

"We Are Partners"

(Number 1)

The Partnership consists of the Public, the Employees and the Investors.

The Public grants the Right to Serve and expects Good and Adequate Service at Reasonable Rates.

The Employees provide the essential Human Element in the Service and expect Fair Wages and Fair Working Conditions.

The Investors supply the Money necessary to provide the Plant to keep pace with the Development of the Public Needs and expect Security for and a Reasonable Return upon the Money honestly invested in the Public Service.

Each Party to the Agreement is entitled to realize its or his fair Expectations.

No Question involving the conduct of the Public Service performed by a Public Service Corporation can be fairly decided without due Consideration for the Rights of each of the Three Factors involved.

No Public Service Corporation can achieve Permanent Success without the Good Will of the Public.

Good Will is the Outgrowth of Confidence, and Confidence will be given if all the Facts are known and considered in the Light of Reason.

There Is No Mystery about Public Service; all of the Facts are Available.

The System of Public Service Regulation now prescribed by Law absolutely eliminates the Possibility of Manipulation, Chicanery or Fraud being practiced against the Interests of the Public or the Employees.

Accounts and Records of this Company are kept in the manner prescribed by Law and Statements of Officials are subject to instant Verification or Refutation by the City and State Authorities.

With This Preliminary Statement, may we ask your Consideration of the Facts we shall present in a Series of Advertisements under the title, "We Are Partners"?

"DAD" WINS PRAISE

Speaker Tells of Origin of Fathers' Day Movement.

PRISON WORK EXPLAINED

Mrs. L. W. Owen Speaks at Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church on "Love Never Fails," Relating Labors in Penitentiaries.

Mrs. L. W. Owen, president of the Fathers' Day National Association, occupied the pulpit at the Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday morning, and delivered a lecture on "Love Never Fails," in place of the usual sermon.

Mrs. Owen prefaced her lecture with a short history of the Fathers' day movement. "This movement, now Nation-wide," said the speaker, "was organized in the little town of Irving, Or., a bit over a year ago. Previously, the entire Nation had celebrated a Mothers' day, a Children's day, a Flag day—in fact, every kind of a day but a Fathers' day. After all, dad is the head of the family—the backbone of it all. Mother darns the socks, but it was dad who bought them in the first place. And so now we have our Fathers' day, to be celebrated on the second Sunday in May of each year—the same time as Mothers' day."

"Many Prisons Visited." Mrs. Owen spoke chiefly of her experience as a public speaker for the last 41 years, during which time she has spoken in every penitentiary in the United States.

"Several years ago," she said, "I addressed an audience of 6000 persons in New York City—the garment workers. After my talk a white-haired old man and his wife came up to me and told me if I ever had occasion to visit Binghamton, N. Y., that they would like to have me stay at their home. A short time later I did come to Binghamton, and called upon my new friends."

"On the evening of the same day they told me of a great sadness that had come over their lives. Their son and his wife were in the penitentiary at Trenton, N. J. It seems that the boy had ruined his health while working as bookkeeper in his father's chair factory in New York, so the doctor ordered him to work in the open air for a year. He moved to Trenton, where he obtained work as a community gardener. His wife, a bright-eyed girl of 13, went bravely with him, and obtained work as a housemaid."

"Then trouble came. The wife broke the shade of a parlor lamp, and the mistress of the house refused to pay her first month's wages. She would not pay the gardener, either. So, in a fit of anger, the boy declared that if she took his wages he would take something of hers. He did; he took a piece of silverware from the table. The silver trinket was found in his wife's suitcase; she and he went to the penitentiary for a year.

helped me in every possible way. He did. The Governor, a tall, thoughtful, great-hearted man, assured me that if I obtained a petition asking for the release of the pair he would pardon them. I obtained the release; the boy and girl were pardoned. The man who was then Governor of New Jersey is now President of the United States."

Mrs. Owen spoke also of a girl at San Francisco who was sentenced to a year at San Quentin for forging a check for $5 with which to buy school books. Charles N. Crittendon, the great reform expert, with Mrs. Owen, obtained the release of this girl, and sent her to New York, where she is now the head of a great religious movement.

Mrs. Owen spoke last night at the Second Friends' Church, delivering the same lecture.

BATTLE LINES ARE DRAWN
Rev. W. L. Airheart Discusses in Sermon Pope's Peace Proposal.

Rev. Walter Lee Airheart, assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church, preached yesterday morning on "What Should Be Our Response to the Pope's Peace Proposal?"

"The German people," said Mr. Airheart, "under the leadership of the Prussian autocracy, have been converted into a great military machine. By their own greatest teacher they have persistently been told, 'You must love war more than peace, and a long war better than a short one.' In their cupidity they have been led on by the promise of world dominion through the spread of German Kultur."

"The Prussian point of view has been most clearly stated by Professor Lessan in 'Das Kultur Ideal und der Krieg.' 'Civilization,' says Professor Lessan, 'leads to concord, but civilization is not culture. Between different forms of culture there can only be a struggle. To ask for a pacific development of culture is to ask for the impossible, to reverse the order of nature, to put a false ideal in place of a real morality.'"

"On these lines the battle is drawn. The two contending principles cannot exist side by side in the same world. It is a fight to the death. Civilization has only been advanced by war insofar as the fight has been for its preservation. We have received in our civilization inestimable blessings and privileges, and these are held in trust for future generations. We dare not allow these to be wrested from our hands until we shall have been utterly overcome."

J. W. Sanger, special agent of the Department of Commerce, investigating advertising methods in Latin America, will visit Portland Wednesday and will speak at the Ad Club luncheon. He will meet leading business men who are looking forward to placing newspaper advertising in South American communities and will counsel them on vital factors in export trade problems.

Mr. Sanger is a great exponent of newspaper advertising and will point out advantages accruing from right use of this means of reaching the people. He declares the same rule applies to foreign advertising as to local.

HEIGHTS HOME IS ROBBED

Jewelry Valued at $100 Is Taken While Family Is Absent.

Dr. W. A. Lindsey, of 353 Council Street drive, telephoned the police late Saturday night that his home had been burglarized while the family was away. Jewelry worth in the neighborhood of $100 was stolen and several other articles were reported missing. The prowler gained entrance through a front window, which had been left open. Residents of that district informed the police yesterday that several suspicious-looking characters had been seen a few days.

Fishermen on Yaquina Bay are kept busy with a run of small herring, hardly large enough for packing purposes, but much in demand by the halibut fleet off Newport as bait. The Bay fishermen get 4 cents a pound, and not infrequently make $25 per night from the catch. One fisherman last week cleared $100 for six days' work. A few salmon are running. Good salmon catches are reported on Alsea Bay. Fishermen are receiving 7¢ a pound at the canneries at Waldport.
