BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

ONLY on rare occasions does society permit itself to be diverted from its regular routine of work. And the Institute card party today is one of those occasional diversions. Although the diversion today is not in reality a "social event," it does combine, nevertheless, a great deal of pleasure with duty. Patriotism is not to overlook home philanthropies, and the few hours taken from war relief work is soon made up at another time. And every woman that attends the card party today at the residence of Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett will be armed with war knitting, and whenever they are "dumpty" the click of the knitting needles will make known the fact that three things can be done at the same time, helping the poor, enjoying the pleasure of their friends' society and continuing their work for Uncle Sam's men.

The party today is the beginning of a chain to extend over a period of several weeks, all for the benefit of the People's Institute, an organization that accomplishes a tremendous amount of excellent service among the poor of Portland. The games will commence promptly at 2 o'clock, and every woman who attends today has obligated herself to give a two-table bridge, and her guests will entertain with one table, closing the chain that will start today. The committee in charge of the event is Mrs. E. C. Shevlin, Mrs. C. Edward Grelle, Mrs. Victor A. Johnson. Among those who have reserved tables are:

Mrs. William C. Alvord, Mrs. Leonard Andrus, Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Alice Benson Beach, Mrs. Charles Berg, Mrs. R. Lea Barnes, Mrs. C. C. Colt, Mrs. Vincent Cook, Mrs. Edmund L. Devereaux, Mrs. J. W. Her little son, Frederick, also was killed in the accident.

The auxiliary has done much work already and is planning to do more. Soon they will give a silver tea at which they hope to gather in a goodly number of dimes and dollars to provide little "extras" for the future. A Red Cross unit was organized in Peninsula yesterday. Mrs. H. P. Henninger was elected chairman; Mrs. H. W. Gerke, assistant; and Mrs. A. C. Althaus, secretary. The unit will meet Thursday and Friday afternoons in the sewing-room of the school. The first meeting will be on Thursday. The members are also members of the Peninsula Mothers' and Teachers' Club.

The Portland Woman's Research Club will meet every Tuesday from 2 to 5 P. M. in Olds, Wortman & King's for the Red Cross. The club has sent a Victoria to France for the American soldiers. The members have made a large number of hospital shirts and other articles. At present they are selling tickets for the Allied Red Cross Bazaar, which will be held at the public Auditorium December 5-8.

The Portland Heights Red Cross unit will meet in the Ainsworth School tomorrow from 10 until 4. Every Portland Heights woman is urged to attend. Already 25 women have responded to the call but more are needed.

Mrs. Winter in Minnesota has been circulating the answers to nine common questions to the Hoover pledge. They are:

"I am just as economical as I can be already." Answer: "Then, surely there is no reason why you should not sign and show that you belong to the honor roll."

"The substitute foods sometimes cost as much or more than the foods we are asked to save." Answer: "The first object isn't money-saving. It is food saving. We have to eat local products and perishable foods in order to release the foods that can be transported for Army use. Some substitutes are as costly, others like beans or fish instead of meat, are cheaper."

"I can afford what I want. Why shouldn't I eat it?" Answer: "Maybe you can afford the money, but you can't afford to fail your country in its effort to make the food supply hold out for its Army and its allies."

"I don't believe there is any food shortage." Answer: "You are judging only from the conditions you see near you. The great information bureau in Washington has studied the world situation. This bureau knows there is a shortage and that out of local abundance we must supply our need."

"I have been told that if I sign the Government will requisition my food." Answer: "This is a plain lie, spread by disloyal people. You ought to report to the safety commission any one spreading such a statement, for the speaker is trying to injure the Government."

Instead of holding their meeting at the parish house as usual, the Red Cross unit of St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral will meet tonight in the home of Mrs. Frederick Heavens, 482 Helix Terrace, at 7:30 o'clock. ### KITCHEN ECONOMIES

Five Delicious Ways to Use Apples.
As apples are easy to keep and preserve, the thrifty housewife is "getting busy" now putting up apples in various forms. Apples are fairly easy to dry, and although dried apples may not be as popular as other methods of preserving this fruit, nevertheless it is the most economical way to keep it. Dried apple needs no sugar for preserving and a large quantity can be dried and kept in a small space. Correctly stewed, they taste almost as good as fresh apples. Dried apples are really better for apple puddings and they also make a most delicious apple pie.

Apple butter and apple jelly should be put up, if you have a quantity of apples available at a small cost. These are excellent for puddings, and as a spread on bread or as fillings for cakes, pies and tarts, and really cost very little.

Apple Butter.
Pare, core and quarter the apples, using one quart of sweet apples to every four quarts of sour apples. Cover with cider and cook, stirring constantly. Stir until the apples are reduced to a marmalade thickness, then add sugar. Weigh the apple mixture and add three-fourths of a cupful of hot sugar for each cupful of apples. If desired, cinnamon or any other spice liked.

Apple Jelly.
4 quarts of apples, which will begin to run in a few days in a dark brown liquid. No sort of tin or any other unvarnished metal should be used about the leach as, of course, it will rust. A granite or wooden vessel is best for placing below it for receiving

Apple Catsup.
Peel, quarter and core the apples and cook as for apple sauce. Then measure, and for each quart of apple sauce add the following:
1 teaspoonful each of ginger, cinnamon, cloves, pepper, mustard, onion juice.
1/2 teaspoonful of salt.
2 cupfuls of vinegar.

Replace on the stove and simmer slowly for about one hour or more until thick. Then pour into hot sterilized bottles and seal.

Apple Filling.
1/2 pound of apples.
1/2 cupful of water.
2 cupfuls of sugar.
1 lemon.

Peel, core and quarter the apples and cook with the sugar, water and grated rind of a lemon. Cook for three hours, then add the lemon juice, boil for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. This is excellent as a filling for cakes or sandwiches.

An excellent accompaniment to a meat dish is spiced baked apple: Wash and core the apples, place in a buttered baking dish. Fill the core space with the following mixture:
1/2 cupful of bread crumbs.
1/2 cupful of mashed potatoes.
1 tablespoonful of chili sauce.
Bake in hot oven until tender.

Apple Soup.
2 cupfuls of stewed apple sauce.

WHAT YOU CAN MAKE AT HOME

By MRS. PORTLAND.

Home-made lye from wood ashes has several uses, among which may be mentioned making your own hominy from your own grown corn. Lye is made by running rain water through ashes, and the process by which the receptacle for the ashes is prepared and filled is called "setting the leach."

For this purpose a barrel may be used. Bore holes in the bottom of the barrel and place on the bottom pieces of clean brick or stones to serve as filters, making them a little higher in the center than at the sides. Over these lay sticks of clean wood, then two inches of straw, over which should be sprinkled a couple of pounds of slaked lime. Now you are ready for the ashes, which should be packed down well until the barrel is filled. Leave a hollow place in the center, into this hollow place pour boiling rain water until the ashes are wet. The barrel must, of course, be placed on some sort of vessel suitable to receive the lye, which will begin to run in a few days in a dark brown liquid. No sort of tin or any other unvarnished metal should be used about the leach as, of course, it will rust. A granite or wooden vessel is best for placing below it for receiving
