

ICE DEALERS AGREE TO 70-CENT RATE

Mayor's Demands Met After Parley With Representatives; Proviso Is Made.

CASH RATE STAYS AT $1

Mr. Baker Has Not Accepted Concession Definitely and May Require Uniform Price—Anti-Trust Prosecution Is Club.

Ice dealers yesterday agreed to accede partially to Mayor Baker's demands for lower rates to consumers. The dealers announced a willingness to sell four 25-pound coupons for 70 cents. At present the rate for 100 pounds is $1, except where the purchaser buys a book of 300 pounds, in which case the rate is 70 cents a hundred.

Mayor Baker has taken the proposition under advisement until today. While the new rate offered is a reduction it may be that the Mayor will consider it too limited in that it does not affect ice sold for cash.

A conference was held yesterday morning in Mayor Baker's office with A. Riddell, of the Iceberg Coal and Ice Company, and W. C. Holman, of the Ice Delivery Company. At that time it was announced that the companies were unwilling to grant the 70-cent rate for 100-pound purchases, but would grant an 80-cent rate. Later Mr. Holman telephoned to the Mayor that the 70-cent rate would be granted.

Cash Sales Held Up.

Ivan Humason, special investigator for the city, made a study of the ice business and reported that 70 cents for 100 pounds of ice would give a fair profit for the companies. Accordingly Mayor Baker demanded that the companies drop to 70 cents a hundred or stand the brunt of prosecution under the anti-trust ordinance of the city. It was reported by Mr. Humason that a combine exists in the city. The dealers had been given until yesterday to make their answer.

The ice companies as represented by Mr. Riddell and Mr. Holman agreed to turn over to the janitors in apartment houses supplies of ice at 30 cents for each 100 pounds, the janitors to dispose of the ice as they saw fit. It was agreed that the companies should sell four 25-pound coupons for 80 cents. This later was cut to 70 cents. Ice sold on a cash basis, the dealers said, could have to remain at 1 cent a pound.

Cash Trade Not Desired.

This is where the sticking point is with Mayor Baker. He says he believes all consumers should get advantage of the 70-cent rate. The dealers say they want to get rid of the cash purchase business, as it is unsatisfactory to them because of their delivery men.

Mayor Baker has instructed City Attorney LaRoche to prepare an ordinance to present to the Council tomorrow morning aimed to correct this trouble. The measure will require the deliverymen to leave statements showing the weight of the ice delivered. It is planned to have the City Sealer of Weights and Measures keep careful tab on deliveries.

In announcing that the 70-cent rate would be granted Mr. Holman said he was speaking only for his own company, but that he understood the others would do the same. He made the statement, however, that purchasers to get advantage of the 70-cent rate for 100-pound orders must go to the offices of the companies and buy the coupons. He says they will not be sold by drivers. This arrangement also may be a sticking point with Mayor Baker.

Negotiations with the companies are not at an end. Mr. Baker will go into the subject further today.

CLARK PLOT CONFESSED

taken. The plan was to horsewhip Mr. Clark if he did not submit to the procedure, and later also to take him to Vancouver, Wash., and force him to remarry Mrs. Clark.

Furthermore, Kleineau told the authorities that Mrs. Clark had told him that the Circuit Judges of Multnomah County had been urging her to horsewhip Mr. Clark and said she told him she had many of the lawyers of the city with her in this sentiment.

The authorities believe this statement is particularly significant as showing Mrs. Clark's state of mind.

Theft of $70,000 Alleged.

Mrs. Clark, said Kleineau, had told him Mr. Clark had stolen $70,000 from her and it was for the purpose of getting this back that she wanted to take him to Vancouver and force a remarriage.

Kleineau swore that his brother Glen told him that "There probably will be something in it for you," when he hesitated to enter into the kidnapping arrangement. He thereupon consented to go ahead with the scheme.

Mrs. Clark, said Kleineau, did not intend to horsewhip Mr. Clark, "unless he got mean in the office." She was to take him to her home, have his hands tied behind his back, and then take him with which to take the proposed photograph with herself posed with the whip in hand.

Penalty Is Assented.

Kleineau agreed, he said, to tie Mr. Clark's hands. Mrs. Clark was to pose in a striking attitude and Kleineau was to snap the photo.

The plan to horsewhip him was a feature of her idea, it was explained, in forcing the return of money alleged by her to have been stolen from her to the amount of $70,000. Being penniless, she had told Kleineau, she proposed to compel Mr. Clark to return this sum.

Kleineau said that she had repeatedly told him he need have no hesitation about entering into the plan with her, as she had discussed the horsewhipping idea with the circuit judges and they had told her: "Now, you're talking." She said there was no danger for me," Kleineau added, "as she had many of the lawyers as her friends and I would come out of it all right."

Relative to the revolver with which Kleineau attacked Mr. Clark, the following statement was made:

Possession of Weapon Explained.

Question by Mr. Collier—When did you get this gun?

Answer—I got it Saturday night.

Q—You got it for this purpose?

Yes, sir.

Q—Did Mrs. Clark direct you to get this gun?

Yes, sir.

Q—Did she tell you where to get it?

No. She asked me to get a gun, and told me to get it; be sure to get it, and told me if I could not get one, "I will see that you get one."

The Kleineau brothers called at Mr. Clark's office in the Ison building Sunday, shortly after noon, and as a ruse to get him into the automobile the older man told Mr. Clark that he wished him to look at some real estate. After getting in the machine and driving two blocks a revolver was pointed at Mr. Clark by the older man. The two men grappled and fought fiercely during a wild ride down Washington street, which was only terminated when the machine hit a pile of lumber, throwing the occupants out of the car.

Hearing to Be Today.

The preliminary hearing set for yesterday for the two men was postponed in Municipal Court until today at the request of Deputy District Attorney Delch. They are charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

Mrs. Clark was in court yesterday morning and seemed to be greatly agitated. She also said that her intentions Sunday were to try and force Mr. Clark to remarry her.

It was said last night that the state would probably try Mrs. Clark again for her sanity. Mr. Clark said that he does not care to have his former wife prosecuted, but that he will prosecute the young man.

ALL COAST CORPS AT FORT STEVENS

Later Five of 12 Companies of Oregon Artillery Go Across River.

EQUIPMENT STILL LACKING

Colonel Hammond Praises Men for Prompt and Efficient Manner in Which Camp Is Pitched. Active Training Begins.

FORT STEVENS, Or., July 30.—(Special.)—The entire 12 companies of the Oregon Coast Artillery Corps of more than 1400 men, including the officers' regimental staff and medical corps, which arrived here early this morning, established a record for itself in pitching camp today. Early in the afternoon all of the 12 companies reported to Colonel Hammond that their respective camps were set up, which included the erecting of a permanent kitchen.

Colonel W. E. Ellis, stationed at Fort Stevens with his staff, met the troop trains and did everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the organizations. Colonel Ellis, who is working in perfect harmony with Colonel C. C. Hammond, who is in command of the Oregon Coast Artillery, pronounced the Oregon corps a well-drilled organization.

Colonel Hammond was high in his praise for the manner in which the men pitched their tents and completed the details for the various quarters.

Five Companies to Cross River.

Announcement was made by Colonel Hammond that the entire body of Oregon Coast Artillerymen will remain at Fort Stevens tomorrow, until every member is provided with a complete outfit. The physical examination will also be given here before five of the 12 companies depart for Fort Columbia and Fort Canby. The Portland, Marshfield and Albany companies are slated to go to North Head fort, while the Medford and Tillamook companies will be at Fort Columbia. A number of men are without uniforms and until the equipment arrives fatigue clothing has been issued.

Colonel Hammond lost little time after his arrival here early this morning in issuing orders which resulted in the immediate erection of the 12 camps. The members of the Portland company, through Lieutenant Stretcher, who is the company's commanding officer, extend their heartfelt thanks to the women's auxiliary of the company for the good home-made sandwiches they donated for the trip. The Portland company arrived at 8 o'clock in the morning and regulars greeted the National Guardsmen with hot coffee, which tasted good after a tiresome journey. Captain Lee Roy Woods, of the Sixth company, from Cottage Grove, was given 15 members of the Portland company that were attached to the organization temporarily.

Lieutenant Stretcher Popular.

The calling away of Captain F. W. Wright, of the Eighth company, for duty in an aviation school at San Diego and the sudden illness of Second Lieutenant Walton, places more than 200 men under the command of First Lieutenant Stretcher. His men are loud in their praises. Colonel Hammond has announced that active training will begin tomorrow. The Oregon Coast Artillery band gave a concert in front of the regimental headquarters this evening. A number of Portland and coast honor guards visited the fort this afternoon.

SHEEPHERD IS MISSING

Flock in Charge of Clinton Herolles, Near Cove, Scattered.

BAKER, Or., July 30.—(Special.)—Upon receipt of word that Clinton Herolles, shepherd, has not been seen for three days, and that his sheep are badly scattered, Charles Gardner left today for the vicinity of Cove. Fort sheepmen are on the range in the 30-man reserve to investigate the disappearance.

It is believed that Herolles has been injured or killed. He has been herding for G. F. and C. W. Gardner this year and has been employed by a number of sheepmen on the Lower Columbia River at other times. His herd, which is located northeast of Cove, was discovered to be scattered yesterday and it was reported that Herolles had not been with the sheep or in camp for at least three days.

Hood River Soldiers Take Fruit and Vegetables With Them.

HOOD RIVER, Or., July 30.—(Special.)—When Twelfth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, was ready to strike camp yesterday a surplus of vegetables and cherries, the donations of generous housewives, was found. But they were not left behind. Instead, they went with the boys in cans, through the courtesy of the Newtonian Canning Company.

The women of the artillery auxiliary, composed of the wives, sweethearts and friends of the soldiers, prepared lunches for the boys Sunday night. Many were the big boxes, laden with dainty sandwiches, fried chicken and other foods the boys delight in, taken aboard the special car.
