KERENSKY BATTLES WITH TERRORISTS

Efforts of So-Called Dictator Always Hampered by Liberty-Mad Mob.

YET PREMIER FIGHTS ON

Radicals. Inspired by Eloquence Refuse Obedlence-Task of Saving Russia Too Great for Any One Man Now Known.

BY RHETA CHILDE DORR. (Eighteenth of a series of articles teiling the inside story of Russia's revolt. Copy-right, 1917, by the New York Evening Mall. Published by arrangement.)

It is unfortunate that nothing has ever been written about Kerensky ex-cept eulogies. However deserved they may be, culogies have the fault of not being informative. Who is Kerensky? What kind of a man is he? Why hasn't he restored order in Russia? If he cannot restore order, discipline the army and make it fight, why doesn't he step aside and let somebody else try? These questions are asked on all sides.

I may not be able to answer con-clusively. But I was in Russia three months and I watched Kerensky progress from minister of war to minister-president of the provisional gov-ernment and virtual president of the Russian republic. I can tell my own observations of the man and I can present the evidence of events, allowing the reader to draw his conclusions. I saw Kerensky frequently, heard him speak several times, and, like almost every one else, I went through a period of extreme enthusiasm for him. A certain enthusiasm I have retained. I still think he has achieved marvels in keeping a concernant. marvels in keeping a government to-gether and remaining at the head of that government. In fact, Kerensky, whatever else is said of him, has at least kept before the wild-eyed, libertymad masses of the Russian people the certain fact that governments must be, that the state cannot exist without

There was apparently no other man in Russia who could do this thing. The old theory that great events always produce great men seems to have failed to the task before him.

These men thought that they had helped to bring on a political revolution. They little knew their Russia. There was just one man of ability in that first ministry who knew the truth, and he knew only part of it. Alexander Fodorovitch Kerensky, the Socialist who was appointed Minister of Justice, knew that what the world was about to witness in Russia was a social revolution. But he, too, was blind to the task before him.

At the very outset of his career as Minister of Justice Kerensky insisted on abolishing the death penalty. "I do not wish that this shall be a bloody revolution," he declared. In one sen-tence he showed how little he, too, knew his Russia.

There was some excuse for ignorance There was some excuse for ignorance on the part of most of the other ministers. Prince Lvoff, for example, was a large estate owner, a man who tived in the country a great deal of the time, one who had been active in the affairs of his zemstvo, or county council, a friend and adviser of peasants, but always the great gentleman, the superior man. Miliukoff was a prosuperior man. Miliukoff was a professor, a man of books, an amateur of music. And so on through the list.

But Kerensky was an obscure lawyer, one who specialized in cases of men and women accused of political offenses. He defended with flery zeal fenses. He defended with flery zeal young students whose revolutionary activities drew on them the tiger claw of the autocracy. He was the friend of the poor. He was one of the executive council of the Social Revoluparty, largely made up of Why did he not know and understand his countrymen? Why could be not have known that the shollshment of the death penalty at that hour of supreme crisis would drench the revolution in blood?

Kerensky is, or was in the begin-ning, an extreme idealist, a preacher, a prophet. He has changed a great deal since February, 1917. But events, I think, prove him still an extreme idealist, a dreamer instead of a doer.

will.

Has the mob ever obeyed Kerensky's an address.

Has the mob ever obeyed Kerensky's an address.

The night session was open and and election of officers was held. "Conquest Gifts." by Miss Carrie Millspaugh, and "World-well selection of open and world-well selection o is a sick man, spared himself no whit during those critical days. He tore able skin when the freedom of his mother country was threatened was unfit to live with brave men, Turning to the Colonel of the regiment, he demanded that the soldier be degraded and immediately turned out of the army, sent home a branded coward. The Colonel replied that there were others in the regiment who might with justice receive the same treatment. But no, said Kerensky, one man disgraced no, said Kerensky, one man disgraced was enough. He would be a symbol of lishonor. The Russian army needed nothing more. The unfortunate man is said to have fallen in a swoon. I wouldn't be sur-prised if this was so. But he was probably glad enough after he re-covered that he was sent home. Nor was the symbol of dishoner enough for he Russian army. It continued to desert.

Men Desert Despite Kerensky.

Often after one of Kerensky's speeches he would call on the troops to declare whether or not they would fight. Always they roared out that they would, to the death. Sometimes they didn't. At present no one can tell whether any soldier, except the Cossacks and the women, is going to go forward when commanded. Often Soviet's Support Insincere.

The Soviets? They have over and after fierce fighting, voted to give Kerensky support. Lately voted to give him supreme power. But they were never in carnest about it, and Kerensky knew it very well. They have proved that they were insincere, it seems to me, by their latest action in refusing to support any ministry not made up exclusively of Socialists, and making such a one subject to criticism and control.

"The Germans are at our very gates." Kerensky told those men. "While you sit talking here and refusing to listen to words of reason from your commander-in-chief, your revolution is in danger of destruction. Are there no words of mine to make you see it?"

Words, words, words! Hurled passionately from a burning heart into a whirling void. That seems to me to typify Alexander Feedorovitch Kerensky talking to the Russian revolutionary mob. they were never in earnest about it, ary mob.

The French revolution offers no parallel to this. Each one of the successive allel to this. Each one of the successive leaders of that mob accomplished something good or bad. Mirabeau led the mass as far as a constituent assembly. Marat and Danton got rid of the King. Robespierre imposed his will on Paris until the end of the reign of terror. Robespierre, "the sea-green incorruptible," is the nearest parallel to Kerensky the French revolution offers.

Kerensky the French revolution offers. He led the mob in the direction it wanted to go. Kerensky has followed it in a direction it wanted to go, begging it with all his strength to turn around and follow him. The mob applauded him, adulated him, wove laurels for his brow, but it would not obey him. He could not turn the mob. Perhaps nobody could have done so. Perhaps what had happened in Russia was inevitable, the only possible reaction what had happened in Russia was inevitable, the only possible reaction from three centuries of Romanoff rule.

To have it otherwise Kerensky has all but laid down his life. He suffers from some kind of kidney disease, and shortly before the February revolution has underwent an operation which has produce great men seems to have failed in this case. The most stupendous event in modern history, the Russian revolution, has as yet produced no great, or even, when Kerensky is left out, no near-great men. The first provisional government contained able men like Lvoff and Miliukoff. But they could no more cope with the situation created by the fall of autocracy in Russia than so many children could operate a railroad system.

These men thought that they had helped to bring on a political revolution. They little knew their Russia. There was just one man of ability in that first ministry who knew the truth, and he knew only part of it. Alexander Fodorovitch Kerensky, the Socialist who was appointed Minister of Justice, knew that what the world was about to witness in Russia was a lill but laid down his life. He suffers from some kind of kidney disease, and shortly before the February revolution he underwent an operation which near-ly finished him. His right hand is incapacitated and is usually worn in a sling or tucked inside his coat. He is also to take the list of the coat was also to take the situation of the fall of autocracy in the fall of autocracy all their brightness. When he is tired or discouraged they burn like somber fires.

His face is pale, and even sometimes an unhealthy gray, and the face is deeply lined and scarred with troubled thought. The nose is big and strong, the mouth deeply curved and the strong thin is cleft with a deep line rather than a dimple.

Protective Bureau.

The report further asserts that the excessive number of missing girls reported to the bureau during the past nine months has been due to "many foolish young girls who have been attracted by the uniform of the soldier."

The number of delinquent girls is increasing, the report, which covers the bureau's work for the last nine months, states.

REPORTS

NOTABLE BAPTISTS ADDRESS THE

THE DALLES, Or., Oct. 25,-(Spe-THE DALLES, Gr., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—Thursday morning's aession of the Oregon State Baptist Conference was opened with a missionary prayer-meeting led by Rev. C. L. Maxfield, of the Philippine Islands, Bible study under the theme of "Apostolic Glimpses of Jesus" was conducted by Rev. G. H. Young. Reports of auditing committee by C. E. Lewis, of Treasurer J. F. Failing and home missions by Rev. W. T. S. Spriggs were heard and concurred in.

. Spriggs were heard and concurred in S. Spriggs were heard and concurred in.
An address by Rev. L. C. Barnes, D.
D., on "Latin America" was heartily received. Rev. C. A. Moody, D. D., made a short talk on "Baptists and the War Situation." He was followed by an address by Rev. W. B. Maxfield on "Philippine Islands." Rev. W. B.
Hinson, D. Dr. closed the morning session with an insulgational address Guch men and women are never really great as leaders. They can stir up an enormous enthusiasm, send the crowd to the highest pitch of inspiration, even make it do monumental things for a time. But the dreamer's usefulness stops there.

Somewhere in Russia, in one of the universities perhaps, or in some farmhouse or on some lonely steppe, there lives a big, two-fisted, stroug-brained ruthless boy who can and will some day do the kind of ruling and guiding Kerensky talks about and would do if he could. Perhaps that boy got his inspiration from hearing Kerensky talk. But the boy is a real leader. He will stretch out his hand to the mob will.

On rimppine islands: Rev, W. B.

The afternoon session was devoted to reports from missions and general business. A song and prayer service was first held by Rev. R. F. Jamison, of Astoria. Report of foreign missions by Rev. W. T. Milliken, D. D. dand a report on the Women's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society sessions were made by Mrs. C. R. Marsh, this Elizabeth McDoll and Mrs. Fred Olmstead, Women's American Home Mission Society sessions were reported on by Miss Helien Crisman, Miss Carrie Millspaugh and Mrs. O. P. M. Jamison, D. D. dosed the session with

F. L. 7

Son.

Rev. George L. White addressed the convention on "Mobilizing the Press for Christian Leadership." Rev. W. B.
Hinson, D. D., closed the session with an address.

The night session was opened by a hurst of song. Reports of state officers were read and election of officers was held. "Conquest Gifts," by Portlan

PIONEER KNOWN IN ALBANY

Rev. Isaac N. Van Winkle Lived in Linn County 39 Years.

ail over the front in motor made scores of speeches, thrilling speeches. Every one reading in the newspapers of his wonderful speeches breathed more freely and whispered, "We are saved." But were they?

One incident. It may have been cabled to the American newspapers. On one front where Kerensky was speaking a soldier, doubtless deputated by the less brave in the regiment, stemped forward and said. "It is all very well to urge us to fight for liberty, but if a man is killed fighting what good is liberty to him?"

Instantly Kerensky's wrath poured in the connect the cast in eloquence. He denounced the cast in eloquence and a disgrace. The cast in eloquence of J. S. Van Winkle was the father of J. S. Van Winkle was the father and ex-postmaster.

Rev. Isaac A. Isaac County and was actively identified with the frontiant of Linn County for 39 years resident of Linn County for 39 years resident of Linn County in this his home in Portland years resided in this county until the Portland.

W. Loyd, of Central W. Loyd, of Central the Portland.

F. Hill Hunt, of Klamath Falls, s at the Portland.

Frank Fox, of White Salmon, is at the Nortonia.

P. A. Ridder, of Wilsonville, is at the Cornelius.

Edna Clausen, of The Dalles, is at the Cornelius.

J. M. Dorteman, of Butte, Mont., is at the Eaton.

J. D. Logan and Mrs. Legan, of

BANKER IS KILLED

Daring Robbery Reported at Edison, Wash., in Broad Daylight.

$17,000 IN GOLD IS TAKEN

Pat Halloran, ex-President of Institution, Fatally Shot: One Desperado Killed After Short Chase; Other Captured.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Oct. 25 .- Two andits entered the Farmers & Mer-hants State Bank, at Edison, Skagit County, at 19 o'clock this morning, and after shooting and fatally wounding Pat Halloran, ex-president of the bank, walked out with $1700 in gold, silver and currency. A posse was immediately organized and started in pursuit. One of the robbers was killed outright and the other was captured. Mr. Halloran died later at a hospital.

The men entered the bank just after

The men entered the bank just after it had opened. Both were dressed in overalls and wore hobnailed shoes. Flourishing revolvers, they commanded the bank officers to hold up their hands. Halloran started to walk toward the rear door and was shot in the back. The robbers fired a dozen shots and then calmly picked up two bags of gold, the only money that was in sight, and started down Main street on the run. n the run.

on the run.

Probably 160 persons had organized meanwhile and started in pursuit. The men were overtaken within ten minutes after they had left the bank. One started to jump over a fence and was shot dead. The other made no re-

Halloran was a pioneer of Western Vashington, where he had been prom-nent in politics for a number of years. The dead bandit was later identified as Earl Spurgeon, of South Bellingham, and the other as Ray, his brother. Both are young men between 20 and 25 years

SOLDIERS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR DELINQUENCY INCREASE.

Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin Raps Hotel and Lodging-House Operators in Report for Last Nine Months.

Hotel and lodging-house proprietors of Portland have been exceedingly lax in permitting young girls and men to rent rooms during the past few months, according to a report submitted yes-terday to Chief of Police Johnson by Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, of the Women's Protective Bureau.

In the last 60 days, 110 visits have been made to homes, hotels and offices regarding the unusual number of delinquencies, caused, in a great measure, the report states, through the attraction of the khaki uniform. There have been 96 missing or runaway girls reported to the bureau, of which a big majority have been found and returned to their homes.

The question of employment for girls

Carl G. Doney Will Discuss War Before Roseburg Teachers.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY, Salem, Or., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—President Carl G. Doney left today for Roseburg, where he is to address the teachers' convention tonight and tomorrow on war conditions. Dr. Doney is in great demand as a speaker.

He will leave Sunday for Seattle, where he is to address the Army Y. M. C. A. Conference on Tuesday. From there he will go to Walla Walla, Wash. where he will be one of the speakers at the Sunday School Institute on the following Thursday and Friday.

PERSONAL MENTION.

M. Ford, of Sheridan, is at the Palace. F. Kirk, of Halsey, is at the Imperial. Pauline Sears, of Vale, is at the Ore-

J. E. Backus, of Astoria, is at the Fred Hobbus, of Ferndale, is at the

A. Stevenson, of Held, is at the Seward. F. L. Travis, of Springfield, is at the

L. O. Herroll, of Salem, is at the Paul Koren, of Decorah, Ia., is at the A. E. Harvey, of Clatskanie, is at the Oscar Hayter, of Dallas, is at the Portland

F. B. Cluschman, of Sheridan, is at the Ritz. B. C. Huntington, of Oakland, is at W. H. Eccles, of Baker, is at the Multnomah W. H. Gearty, of Seattle, Wash., is at

Herbert Lake, of Victoria, B. C., is

W. L. Beers, of Bozeman, Mont., is at the Seward.

E. G. Norris, of Seattle, is at the Washington D. D. Hall, of Sherwood, is at the Washington. J. L. Blalock, of Arlington, is at the Waterville, Wash, are at the Perkins. R. H. Frank, of San Diego, Cal., is it the Seward.

Miss M. L. Fox, of Husum, Wash., is E. A. Blackmore, of St. Louis, is at me Multnomah.

of Tacoma, Wash., is Esther Campbell, of Jennings Lodge, at the Eator Ross and Mrs. Ross, of Dufur, are at the Cornelius.

B. W. Lockwood, of Seattle, Wash., s at the Oregon. H. Rambo and family, of Sheridan, are at the Palace.

Bert Mason and Mrs. Mason, of Ione, are at the Imperial.

H. P. Eckhardt, of Toronto, Canada, at the Multnomah. C. S. Baker and Mrs. Baker, of Butte, Mont., are at the Eaton.

Mrs. Clyde and daughter, of Cottage Grove, are at the Eaton. A. C. Abel and Mrs. Abel, of Prine-ville, are at the Perkins. L. C. Griffith and Mrs. Griffith, of Seattle, are at the Perkins.

A. S. Rosenbaum, of San Francisco, Cal., is at the Washington. Duncan Ellis and Mrs. Ellis, of Los Angeles, are at the Palace. R. A. Moore and Mrs. Moore, of Gold-endale, Wash., are at the Ritz. Henry L. Keeck and Mrs. Keeck, of The Dalles, are at the Nortonia. Misses Martha and Helen Bull, of Medford, are at the Multnomah.

MR, MILLER, IN EAST, SAYS AGITA-TION IS FUTILE.

Washington Authorities Earnest, but Sensitive Over Unreasonable Demands, Letter Asserts

SALEM, Or., Oct. 25 .- (Special.)-SALEM, Or., Oct. 23.—(Special.)— Following an interview with represent-itives of the car service bureaus of the interstate Commerce Commission and the American Railway Association, Chairman Miller, of the Public Servce Commission, who is now in the East, has written the Commission in a letter received today that in relation to car shortage conditions all other needs must be set aside and await the needs of the Government.

"Needless agitation on the part of our people, I feel, will do more harm than good." he writes. "The authori-ties here in Washington, I believe, are carnest and conscientious, and are in-clined to be a little bit sensitive over demands of certain sections of the country, which seem to them to be un-reasonable, and I fear that unnecessary persistence on our part will preju-dice the authorities against us. I would, therefore, suggest that proper aution be exercised in what is said and done regarding transportation matters. "The American Railway Association.

car service bureau, assured me today that they would make every possible effort to supply cars for fuel shipment from Utah, westbound." He states that after further investigation he believes that it is not likely that this year's fruit shipments from Oregon will be affected by any terminal charges which might be applied, or attempted to be applied by the Erie Railroad.

SIDEWALK IS NOVEL GIFT

Freshman Class, of Willamette University, Set Precedent. WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY, Salem.

or., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—The freshman lass set a new precedent at Willamette University when they presented the university with a new concrete side-walk between Eaton and Waller halls. All of the work on the walk was done by the boys of the class.

Larren Basier, president of the class, made the presentation speech during the chapel hour. President Carl F. Doney and Dr. B. L. Steeves, president of the Board of Trustees, accepted the

Read The Oregonian classified ads. | Clair Covert, of Portland, organized

Just a Reminder

It's overcoat time and ours is the overcoat store-we say that because our friends tell us we're leading in styles, value and service.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

overcoats are helping us do it. You can see the style in the picture; come in and we'll show you the all-wool fabrics, high quality and fit.

$20 to $50

To top the new coat you'll find the best of styles in our Fall Hats. The new Shirts, the new Neckwear, everything for the better dressed man, make this store your store.

Sam'l Rosenblatt & Co.

The Men's Store for Quality and Service

Southeast Corner Fifth and Alder

BEND STRIKE NEAR END

LUMBER WORKERS EXPECTED TO RETURN TO WORK TODAY.

R. Hartwig, President of State Federation of Labor, Succeeds in Getting Factions Together.

BEND, Or., Oct. 25.—(Special.)— Bend's mill strike seemed on the eve of settlement today as the result of an agreement between a committee of an agreement between a committee of the strikers and representatives of the sawmill companies. O. R. Hartwig, of Portland, president of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, assisted in the negotiations leading up to the agreement. The agreement was reported back to the strikers, who are expected to ratify it as a preliminary to returning to work tomorrow.

Both sides made concessions, the employers agreeing to take back all displayers.

ployers agreeing to take back all dis-charged men and not to discriminate against union employes, while the employes agree not to agitate the es-tablishment of a shorter working day during the war. They also agree not to ask any change in pay unless it can be shown that their wages are lower than those paid in the average white pine mills. A grievance committee to care for possible future difficulties is also aranged for.

The strike began last Monday when our men were discharged by the four men were discharged by Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Company. was claimed that they were discharged

Is Your Home

Germ Ridden?

No matter how "spick and span" your home may be, your family is constantly menaced by disease unless the danger spots are kept germ-

The germ-breeding places are dark, sunless corners, floor cracks, garbage cans, unwashed milk bottles, sinks, all kinds of drain pipes, and old worn plumbing.

Used by boards of health to prevent the spread of epidemics, by all hospitals as a reliable disinfectant, and in hundreds of thousands of homes as a disease preventative.

No germ - no matter how virulent - can live in its presence. Get a bottle of Lysol today, use it unceasingly - you will then make a better fight against disease than it can make against you. A 50c bottle makes five gallons of dependable disinfectant-a 25c bottle, 2 gallons. Lysol is also invaluable for Personal Hygiene. It

OUR SIGN IS OUR BOND

Lysol Shaving Cream

Contains Lysol, and kills germs on razor and shaving-brush (where germs abound), guards the tiny cuts from infection, and gives the antiseptic shave. If your dealer hasn't got it, ask him to order a supply for you.

comes in 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles.

Lysol Toilet Soap

Contains Lysol, and therefore protects the skin from germ infection. It is refreshingly sooth-ing and healing and helpful for improving the skin. Ask your dealer. If he hasn't got it, ask him to order it for you.

proof by disinfection.

for the American Federation of Labor, assisted Mr. Hartwig and the local committee.

Charles Ponton Buried.

The funeral of Charles Ponton was held yesterday at the chapel of J. P.

Finley & Son. Rev. William A. Magett The pallbearers were W. D. Allen, E. W., Rutherford, J. C. Logan, V. Keene, G. N. White and J. Cage. Interment was in Mount Scott Park Cemetery. Mr. Ponton is survived by his widow Read The Oregonian classified ads.

Schools to Conduct Programmes Today in Memory of Prohibition Pioneer Worker and Exponent of Cremation

Frances E. Willard Dedicated to the memory of FRANCES WILLARD is a Bronze Tablet at the entrance to the Portland Crematorium. It reads:

"I HAVE THE PURPOSE to help forward, progressive movement, even in my last hours, and hence hereby decree that the earthy mantle which I shall drop ere long, when my real self passes onward in the world unseen, shall be swiftly enfoided in flames and rendered powerless, harmfully to affect the health of the living. Let no friend of mine say aught to prevent the Cremation of my cast-off body. The fact that the popular mind has not come to this decision renders it all the more my dury, who have seen the light, to stand for it in death, as I have sincerely meant in life to stand by the great cause of poor, oppressed humanity.

Willard, in honor of whose memory the school children of Port-land will hold special programmes to-day, was cremated at Graceland Ceme-tery, Chicago, April 9, 1898.

A visit to the Portland Crematorium will give you a better understanding In Capitol at Washington.

of why so many thinking people favor this more beautiful form of disposition of the dead. Its more humane, more comfortable atmosphere cannot but of the dead. Its more humane, more comfortable atmosphere cannot but make its appeal when it is better under stood.

DORTLAND CREMATORIUM 14TH AND BYBEE Sellwood Car to Crematorium

Painless Parker—Outlaw

His Confessions

CHAPTER LXVII Imagine the obforty-niner who. with pick and shovel, tramped in the early days over "low grade" ore, ignoring it c on temptuously and seeking only auggets and "high grade" pockets. He was used to sluice boxes and nothing about anything so mod-ern as cyaniding and concentrating and the wonderful things that a stamp mill could do for him. All he could think of was the "colors" that showed in his pan after an ordinary washing "colors" that showed in his pan after an ordinary washing.

Today mining, particularly in California and Nevada, is being done on "low grade" ore—that is, the kind that does not pay unless it is worked in a modern and scientific manner.

This so-called "learned" profession of deatistry has been seeking nuggets. It has gone after only those veins of rich gold that could be mined without modern methods. Like the early pioneer, it has scoffed at anything that put the trade on a scientific plane. Nothing was of interest unless the gold was sticking out of the ground. The big bodies of ordinary ore were passed by without trying to work them. It was, so to speak, a lazy man's way of going after the precious metal.

define what the miner would call "low grade" ore—that which will not "pay high prices for its dentistry. It can be reached. I have gone after the patronage of the wage-earner—the kind that the aristocratic dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dental business in America.

There is what the miner would call "low grade" ore—that which will not "pay high prices for its dentistry. It can be reached. I have gone after the patronage of the wage-earner—the kind that the aristocratic dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dential in the wage centrer—the kind that the aristocratic dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kind of work. The result is that I have huilt up the greatest dentist refuses to touch—because there are no high fees in that kin

The dentists of today, just as the dentists of yesterday, and days before that, are still in the forty-niner class. They have worked solely on the "pocket-mining" theory-quick returns and not too much labor. Not only that—like so many owners of claims in the mining district—they have insisted on the perpetuation of their own method of mining, and, unless some fellow can oust them from their holdings, they propose to stick tight and resist. Just like the dog in the manger. the manger.

the manger.

I have learned that 90 per cent of the good people about us are in need of dentistry, and I have learned that they are not going to get dentistry until we dentists change our tacties and bring the work up to them through accepted methods of business, such as educational advertising, lecturing and other recognized trade stimulators.

Here is what the miner would call "low grade" ore—that which will not may high prices for its dentities. It