

OUTRAGED BY MARK, WASHINGTON SAYS

Russian Crisis Causes Fear of Restoration of Czar or Conquest by Germany.

KERENSKY IS PREPARED

Trouble With Commander Believed to Have Arisen Over Discipline in Army, Although Government Pledges Support.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The crisis precipitated by the forced resignation of General Korniloff as commander-in-chief of Russia's armies is regarded here as possibly the most serious of the war since the six months' existence as a democracy.

The open fashion in which the deposed commander demanded from Premier Kerensky a virtual dictatorship and the adherence to his plans of ex-Deputy Lvoff with following of the Duma, and powerful members of the intellectual and military classes, indicate that the Korniloff forces feel sure that they can succeed.

Discipline of Army at Stake.

It is understood here the chief point at issue is the organization of the army along strict disciplinary lines, including the death penalty for officers violating orders, and the persistence of the Korniloff forces.

Apparently General Korniloff deplored of improving the situation by carrying out his frequent threats to resign and finally became satisfied that his influence was sufficiently powerful to wrest the entire government from the provisional cabinet.

Kerensky Prepared for Trouble. The provisional government's declaration of martial law in Petrograd and the substitution of General Klembovsky as commander-in-chief is accepted as indicating that Kerensky does not count on compromise tactics and is ready to apply his policy of "blood and iron" if necessary against the revolt.

Government Not at Odds. A number of times recently it has been denied by the provisional ministers that the government was at odds with General Korniloff.

New Commander High Grade. Officials here see in the appointment of General Klembovsky, who has commanded the armies in the north during the recent retreats from Riga, evidence that the government is endeavoring to strengthen its northern positions and hold the Germans against further advances on Petrograd.

General Klembovsky is one of the younger Russian Generals who heretofore has not played a spectacular part in the war. He is regarded, however, as an excellent military tactician and a strong personality.

Korniloff Told to Quit. (Continued From First Page.) Announcement at the proper moment to the people. At the same time I order General Korniloff to hand over his functions to General Klembovsky, commander-in-chief of the armies on the northern front, which bar the way to Petrograd, and I order General Klembovsky to assume provisionally the functions of Generalissimo while remaining at Petrograd.

Concerning the details and developments of the provisional government's refusal to make public the details, but the Associated Press, from fragmentary sources, has been able to collect the main facts.

Duma Supports Plans. At the interview Lvoff declared that he had come as General Korniloff's plenipotentiary to demand the surrender of all power into Korniloff's hands. M. Lvoff said that this demand did not emanate from Korniloff only, but was supported by a "group of politicians, workers," meaning an organization of Duma members, Moscow industrial interests and other conservatives.

FALL KILLS COACH

Hiram Conibear Plunges From Tree to Death.

WIFE WITNESSES TRAGEDY

Mentor Who Kept Washington Rowing Crews on Top Round of Coast Ladder Dies on Eve of Getting Ready for New Season.

SEATTLE, Sept. 10.—Hiram B. Conibear, the famous rowing coach, for 10 years director of the University of Washington rowing crews, was killed this morning by a fall from a plum tree in the rear of his home near the university.

Conibear had been picking the plums from a large tree in his garden. He climbed out toward the end of a limb, which gave way, and he plunged headforemost to the ground. His neck was broken, and death was instantaneous.

He is survived by his widow and 3-year-old daughter. Mrs. Conibear was watching her husband when he fell.

The Washington boat crews, under the coaching of Conibear, had long held the Pacific coast intercollegiate championships and were important contenders in the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., regatta more than once.

Conibear was 46 years old, a native of Mineral, Ill., and a graduate of the Chicago School of Physical Training.

Conibear had been connected with athletics and physical training continuously since 1897, in which year he became trainer of athletics in the University of Chicago. He remained there until 1901, when he was elected assistant director of athletics and coach of track in the University of Illinois.

He was there two years and then served as athletic director in the University of Montana, after which he returned to the University of Chicago for two years.

In 1907 Conibear was appointed director of physical training and coach of track at the University of Washington.

Two years later he was elected coach of rowing at the same institution.
