

COUNCIL TO STAND FOR EDMONDSTONE

Three Members Announce Opposition to Change of Any Kind on Railway Project.

CHECK ON WORK IS CLOSE

Trouble With Contractors Over Extras Liable to Result in Lawsuits and Engineer's Testimony Thought Necessary.

Unless there is a sudden change of heart on the part of some of the members of the City Council that body will be unanimous against Commissioner Barbur in his move to oust George S. Edmondstone from the position of engineer in charge of the project for the elimination of the O. W. R. & N. grade crossings on the East Side. The question will be before the City Council Wednesday for settlement.

Three members of the Council—Mayor Baker and Commissioners Mann and Bigelow already have spoken against the plan and it is understood that Commissioner Kellaher will also oppose it in the form in which it has come up. The Council members deem the move to be one for the best interests of the city. There are several controversies at present in connection with the project due to claims on the part of Mr. Edmondstone that the contractors on the work have not been pushing their work according to schedule. He has also recommended against the granting of a number of extra items amounting to several thousand dollars.

Legal Points Checked. Rumors that Mr. Edmondstone would be ousted from authority in connection with the project were in circulation some time before the move against him was made. Mr. Edmondstone says he gathered from remarks made to him while he was on the scene of the work, that he faced trouble.

Since troubles came up recently about items of extras and certain other things in connection with the project the city has been safeguarding itself against lawsuits. Chief Deputy City Attorney Tomlinson has been assigned to the task of keeping tabs on the work of the city's interests. Mr. Edmondstone has compiled records and taken photographs reciting every feature of the work to date and has been working in conjunction with the legal bureau in handling every detail of the procedure.

Original Plan Modified. That Mr. Edmondstone would be an indispensable asset for the city in case of a lawsuit because of his knowledge of what has transpired, is generally conceded by all concerned, including Commissioner Barbur. It is for this reason that Mr. Barbur changed his original plan of ousting Mr. Edmondstone altogether to a proposal to retain him in a consulting capacity, relieving him of authority in connection with the project.

It is known that the city's legal bureau is looking with apprehension on the removal of Mr. Edmondstone. Protests also have been made by concerned parties in connection with the job. One such protest has been made by the concern having the contract for furnishing the steel. Commissioner Barbur says he intends to go through with his programme of subordinating Mr. Edmondstone. Mr. Barbur's main contention is that the move in the interest of economy and that if he is to be responsible for the project he should have authority to say who shall have charge. The Council on the other hand has taken the position that no economy that could not be exercised under present arrangements is apparent and that the Council as a whole and Mr. Barbur individually is responsible for the project.

4 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoonful vanilla, 1 teaspoonful lemon extract, 1 1/2 squares chocolate.

Soak gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes, dissolve in the boiling water. Add sugar and cool, but do not chill. Beat whites of the eggs and add liquid gelatine and sugar a few spoonfuls at a time, beating constantly. Divide quickly into three parts. Color the first part pink, add chopped nuts and vanilla flavoring. To the second part add melted chocolate and vanilla flavoring, and to the third part chopped cherries and lemon flavoring. Mold in square mold. Serve in slices with whipped cream or a soft custard made from the egg yolks, or with fresh strawberries and cream, or with a macedoline of fresh fruits. The chopped nuts and cherries may be omitted if a plainer dessert is preferred.

Grape Juice.—Ten pounds grapes, 3 pounds sugar, 1 cup water; cook until the pulp and stones separate. Steam through a jelly bag, add sugar, bring to boiling point and seal in sterilized bottles, using new, well-soaked corks and dipping the bottles "overhead" in paraffine or bottling wax. This precaution is necessary with all fruit juices put up in bottles.

Portland, July 6.—Kindly give a recipe for wheat-and-corn muffins, which appeared some time ago in The Oregonian. Would like also if possible the recipe for the nuts demonstrated some time ago by Mrs. Vaughn. I used both recipes, but seem to have lost them. Thanking you in advance, MRS. A. K. R.

I think the following is the chocolate doughnut recipe you want, but I am not sure about the muffins, as I have given a number of different muffin recipes. Write again if it is not what you want.

Chocolate Doughnuts (Mrs. Vaughn).—Three tablespoonfuls Crisco, 1 1/4 cupfuls sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1/2 squares melted chocolate, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoonful soda, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, 1 teaspoonful cinnamon, 3/4 teaspoonful salt, 1 1/2 teaspoonfuls vanilla. Cream Crisco and add sugar gradually, while beating constantly; then add eggs, well beaten, melted chocolate, milk and flour, mix and sift with soda, cinnamon and salt. Add vanilla and enough more flour to handle the mixture. Toss on a slightly floured cloth, knead slightly, pat and roll to one-fourth inch thickness, shape with a doughnut cutter, first dipped in flour, fry in deep Crisco, heated until cube of bread will turn golden brown in 60 counts, and drain on brown paper.

Wheat and Corn Muffins.—One cup cornmeal, 1 cup Graham flour, 1/2 cup entire wheat flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup brown sugar or 2 tablespoon molasses, 1 teaspoon soda, about 1 1/2 cup sour milk, 4 tablespoon shortening. Sift the dry ingredients, then mix and beat thoroughly. Bake in very hot chocolate greased pans.

Sour cream is available it may be used in place of all or part of the shortening and the milk and flour proportionately reduced. Well-soured buttermilk may take the place of sour milk. Mixture may also be steamed in a covered tin or baked in a shallow loaf pan or in a dripping pan with or without a few nut meats or raisins.

TRAINING THE CHILD BY WILLIAM BYRON FORBUSH, PH.D.

I have a Chamber of Horrors in my barn. Not a room where I hang discarded wives, not a hall of historic waxworks. I have decided that there is no better place for a barn today than for stabling gift-horses. Here I hide, in the loft above my car, my collection of hideous presents, that I will not keep in the house to offend the eyes of my children.

It took courage to establish it, and it requires prudence to keep it up. It would never do to admit anybody who has unwittingly contributed to the collection.

Gift-Horses Sold or Exchanged.

It started with the crayon portrait of a maiden great-aunt and an iron peg by hitching post. It was soon joined by a cuckoo clock and an obelisk paperweight. A Rogers' statuette of "The Favorite Scholar" stands beside the three Japanese monkeys and underneath a plaster full moon. The same shelf has a coconuts Irishman and a crocheted basket partly hidden by a snakeskin and the jaw of a swordfish. Some of my friends are humorists and are to be as much distrusted as the Persians when they come bearing gifts. One of them gave me a dog last Fall. Still it is known as Tippecanoe because it is a long way to her. During Christmas day she presented me with eight puppies.

When I found my stock growing so

Mrs. George W. McMath has as her house guest at Beasdale Miss Birdie Merrill. Trips to Cannon Beach and interesting nearby points are occupying much of the vacation time. Mrs. McMath, who is president of the Oregon Congress of Mothers, went to Seaside for the Summer accompanied by her little son, Bobbie.

H. M. Calk entertained recently at a breakfast party at Chanticleer Inn.

Mrs. A. R. Baker at the Maywood cottage, Seaside, has as her guests for the week her aunt, Mrs. E. H. Keene, and little daughter, of Salem.

Mrs. M. C. Bowles, accompanied by her granddaughter, Mrs. Victor Hibbard, will occupy her cottage at 129 Third avenue, Seaside, for the Summer.

Flowers and congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. C. Van Houten, of Rose City Park, upon the arrival of a small son, born Tuesday, July 24.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 20.—Will you please give at your earliest convenience a recipe for a "marshmallow pudding" that is made in layers of different colors and can be served like ice cream for a party; also an easy method for putting up grape juice? Thanking you for help received in the past, MRS. N. T. S.

I HOPE the following may be what you want. There are so many desserts with a "marshmallow" label that it is a little hard to "guess." Marshmallow Cream.—One-half package granulated gelatine, 1/2 cup cold water, 3/4 cup boiling water, whites of

The Sofa That Praised.

I have a friend, a minister, a bachelor, of exquisite taste. His rooms are a symphony in brown, with sepia photographs and tooled bindings and coffee-colored window curtains. Among his many adorners is a spinster who felt commissioned not long ago to go about and collect funds in the parish for a donation. She took the money and put it all into an oak sofa with a red and blue tapestry cover. She presented it, in the midst of a group of the conspiring benefactors, with tears in her voice. It was a magnificent gesture, as we say. The thing was too kindly to refuse, too expensive to destroy, too awful to dispose of. Speaking of gift-horses, this was a Percheron. When you entered the room you could see nothing else.

The good man realizes that, like the Lady of Shalott, the curse has come upon him. He usually stabilizes it in an adjoining room where, with a curtain cover, it becomes a gigantic organ stool. But whenever he hears a ring at the door he hurries to a peephole, and if it be a parishioner he trudges it back into the living-room. I think he will have to resign his pulpit soon.

Firm Measures Required.

I know a bride who had given her a hand-tinted picture of "Little Eva in Heaven" and a cream-colored knit bedspread, "run" with coarse ribbons. When she was arranging the wedding presents she laid the coverlet over the picture frame and hid both under the table. But as soon as the honeymoon was over she took them both out in her back yard one dark evening and burned them. Then she wrote a letter of condolence that melted the hearts of both her good kinswomen.

On her birthday each of them sent her a duplicate. Your house is your castle, not a rummage-sale shop. It is the home of your children. Its pictures, its statuary, its adornments, will be the pictures, statues and adornments that they will remember all their lives beyond any others. They will always express the very meaning of home to them. The children should love them, not be haunted by them.

The only way to handle a gift-horse is to break it as a colt.

A Girl's Camping Outfit.

Dear Mr. Forbush: I am going to take the girls at my Sunday school class out camping. Will you name the articles I ought to ask each one to bring, so that we may not omit anything important? I have been a member of a camp, but I have never conducted one. ESTELLE M.
