Prindle by foiling the plot.

"Dodging His Doom" is an unusually good Keystone comedy. It stars Conklin, the "walrus" of the "movies," as the chief entertainer. Sunset Travel Pictures complete the programme.

"THE FALSE FRIEND," a Brady-made World melodrama of exciting action, excellent acting and fine photography, co-starring Robert Warwick and Gail Kane, is the week-end headliner on the Star Theater programme. The 14th chapter, or next-to-the-last episode, of the Pathé serial, "The Mystery of the Double Cross," with beautiful Molly King as its star, opened yesterday for a two-day screening, closing tonight.

Warwick is accorded numerous opportunities for vigorous melodramatic work, and whether as a successful young lawyer, a "down and out" specter of poverty and his wife's illness, or a lumber camp, presents satisfactory portrayals of these widely different types. Miss Kane displays fine emotional power and wears with her usual grace, costumes ranging from a gorgeous wedding creation to a nifty riding dress.

The story of "The False Friend" presents Warwick as William Ramsdell, football hero and friend of the wealthy DeWitt Clinton (Earl Schenck). After a football game Ramsdell is introduced to Judge Farrell and his daughter, Virginia (Miss Kane). Clinton, a wealthy man, is threatened with dishonour unless he discards Marietta (Phina Nesbit), a cabaret dancer. He forces Byron, a man forced to burglary by poverty and his wife's illness, to steal papers from Marietta, who threatens suit for breach of promise. Byron kills the girl in a struggle.

Clinton, and Ramsdell fight for the love of Virginia and Clinton, with the aid of Byron, now a butler in the Farrell home, plots so successfully that Ramsdell, a brilliant lawyer and partner of Farrell, is convicted of being a drug addict. Later, in a lumber camp, Ramsdell, now a butler, meets the wife of Clinton, and their old affection is revived. Byron confesses and Clinton and Ramsdell fight, during which Ramsdell shoots Clinton and then jumps off a cliff.

While "The Mystery of the Double Cross" is nearly ended, next week opening the finale, not yet is the spectator let into the secret of the identity of the girl of the Double Cross. Next week comes the exposure for which Ramsdell has been eagerly looking forward to for so long.

Peoples.

Seldom has a motion picture met with such general approbation as "The Little American," the Mary Pickford patriotic photoplay, which is closing an engagement at the Peoples Theater.

Immediately following the opening of the picture of the world war Manager Melham, of the theater, received an anonymous letter, containing the exhibition of the production, the unknown writer asserting that it is a vicious attack on German-Americans and is calculated to create a hatred for the Americans of German birth of blood. In answer to this a number of prominent people have indorsed "The Little American" as a wonderful film sermon, one badly needed at a time when so many people are using the proper terms, "hatred for America and her allies are fighting for—democracy against Prussian militarism. Several letters of approval have been received, all commending the management upon securing such a feature for its patrons.

The savage brutality of the Prussian war machine, as expressed in the actions of its soldiers, approved by officers, toward French peasants and French nurses, is pictured in a way which furnished one of the most powerful parts of an unusually strong photoplay.

The picture gave Director De Mille an opportunity for presenting some wonderful war scenes, including the torpedoing and sinking of a transatlantic liner, the bombing and destruction of a French village and the destruction of a chateau.

Majestic.

"The Innocent Sinner," a melodramatic photoplay of much stirring action and dramatic appeal, directed by R. A. Walsh, who is adding new triumphs to his list with each production, and featuring Miriam Cooper, well-known player, such spectacles as "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," opened a three-day engagement at the Majestic Theater yesterday.

This latest William Fox photodrama presents a modern story of victimized women and dramatic appeal, directed by the regeneration and final happiness of a girl who left the country to become the center of a meadow of vice and crime. The production shows the result of splendid direction, has many dramatic situations and several spectacular fights. Miss Cooper is supported by a cast including Charles Clay, Jack Standing, Jane Novak and Rosita Marstall.

Mary Ellen is led from her home in the country on promise of marriage. Because she is innocent she falls on evil ways. One day the man who led to her is found murdered. She flees from the house and tries to make an honest living. Finally she falls in love with a doctor. The doctor was a friend of the man who lured her to the city and who was afterward murdered. When the doctor learns that she is the girl who had indirectly been the cause of his friend's death he is shaken with disgust, but the story of the friend's duplicity changes the aspect of affairs so that he begs the girl to become his wife.

Heart-Pathé News presents many interesting scenes, including the effects of the recent German air raid on London, Scotch Highlanders in New York and official French war scenes. A two-act Foxfilm comedy, "The Film Spooks," is another subject on the bill.

Liberty.

A fetching smile, charming personality, a careful manager and beauty are the assets which Olive Thomas, star of the famous Ziegfeld Follies, brings to motion pictures. Miss Thomas presents her wares in "Madcap Madge," a romantic comedy in which she makes her debut to the film millions.

In "Madcap Madge," a picture with typical boarding-house scenes and the inevitable pajama feast in evidence, a lot of pretty summer hotel stuff, romances, an elopement, a "climbing" mother who longs for a title in the family, and plenty of comedy. Miss Thomas has a part that was built especially for her. She can be unusually attractive, and the fact that she enjoys her own jokes and pranks immensely gives an added charm to the picture.

Madge, the younger daughter of Flower, is expelled from boarding school after the pattern of the principal (Gertrude Claire) has been exhausted. She makes her way to Palm Beach, where Mrs. Flower (Aggie Fearing) and her elder daughter, Julia (Dorcas Matthews), are engaged in the pursuit of an earl to change the name of Julia. The minor until they meet Denham (Charles Gunn), son of Flower's most powerful creditor, so there is nothing for anyone to complain about.

John Cohen, "Portland's Nightingale," will be heard in song for the remainder of the week. A Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy, "The Submarine
