

5000 HEAD OF SLEEK AND BLOODED STOCK

(Continued From First Page.)

the grounds behind their own band and were piloted by announcers through the exhibition tents. There were 800 of them, 50 of whom were visitors, the remainder local officials and employees. Fully 150 of the number were women and young women. It required 18 coaches to transport the railroad visitors to North Portland, and they enjoyed tea in the private cars attached to the train before leaving the grounds.

First Sale Is Held.

Just prior to the arrival of the traffic, a group of Rotary Club members arrived at the grounds and were shown the sights. These visiting delegations saw the show at the height of its activity.

Yesterday afternoon the first of the series of sales was held. This was the auctioning of pure-bred hogs, with R. W. Hogg, of Salem, Or., as director, and "Colonel" J. W. Hughes, of Forest Grove, Or., as auctioneer. The sale proved eminently successful. A choice array of registered pure-breds of leading breeds were sent before the buyers and prices ruled high.

Idaho Wins First.

Announcement was made of ratings in the student judging contest of Monday, the University of Idaho quintet capturing first place with an aggregate grade of 244.5 points. The Oregon Agricultural College team ranked second with a rating of 216, while third honors went to the Washington State College boys, who were graded at 203.5 points. The possible score was 250 points. The cash prizes were $75, $50 and $25, respectively.

The highest score was made by Troy Lindley, of Washington, whose total was 42 of a possible 500 points. Alvin S. McCormack, of Idaho, was second, and Maurice V. Davison, of Idaho, ranked third.

For the best record in scoring sheep J. Gregory Leull, of the Oregon Agricultural College, won the special prize hung up by the American Shropshire Association—a share of the association's stock trophy of the National Duroc-Jersey Record Association for the best judging of swine went to Mr. Davison of the Idaho squad.

In the large judging ring the placing of Shorthorn entries was in swing throughout the entire day, for the entries in this cattle division were the largest by far ever gathered at the show. They numbered 300, and in some of the classes there were as many as 30 specimens to parade their type and fitness before Judge William Hartnett.

Judge J. C. Kinzer had somewhat of an easier task in placing ribbons on the Hereford cattle, but here again the classes were frequently large. Winnings were widely distributed among Oregon, Idaho and Montana exhibitors. Animals from the herd of A. S. Cook, Townsend, Mont., bore off 12 firsts for leading honors. This was no surprise, as Mr. Cook's herd has won many championships at the Chicago International and the American Royal, at Kansas City, Mo.

Sheep Judging Done.

Entries of Henry Thieszen were awarded several of the big prizes in the Hereford class with George Chandler, of Baker, Or., a close competitor and a winner in many divisions. The judging of sheep by Professor William Hishop and Professor O. C. Nelson was largely completed yesterday. The rating of Cotswolds, Ramboulllets, Dorsets and Hampshires was finished and the winners were announced.

Showings pronounced superlative were in evidence throughout the day in the here-judging divisions. Judge S. H. Shann, of the University of Idaho, took part in the placing of the Percherons and Belgians. In the Percheron class there was unusually stiff competition, with Ruby, Portland breeder and exhibitor, bearing away the top-notch premiums. Mr. Ruby's entries were again much to the fore in the Belgian class. Among other first-place Belgian winners were A. R. Riddell, of Addy, Wash., and S. Metz & Sons, of Portland, Or.

Banquet Is Enjoyed.

Last night the swine breeders attending the show, breeders from Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, enjoyed their annual banquet at the Portland Hotel. E. E. Fawcett, editor of the Western Farmer, acted in the capacity of toastmaster, and optimistic and helpful talks were given by many of the breeders present.

Tonight will be held the annual banquet of the Shorthorn Breeders' Association, one of the great affairs of the kind taking place at the annual exhibitions, the organizations numbering 200 members, most of whom are attending the show this year. Arrangements are in charge of President L. Brown and Secretary E. L. Potter, and it will be held at the Portland Hotel.

Ad Club Will Attend.

Portland Ad Club members will help swell the crowd at the stockyards today. Meeting at the Hotel Benson at 11:30 o'clock, this big delegation will be taken to North Portland in automobiles in time to enjoy luncheon at the stockyards headquarters building at 12:05 o'clock.

Just prior to the banquet of the swine growers last night a conference of Idaho, Oregon and Washington agricultural institutions and Washington student judging teams was held at the Portland Hotel to plan an important undertaking. This is the nothing short of a permanent feeder demonstration to be inaugurated at the North Portland market designed to teach growers and shippers the things they should know about livestock production and marketing. A similar demonstration is being featured of the big Eastern market center behind other cities in this enterprise.

Visitors at the exposition today will witness the judging of car lots of fat cattle, the continuance of judging in horses and sheep sections and sales of Ayrshire cattle and fat cattle. Campbell's American band is in constant attendance on the grounds, discarding music for the delectation of visitors.

Following are the awards:

- Percherons. In the breeding classes Percheron horse awards were placed as follows: Stallions, 4 years old and over—First, Besique, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; second, Kroumir, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; third, Lumma, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; fourth, Laricot, A. R. Riddell, Addy, Wash.; fifth, Hamark, Ruby & Bowers, Davis, Cal.; sixth, A. B. Riddell, Addy, Wash. Stallions, 3 years old and under 4—First, Dester, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; second, King, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; third, Besique, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; fourth, Stallion, 2 years old and under 3—First, Halton, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; second, Chub, R. Metz & Sons, Pendleton, Or.; third, Inague, Ruby & Bowers, Davis, Cal.; fourth, Besique, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; fifth, Black Boy, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; sixth, Jeff, Ruby & Bowers, Davis, Cal. Stallions, 1 year old and under 2—First, Hugo, Ruby & Bowers, Davis, Cal.; second, Donald, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; third, Liberty Bond, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; fourth, Grey King, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; fifth, Mark, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or. Senior and grand champion—Besique, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or. Junior champion—Halton, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or. Mare, 4 years old or over—First, Manetta, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; second, Florence, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; third, New, 3 years old and over—First, Unaseta, Mrs. H. E. Evans, Rickreall, Or.; second, Albertina, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; third, Eldora, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or. Filly, 2 years old and under 3—First, Besique, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.; second, Grace Kroumir, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; third, Alison Lady, A. C. Ruby, Portland, Or.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK SHOW CLASSIFIED THIRD IN COUNTRY

Business Men of City Will Not Be Backward in Providing Funds Properly to House Exhibit When They Understand Vast Importance of Event.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

THE Pacific International Livestock Show for the seventh consecutive year began Monday at the Portland Union Stockyards in North Portland and the attendance for a first day surpassed by far all previous first days, just as the number and quality of the exhibits surpassed all of the previous shows, bringing the Portland show well up to the third place in this country, being exceeded only by the shows at Chicago and Kansas City.

Monday the small army of expert judges were busy in going over the exhibits and hanging the blue and inferior ribbons on the winners, and everybody connected with the exhibits was likewise busy in getting their stock ready for the judging ring. But in spite of all confusion of the ordinary first day the large crowd of visitors had the opportunity of seeing and judging for themselves. And when it is said that such an aggregation of fine stock was never before brought together west of the Missouri the statement is well within the bounds of truth.

This is true not only of the cattle but of the sheep, swine and horses, and especially true of the horses and cattle. No such fat stock or breeding stock in the way of cattle was ever before shown in the West, while in numbers—well, there must be well on to 1500 head in all of the exhibits, which, of course, includes the car lots of fat stock and young stock.

Yesterday was a lovely day, but rain most of the day, as it did last year, and the owners of fine stock are greatly averse to showing their stock in the mud and rain. It will take a lot of floor space in a number of buildings to properly house the show. One of the tents used this year is 700 feet long, with four rows of stalls and pens running the whole length, and there are a number of other tents from 250 to 500 feet in length. In all the show almost makes a city, and remember, a great many exhibitors are kept away by this tent arrangement. With adequate buildings Portland might soon have the second show in the country in place of the third.

North Portland is a town by itself. It is not within the city limits of Portland, but it is as much Portland as Albina or Sellwood. What would you say were I to tell you that there is a bank in North Portland with deposits of a million dollars? It is a fact that the Livestock State Bank there, which is much less than a year old, has deposits of that amount, and the Portland Cattle Loan Company, doing business there, has $10,000,000 loaned out. This company turns its money very rapidly and in October of this year its turnover (money loaned and paid on loans) was almost $9,000,000.

What would the average Portlander say if he were told that the Columbia Basin Wool Company, doing business fifty, 1 year old and under 2—First, Folyette, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; second, Colt, either sex, under 1 year old—First, Sister Kroumir, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or.; second, Dudley Kroumir, A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or. Four animals, get of one sire—A. R. Hunter, Island City, Or. Ewe, 1 year old and under 2—First, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; second, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Dr.; third, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Ewe, 2 years old or over—First, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; second, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Dr.; third, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Ewe lamb, under 1 year—First, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; second, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Dr.; third, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Pen, bred by exhibitor—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or. Get of one sire—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.

Cotswolds.

First awards on sheep at the exposition were distributed to Cotswold owners as follows: Ram, 1 year old and under 2—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, General Pershing, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe, 2 years old or over—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe, 1 year old and under 2—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe lamb, under 1 year—First, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; second, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Flock—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Bred by exhibitor—First and second, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third and fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.

Holsteins.

The ribbons were placed as follows in the judging of Holstein cattle: Senior champion bull—First, Mount Vernon, Wash.; second, Woodrow Wilson Cornucopia, E. Webb, New Plymouth, Ida.; third, Caliente Nonesuch DeKol, W. E. Boser, Joseph, Or.; fourth, Pacific Prince, DeKol, G. H. Mars, Rickreall, Or.; fifth, Sir Bessie, Fred A. Ballin, Linton, Or. Bull, 2 years old and over—First, Sir Nida Yamhill Wayne, C. S. Magee, McMinnville, Or.; second, Laconner Pontiac King, J. H. Hulbert, Mount Vernon, Wash. Bull, 1 year old and under 2—First, Laconner Pontiac King, J. H. Hulbert, Mount Vernon, Wash.; second, Sir Bessie Aggie, John Struckee, Portland, Or. Senior heifer calf—First, Laura Netherland Johanna, David McKown, McMinnville, Or.; second, Mercedes Pontiac DeKol, J. H. Hulbert; third, Aggie Burke Quoquo, John Struckee, Portland, Or. Cow, 3 years old or over—First, Queen Nida Jewel Wayne, C. S. Magee, McMinnville, Or.; second, Mercedes Pontiac DeKol, J. H. Hulbert; third, Aggie Burke Quoquo, John Struckee, Portland, Or. Heifer, 2 years old and under 3—First, Laconner Pontiac King, J. H. Hulbert; second, Salem White Lady, C. S. Magee; third, Belle Veeman Pauline Paul, William DeKol, C. S. Magee; fourth, Sewie Veeman Pauline Walker, William DeKol, C. S. Magee. Senior yearling heifer—First, Laconner Pontiac Beatrice, J. H. Hulbert; second, Blossom Veeman Pauline Paul, William DeKol, C. S. Magee; third, Little Sady Jewel, C. S. Magee. Junior yearling heifer—First, Laconner Pontiac Beatrice, J. H. Hulbert; second, Nida Jewel Wayne, C. S. Magee; third, Lady Dora Johanna, David McKown. Senior heifer calf—First, Laconner Pontiac Beatrice, J. H. Hulbert; second, Laconner Pontiac Beatrice, J. H. Hulbert; third, Beatrice Veeman Pauline Paul, William DeKol, C. S. Magee. Junior heifer calf—First, Laconner Pontiac Grant, J. H. Hulbert; second, Dora Johanna Walker Madsor, David McKown; third, Laconner Pontiac Albion Girl, J. H. Hulbert. Aged herd—First, J. H. Hulbert; second, C. S. Magee. Young herd—First, J. H. Hulbert; second, David McKown. Calf herd—J. H. Hulbert. Produce of one cow—First, C. S. Magee; second, J. H. Hulbert; third, David McKown; fourth and fifth, John Struckee. Senior champion bull and grand champion bull—Sir Nida Yamhill Wayne, C. S. Magee. Junior champion bull—Laconner Pontiac King, J. H. Hulbert. Senior champion cow—Laconner Pontiac Beatrice, J. H. Hulbert. Junior champion and grand champion bull—Laconner Pontiac Grant, J. H. Hulbert.

Ramboulllets.

Winning exhibits of Ramboulllet sheep were: Ram, 2 years old or over—First, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Or.; second, R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; third, R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash. Ewe, 1 year old and under 2—First, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; second, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash. Ewe, 2 years old or over—First, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Or.; second, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; third, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash. Ewe lamb, under 1 year—First, Baldwin Sheep Company, Hay Creek, Or.; second, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash.; third, Mrs. R. A. Jackson, Turner, Wash. Pen, bred by exhibitor—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or. Get of one sire—First and second, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.

Lincolns.

These were the awards on Lincoln sheep: Pen, bred by exhibitor—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or. Get of one sire—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or. Cotswolds. Cotswold sheep exhibitors won as follows: Ram, 2 years old and under 2—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, General Pershing, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe, 2 years old or over—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe, 1 year old and under 2—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; second, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Ewe lamb, under 1 year—First, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; second, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.; fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Flock—First, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or. Bred by exhibitor—First and second, F. A. Koser, Rickreall, Or.; third and fourth, David J. Kirby, McMinnville, Or.

Hampshires.

These exhibits were adjudged best among Hampshire sheep: Ram, 2 years old or over—First, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; second, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; third, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; fourth, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; fifth, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or. Ewe, 2 years old or over—First, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; second, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; third, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; fourth, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; fifth, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Ewe, 1 year old and under 2—First and second, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; third and fourth, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; fifth, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Ewe lamb, under 1 year—First, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; second, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; third, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; fourth, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; fifth, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Pen, bred by exhibitor—First and third, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; second, Brown Bros, Twin Falls, Idaho; fourth, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or. Get of one sire—First and second, J. G. S. Hubbard, Monroe, Or.; third, Ed Schoel, Suver, Or.

CO-OPERATION IS DEMANDED

Eating Places That Do Not Observe Meatless Days Are Target. Those restaurants of the city that do not observe meatless and wheatless days, as outlined in the Hoover program, are to get some uncomfortable publicity. W. K. Newell, acting food administrator for Oregon, declares he will publish their names and put them under the ban of the public displeasure in that way. Henry W. Kent, secretary and treasurer of the Portland Caterers' Club, which includes all the leading cafeterias and dairy lunch establishments in the city, has announced his intent of obtaining names of recalcitrants for publication. Counsel for the Eastern railroads informed the Interstate Commerce Commission that in addition to the increase sought in the pending 15 per cent advance rate case, the roads would soon apply for further increases of 15 per cent in class and commodity rates and probably for 10 cents a ton on coal and coke. Phone your want ads to The Oregonian. Main 7070. A 6095.

there, has on hand 15,000,000 pounds of wool and has made the North Portland market the largest in the United States, with the single exception of Boston? As to the great packing-house industries of the Union Meat Company, I will not go into details about their business further than to say that it is by far the greatest plant of the kind in the West. In the state of Oregon there are 124 salaried postoffices, paying salaries from $1000 up to $6000 a year; how many of those offices would you guess offhand is smaller than the North Portland office? That is, how many of the 124 postmasters get smaller salaries? Only 19 of the Oregon offices do more business than the postoffice at North Portland. Does not that show you that in a few years a wonderful business has grown up there? One more fact: How many Portland people know that the great building housing the Portland Union Stockyards and its subsidiary offices is one of the finest office buildings in this vicinity? Yes, there is something to be determined but few Portland people, and that is that the industries of North Portland are housed along the waterfront and that any vessel that gets up the Willamette or Columbia can reach with safety North Portland. The steamer "Montana" is making our harbor. I am not saying these things to fill space nor for idle boasting. I am trying to show that we have at our very doors in North Portland infant industries that are growing beyond the ken of most Portlanders, to the end that great flocks of our citizens may go out this year (the show does not close until Saturday afternoon) and just see what is being done out there. It would be an eye-opener to nine-tenths of our people.

The show is free. No admission fees are asked the public, there are no "skin" games run in connection with games of any kind; about the only thing you can buy there, aside from livestock, is something good to eat, at the hotels or restaurants. You owe it to yourself and to the city to take a half day off and go out there. The morning cars take you direct, except one change at Kenton, and there is a fine paved road every foot of the way for automobiles. The show this year has drawn exhibitors from eight states. One of the big exhibits is from the University of California, Montana, and Washington, of course, each have many exhibits. And these exhibitors, like those who ship their cattle and hogs here, are bound to spend a lot of money here, and the majority of them will do their banking here. As a business proposition these shows are worth the while, and the people of Portland should look to it that the coming shows are well housed. And if the business men of Portland as a unit will take part in the show and consider it in all of its bearings and ramifications the money for the necessary improvements will be forthcoming before another show date rolls around.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

GOVERNOR NAMES NEW DRAFT BOARD

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee.

DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT

Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft got under way today when Governor Withycombe appointed the members of the central advisory board to handle the legal phases of the conscription act. The personnel of the board includes George M. Brown, Attorney-General, chairman; J. S. Teal, Portland; Colonel Sam White, Portland, and Richard W. Montague, Portland.

The central advisory board is one of the most important links in the organized chain which will carry out the details of the second draft to their completion. The initial and one of the principal duties of the board is the making of recommendations to the Governor as to who shall constitute the local legal advisory boards.

Number of Boards Open. This portion of its duties takes on added importance from the fact that the central advisory board probably will have a large hand in determining how many local legal advisory boards are necessary to carry out the idea of legal advice and practical assistance to General Crowder, in his telegram of instructions, advised the chief executive that these local legal advisory boards should be established so as to be convenient to all the men who are to come under the draft. It is to be the duty of these boards to give general legal advice and practical assistance to all men coming under the draft. No definite number of boards for this state or any other has been fixed, the number to depend largely, according to the instructions, upon local conditions and the number of men involved.

Board Is Permanent. In making recommendations as to who shall constitute the local boards, as a natural corollary the number of boards to be constituted must be decided upon. After receiving the recommendations of the central board the executive nominates the men who are to constitute the local boards and they receive their actual appointment from the President. The central board, however, will not become extinct upon the creation of the local boards. It will still remain as an active entity to continually advise with and assist the local boards in the performance of their duties.

All Lawyers Asked to Help. All lawyers in the state are asked to assist in the work and to place themselves at the disposal of the authorities in carrying out the work which will be involved in giving the men definite and clear ideas as to the legal questions which will arise. Under the last draft considerable confusion was entailed through misunderstanding over the legal points connected in the new draft law. Under the plan now evolved these rough places will be smoothed away by a series of boards of three members each, composed of lawyers, laymen, and spread throughout the state. While no definite decision has been reached, it is considered likely that in every county there are one or two number of drafted men to be called out that quite a number of boards will be named to act in different sections, so that no drafted man will have farther than a short journey to secure all the information and help he desires.

Attorney-General Teal, Montague and Colonel White on Central Committee. DUTIES ARE IMPORTANT Men for Local Legal Advisory Bodies Will Be Recommended by Quarter—Definite Number of State Boards Now Fixed. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Actual construction of the state machinery for the second draft