

OREGON GETS ORDER

Adjutant-General White Calls Draft Mobilization.

LOCAL BOARDS INSTRUCTED

One-Third of State's Quota of 717 Soldiers Must Be Mobilized Within Five Days After September 1.

The first call to the colors of men included in the first draft from Oregon will be made September 1.

On that day, one-third of the state's quota of 717 men will be ordered to mobilize.

The mobilization of this first one-third is to be completed by September 5, following five days for moving the drafted men to mobilization camps to be designated by the War Department, where they will receive equipment and instruction.

Orders to this effect were received by Adjutant-General George A. White yesterday in a telegram from the Provost Marshal-General at Washington.

Local Boards Instructed.

No instructions were given in this telegram relative to the dates for mobilization of the remaining two-thirds of Oregon's quota. It is presumed, though, that all the men included in the first draft will be summoned by September 15.

That all the men in Oregon's first quota may be selected in time for the mobilization, so there will not be one moment's delay in getting them ready to be sent out long telegrams to the local boards throughout the state instructing them to carry out their work of examining men with all possible expedition.

An immense amount of work is involved in selecting Oregon's small quota of 717 men. To get them ready by September 1 will require fast work in the physical examinations, and in passing on all claims for exemptions and discharges.

Oregon Is Handicapped.

Oregon has been handicapped for five days in getting started on the examination of men called up on the first draft by the delay in the mails in delivering the official lists, containing all draft numbers in the order in which they were drawn. Until these arrived, the work could not be started.

General White is confident, however, that if all local boards will expedite their work to the greatest possible extent, his order will be overcome. He has impressed upon them the absolute necessity of expediting up.

Authority has been received from the Provost Marshal-General to waive many technicalities and red tape in the conduct of examinations. One-third of Oregon's quota of 717 is 239, the number of men who will be mobilized for military service in the first week of September.

THEY NEWS

BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

A wedding for the near future will be that of Miss Edith Catherwood and Dr. R. C. Virgil, of Dallas. The date for the ceremony has not yet been decided. The ceremony will be at the home of her uncle, G. F. Honey, who has an attractive country place near Gresham. Miss Catherwood, a cousin of Miss Catherwood, will entertain on August 14 at a tea at her home at 1688 East Alder street. Miss Mildred Crout will give a shower on August 17 for the bride-to-be.

Recent festivities for Miss Catherwood were those presided over by Miss Jevelly Weatherly, who entertained a club to which a coterie of girls belong; Miss Florence Honey, who was hostess at a musical and dancing party at Six-tonota and 34th streets and the Misses Gladys Loughrey and Marie Griffin who gave a shower at their home near Dallas.

Miss Catherwood is the daughter of Thomas Catherwood. She is an attractive girl and popular in a wide circle of friends. Dr. Virgil is well known in Oregon. The marriage will please the interest of friends in Multnomah and Polk counties.

Miss Ethel Marie Brown entertained yesterday with dinner party at the Portland Hotel in compliment to Miss Laura Akin and her house guest, Miss Harry Akin, of Berkeley, Cal. Miss Akin and Miss Kewell will announce soon to resume their studies at the University of California. Both girls are Chl omegas and are decidedly popular socially. Miss Newer has been visiting Miss Akin for the summer vacation.

The Girls' National Honor Guard of Forest Grove made 14 children's dresses recently and sent them to the Duryea war relief in France.

Hillsboro Honor Guard girls gave $25 to the ambulance fund a few days ago. The guard girls are replacing the men in picking fruits and vegetables and in various farm activities.

Miss Margaret Mansfield has returned from a fortnight's visit to Astoria and Seaside where she was delightfully entertained.

Miss Irene Mosher will be hostess today at a card party at which the date for the wedding of Miss Hilda Cliff and Harry E. Divilbitt will be announced. Several social honors are planned for Miss Cliff for the near future and a number of festivities are being arranged by her friends.

Miss Lucile Clark is spending a few weeks in San Francisco, Southern California, visiting friends and relatives.

Judge and Mrs. A. C. Dorton and their daughter, Jean Virginia, and small son, Arthur Carroll, Jr., motored to Ocean Lake Park last Saturday, where they will spend August.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wheeler, Miss Marguerite Wheeler, Mrs. J. C. Rector and Joe Wheeler have returned to this city after an extensive motoring trip to the Tillamook beaches and other points of interest.

Miss Doris Dabney will leave today for Seattle, where she will visit friends and relatives. Miss Dabney is one of Portland's most attractive young society girls and she always is entertained extensively when she goes-a-visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hefflerin and their daughter, Miss Maybell Hefflerin, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Richard T. Dabney. The Hefflerins formerly lived in Boston, but have come to make their home here.

The Red Cross unit of the First Presbyterian Church will hold an all-day meeting Friday in the church parlors. There is a great amount of work to be done and a large attendance is desired. All women who are interested are invited to attend this meeting.

The Oak Grove-Milwaukie Social Service Club will give a lawn fete this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Dean Butler, 1115 Oak Grove. Automobiles will meet the 2 P. M. and 2:30 P. M. Oregon City cars.

The members of the Auxiliary to the Typographical Union and their friends who are interested in Company C, Engineers, are invited to meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. C. burn, 853 Holly street, Ladd Addition (Hawthorne cars). Take needle and thread and go prepared to sew.

The Red, White and Blue Girls, doing Red Cross work under the direction of Miss Worthington and Miss Catto, will meet in the East Side Library this afternoon at 2 o'clock. They are making hospital kits, bandages, and other wash cloths, comfort pillows and knitting and anything of use in hospitals. All girls over 9 years of age are cordially invited and all donations of old table linen, bed linen, muslin, outing flannel, Turkish toweling and bedspreads will be thankfully received. Persons having such material to give please send to Miss Worthington, 177 East Twelfth street, Phone East 5154 or to East Side Library.

A formal reception or housewarming will be held, probably early in September.

Mrs. J. B. Comstock is president of the union and a number of Portland's most prominent women are directors.

Mrs. T. S. Hogan, vice-president of the "Broad Women's Club" will go to Milwaukee, Wis., Friday morning, with the delegation of Foresters, who are going to attend the Foresters' convention, which will meet at Milwaukee, August 14. Mrs. Hogan will go to Buffalo, New York, before returning to Portland.

The officers of the Auxiliary to the Letter Carriers' Association will be hostesses today at the home of Mrs. John Valentine, 725 Fremont street from 2 to 5 o'clock. The affair planned is a lawn party.

S. M. Grant and E. B. Layman, of this city are in Los Angeles and are at the Hotel Clark of that city.

Miss Lois Macy has returned from a visit in Pendleton where she was entertained by Mrs. F. Willard Bond.

On Monday evening the Portland members of the Wesley Dow's class at the Museum of Art, consisting of the art teachers, artists, students of the school of the Portland Art Association and members of the Portland Art Club, will entertain the out-of-town members of the class in the studios at the residence of the bride's parents. The school and the art department of the Public Library will assist in Portland's hospitality to the art students from other states.

The regular card evening for the members of the Laurelhurst Club will be this Friday. Bridge and 500 will be played. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Willis will be host and hostess. On Saturday, A. C. Holmes will instruct the dancing class for the last time this season. Next Tuesday afternoon the women of the club will play cards. The hostesses will be Mrs. James Forbes and Mrs. T. P. Blair.

A home wedding, simply, but charmingly planned was that of Miss Emma Fleck and Charles Nicoud, solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Fleck. Pink sweet peas in profusion mingled with ferns and roses to form an effective floral decoration of the rooms. Rev. W. T. Kerr officiated. The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory charmeuse with opalescent beading. Her veil was held in place with a banderol of orange blossoms. She carried brides roses and sweet peas arranged in a shower. The maid of honor was Miss Irene Steele who was attired in pink organdie over pink silk. Miss Beatrice Fleck, the bridesmaid, wore turquoise blue silk. Both the attendants carried shower bouquets of asters. Dave Edie was best man. Mrs. Emma Klippel, Scougal sang "I Love You Truly." Miss May Pendergrass accompanied the singer. Miss Isabelle Steele played the wedding march.

After the ceremony, a reception was held and the guests assembled to shower the young couple with good wishes. A buffet supper was served at the conclusion of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Nicoud left for a wedding trip and they will return about the middle of August.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Downing entertained with a theater party the opening night of "Come Out of the Kitchen."

Among the honored guests were Miss Kerr, Miss Kate Whittier, Gilbert Daniels and Horace Daniels. A supper at one of the larger hotel grills followed.

Miss Helen Morgan and Miss Mary Woodward left yesterday for Port Townsend, Wash., where they will be house guests of Miss Inezetta Klockner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. McCoy, of The Dalles, are passing a few days at the Portland Hotel.

Yesterday afternoon the receipts at the Italian garden fete given for the tubercular children of Italy, on Tuesday at the A. A. Morrison residence, were estimated at $325.

Acme Rebekah Lodge, No. 32, Independent Order of Oddfellows, will give a card and dancing party at their hall at First and Alder streets Saturday for the benefit of the ambulance fund for the Third Oregon.

Mrs. E. C. Sewall, of San Francisco, will arrive this week for a visit with her sister, Mrs. John C. Almsworth.

We are thoughtful. Let's think of the other fellow occasionally.

And that reminds me. How many of you have promised to write to the soldiers who have gone away? They are your friends and they will think of you and miss the home folk. I received a letter yesterday from a friend in France who tells me of the joy of hearing from the friends he knew in "the old home town."

EUGENE, Or.—My Dear Marlan Miller: When a girl would be pretty were it not that she has only a few colorless eyebrows and eyelashes. I don't want to use a pencil. Is there some harmless preparation that will cause them to grow, and if there is, what is it? I will be so grateful to you if you will answer this question for me.

Send me a self-addressed and stamped envelope and I will give you definite directions. There is no harm in coloring the eyebrows, provided it is done carefully and artistically. The great mistake is to use too much or to put it on in a slovenly fashion.

TRAINING THE CHILD BY WILLIAM BYRON FORBUSH, PH.D.

"WHAT would you do with a small child who won't listen to fairy stories?" a mother asked me this morning.

"Why does he not like them?"

"What kind of reading does he like?"

"He doesn't like any kind long. He wants always to be up and doing. But he enjoys travel pretty well, and he is fascinated by magazines about popular mechanics."

"The boy is One-Sided."

I learned by further inquiry that the father is a salesman of automobile accessories and fairly lives in his car. The boy is very much with his father, and already shows quickness and skill with his hands. He began to read late, and does not read very easily. Probably, although stories of fancy have been offered him, his home-folks have not pressed them upon him. He is the one that usually represents the crest of fairly-tale interest, but evidently his imagination is under-developed.

Diving for Mermaids.

This is not quite an accurate statement. It does not have imagination in our usual sense, or visualizing scenes of fancy. But he does have imagination of quite another kind. He is not "eye-minded," but "motor-minded." From a skootamobile he can fashion a Ford, but he has no materials for manufacturing a fairy.

I turn to a pretty Danish story about another little boy. He is sitting with his father, who is a story writer, beside a brook, and he is looking at the pictures of Hans Andersen's "Little Mermaid."

"Is there a little mermaid down there, in the water?" he asks.

His father carelessly answers "Yes." In a trice he splashes in, and the father dashes out, catches hold of him and pulls him up on the grass.

"There was no mermaid," splutters the drenched youngster.

The father does not know what to reply.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Central Drug Co., of Detroit, Mich., says: "We consider your Castoria in a class distinct from patent medicines and commend it."

Christy Drug Stores, of Pittsburg, Pa., say: "We have sold your Castoria for so many years with such satisfactory results that we cannot refrain from saying a good word for it when we take a chance."

Jacob Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., say: "We take pleasure in recommending Fletcher's Castoria as one of the oldest and best of the preparations of the kind upon the market."

Hees & McCann, of Kansas City, Mo., say: "Your Castoria always gives satisfaction. We have no substitute for it and only sell 'The Kind You Have Always Bought,' the original."

The Voegel Bros., of Minneapolis, Minn., say: "We wish to say that we have at all times a large demand for Fletcher's Castoria at all of our three stores and that it gives universal satisfaction to our trade."

Polk Miller Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "Your Castoria is one of the most satisfactory preparations we have ever handled. It seems to satisfy completely the public demand for such an article and is steadily creating a growing sale for its merit."

F. A. Capdan, of New Orleans, La., says: "We handle every good home remedy demanded by the public and while our shelves are thoroughly equipped with the best of drugs and proprietary articles, there are few if any which have the unending sale that your Castoria has."

M. C. Dow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "When people in increasing numbers purchase a remedy and continue buying it for years; when it passes the fad or experimental stage and becomes a household necessity, then it can be said its worth has been firmly established. We can and do gladly offer this kind of commendation to Fletcher's Castoria."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

"Do you write that sort of stories?" "Yes," the father answers, shame-faced. "I don't like any of you," the lad declared. "You make fun of a little boy." He turns his back sternly and walks into the house. He is never fooled again. I imagine that something of this sort has happened to the son of my friend. When he asserts, "Fairy tales are not true," what he really means is, "They are not useful." They are very useful to an eye-minded youngster. They make beautiful the clouds of his day dreams and they furnish companions with which to hold dialogue while he walks alone. But you cannot use a mermaid when you are tinkering machinery, neither do you find them playing on the bank when you are looking for a chum to go in swimming with.

Father a Bit Stodgy.

I know this boy's father pretty well. He is the kind that grinds his own values, and enjoys sitting on his porch and identifying the passing cars at 50 yards. You can smoke with him, but you cannot talk with him. He never reads, nor goes to lectures, and often leaves a movie in the middle of the fourth reel. He is a happy man, perhaps happier than I, but he is a human box-turtle. I can realize why the mother doesn't want her son to be like him. But what can she do?

This kind has to be caught young. Already this mother has lost at least three years and a half, she should not only have told him stories of fancy, but helped him make up his own fables. She should, even in his play with machinery, have encouraged him to populate his railroad trains and steel constructions with imaginary engineers. She should express him at once to the contagion of children who have fancies. And she may extend his interest in books of travel to interest in biography and world-adventure, by her lively stories.

Of course she is to a degree working against nature. Her estimable but heavy-eyed husband will very likely call her foolish. It is worth nothing, though, that our best schools of technology are beginning to emphasize the value of the study of imaginative literature, because they have discovered that the most successful inventors and engineers are something more than mathematicians and mechanics; they are men of vision. The mother with her fancies may actually do more for this boy than the father with his monkey-wrench.
