

CANDY MEN MUST CUT USE OF SUGAR

Federal Food Administrator Orders Supply to Be Curtailed 50 Per Cent.

OREGON MAKERS ADVISED

Deliveries Will Be Shut Off in Event Confectioners Fail to Live Up to Law—Co-operation Here Is Noted.

ACTING FOOD ADMINISTRATOR WARNS DUCK HUNTERS AND OTHERS.

Word was received at the office of Acting Food Administrator Newell yesterday to the effect that 50 sacks of first-class wheat had been left in Sawflies Island for duck-hunting preserves there by men who, because they are financially unable, appear to be defying the plans of the Nation to conserve grain.

Sugar conservation has set in throughout the state and much has already been done along this line, but yesterday Acting Federal Food Administrator Newell dispatched orders to all confectioners in Oregon to cut their use of this product 50 per cent forthwith.

It may be said, however, that the fact that an order has gone forth in no way implies that such was the case, but the desired results, as it was declared at the office of the administrator that the confectioners have been very patriotic concerning this big sacrifice, for such it is. Portland men engaged in the candy-making business have pledged their loyal support in the move and have agreed to curtail their output as set by Herbert C. Hoover, Federal food administrator.

Officers of the local naval recruiting station have taken the trouble to look up the origin of the military salute made familiar to civilians since the outbreak of the war. They trace it back to the days of chivalry and say it had its origin in a tribute to the ladies for whom the knights jostled at the tournaments.

At these gatherings a queen of beauty was chosen to preside. The knights and their squires, and all who took part in the tourney, on presenting themselves before the queen lifted each one a hand level with the brows, as though dazzled by the light of her presence.

This same salute is still used as a recognition of a superior military rank, although formerly an acknowledgment of a higher social state and a tribute to feminine beauty.

Results of the food pledge campaign, both in the state and in the city of Portland, have been excellent. Arthur M. Churchill, manager of the state campaign, yesterday wired Hoover to the effect that "slayers" are being cut out of Oregon. Everett Ames, city manager, said yesterday he believed the Portland per cent will run the high as 96. The closing week is being used to clear up cases not previously satisfactory.

FIRST LIBERTY BONDS MAY BE EXCHANGED FOR LATER ISSUE.

Request for Conversion Must Be Signed by Bond Holder and Sent to San Francisco for Approval.

Whether or not to convert bonds of the first liberty loan issue, bearing 3 1/2 per cent, to those of the second loan, bearing 4 per cent, is now a question that is being considered thoughtfully by purchasers of the first liberty securities. The process of conversion is rather involved and some bankers are suggesting that it will be as well if the holder of the earlier bonds sells at the market and buys the new 4s.

Bonds of the first issue are convertible to bonds of a later issue bearing a higher interest rate and if they are exchanged for 4s the letter may not again be exchanged for later issues that may bear still higher rates. But if the 3 1/2s are sold and 4s bought, the 4s may again be exchanged for a later and more productive issue if the Government decides to bring out such securities.

Pamphlets directing how the original bonds may be converted into bonds of the second loan are being received by local banks. A request for conversion must be signed by the bond holder and sent to San Francisco for approval.

Bond houses figure that if one sells an original bond at the present market he will lose perhaps 25 cents for each $100, but if he buys the new 4s and is thereby enabled later to convert them into a new issue bearing 4 1/2 per cent interest, if such securities are decided upon, he will not suffer loss, but will come out ahead on the deal.

Of course one may hold his 3 1/2s and convert them later to a still higher issue if it is forthcoming.

SPOUSE HELD PERJURER

FALSE CLAIMS FOR DRAFT EXEMPTION ARE ALLEGED.

M. McCarthy, of Vale, Files Affidavit He Is Sole Support of Wife, From Whom He Is Separated.

The wild words he spoke at parting, when he is alleged to have told his wife to "get to h— out of here," are responsible for the present plight of Morris McCarthy, of Vale, Or., who will be arraigned today in Federal Court on a charge of perjury, by making false claims for exemption from the military draft.

be tried locally, according to Deputy United States Attorney Goldstein, who will conduct the prosecution. It hinges upon McCarthy's attempt to escape military service by making affidavit that he was the sole support of his wife, from whom, it transpired, he had separated.

The McCarthy were wedded in November, 1915. Just one year from that time, by the testimony of the wife, her husband profanely bade her leave his house. She complied, and has since been making her own livelihood at domestic work in LaCenter, Wash.

McCarthy registered under the draft, as he is 25 years old. He at once filed an affidavit claiming exemption on the ground that his wife was dependent upon him for support.

The claim was investigated by the Vale local board and Mrs. McCarthy was found to be living at LaCenter. She indignantly repudiated her husband's claim, and volunteered testimony to support her denial.

HUSTLER NO. 4 APPEARS

NEWSBOYS' MAGAZINE BRIGHT AND INTERESTING.

Editorial Vigorously Approves War and Counsels All Carriers to Do Best to Aid Nation.

The Hustler, "the largest newsboys' publication in the world," volume 1, No. 4, is off the press. It is a bright, breezy and interesting magazine of 13 pages and cover. It is published by The Oregonian Night Hustler Club and exemplifies what may be done by just such an organization of hard workers, who are making their own way in the world.

"When Sammy Goes Over the Top" is the title of a cartoon which adorns the first page, and is an excellent portrayal of how sick the Kaiser will look when he sees the American eagle, about to light upon him, backed by airplanes and countless soldiers.

A timely editorial, "Boys, Don't Be Slackers," shows how earnestly the Hustler's editorial staff feels concerning the war. Every boy is counseled to do all he can to further the war programme, even if it be no more than getting an education, the training thus gained to be put at the country's disposal when needed. Various articles dealing with things of interest to newsboys in particular and to the public in general are scattered generously through the pages.

JAPANESE IS ACQUITTED

K. Sato Freed by Jury on Charge of Selling Liquor.

Another District Court jury yesterday kept up the almost unbroken run of acquittals when it returned a verdict of not guilty against K. Sato, proprietor of a Japanese hotel, on a charge of bootlegging. Deputy Sheriff found 10 cases of whisky in the basement of his hotel at Front and Salmon streets, but his defense convinced the six jurors that he had nothing to do with the liquor.

As in the other Japanese bootlegging cases tried recently, the entire blame was placed on the shoulders of a mysterious Japanese known as Takahashi, who has never yet been under arrest, but who is supposed to have shipped a large quantity of whisky to Portland and distributed it around to various Japanese of this city.

CITY OFFICIAL PAROLED

Fred Stadter Charged With Violating Traffic Regulations.

Deputy City Attorney Fred Stadter was "hoist by his own petard" yesterday morning, when he found a card in his auto notifying him that he was under arrest. He had left the machine standing in Morrison street, between Sixth street and Broadway where autos are not allowed to stand, and Patrolman O'Brien had "tagged" it. Stadter duly presented the card at police headquarters and was paroled by Captain Moore. He promised not to repeat the offense.

COUNCIL DEFEATS MOTION TO MAKE CITY EMPLOYEES PAY.

Car Company Denied Relief Proposed by Public Service Commission, Only Aid City Could Give.

The Portland Railway, Light & Power Company is to receive no relief from taxation burdens at the hands of the City Council. The question of eliminating the franchise provision requiring the company to carry firemen, policemen and certain other city employees free of charge was decided yesterday by the Council against the company.

Aid along this line was the only relief the Council has power to give. Recommendation that it be granted was made by the Public Service Commission, along with other recommendations which only the voters could decide. City Commissioner Mann made a motion at the Council meeting yesterday instructing the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance eliminating free rides. Commissioner Kellaher seconded it. Commissioner Bigelow then moved to amend the motion by placing the company's request on file. Commissioner Harbur seconded this motion and it was adopted.

"I feel," said Commissioner Mann in explaining his recommendation in favor of the company, "that policemen and firemen are being given increased salaries and they can afford to pay carfare."

Commissioner Bigelow declared that free rides are included in the company's franchise. "Hold the company to its contract," he said.

FLOORING FUND STARTED

Eugene Subscribes $150 for Tent Wood for O. A. C. Companies.

EUGENE, Or., Nov. 7.—(Special.)—The members of the Second and Third companies of the Oregon Coast Artillery, stationed at Port Stevens, will soon have dry flooring for their tents. Charles S. Williams came home after a visit at the fort and reported that the boys were "going to bed at night and getting up in the morning in the mud."

He declared that the construction of wooden barracks had been ordered, but that construction probably would take six months' time. At a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce last night $150 toward a fund of $250 necessary for the purchase of flooring for the tents occupied by the boys of the two companies was subscribed. Arrangements were made today to complete the fund.

ARTILLERY MEN NEEDED

RECRUITS WANTED FOR OREGON COAST ORGANIZATIONS.

Men Are Lacking in Each of Twelve Companies of Regiment, and Appeal for Men Is Made.

Gaps in the ranks of the Oregon Coast Artillery companies exist, and it is desired to fill the various units up to full strength. Adjutant-General Williams calls attention to the vacancies to the number of 135, and the various organizations in the different Oregon cities are asked to obtain the number of recruits desired and have them report at the nearest Army recruiting station for enlistment.

It is realized that by recruiting men from the home stations young men desiring to enlist will have the opportunity to join units made up of men with whom they are acquainted and with whom they have a common interest.

The companies of the Coast Artillery desiring recruits and the number desired, with the home station of each company, are as follows: First Company, Ashland, 10; Second
