

EFFICIENCY BOARD SELECTS OFFICERS

Presidio Training Camp Now Place of Tense Expectation by Candidates.

MEN WORK IN TRENCHES

Few Captaincies Will Be Given to Aspirants, It Is Said, but First and Second Lieutenantcies Will Be Many.

OFFICERS' TRAINING CAMP, Presidio of San Francisco, Nov. 21.—(Special.)—While the infantrymen are in the trenches this week for their final training before graduating, the efficiency board is busy slaving away at the Presidio headquarters making final selections of the officers to be commissioned out of the second camp conducted on the Pacific Coast.

One thing sure, it is going to be a difficult feat for any man to land a captaincy or majority in the second camp. The Government's maximum allotment for the entire infantry camp this time is only 40 captaincies, so this means only four and a fraction to each company.

There will be more First Lieutenants than any other grade, owing to the fact that the new company of 29 men now is used in the American Army, and officers number one Captain, three First Lieutenants and two Second Lieutenants. Hundreds of First Lieutenants graduated from the first camp are to be boosted into Captaincies, too, and this creates more vacancies among the First Lieutenants.

Numerous men from 25 to 30 won Captaincy commissions in the first camp, but it will almost be necessary to wear chin whiskers and be a member of the "45 Efficiency" Club to win the double bar straps when the second batch of commissions are plucked from the tree late this week or early next.

During the past ten days the camp has been overrun with specialty Majors and Colonels endeavoring to entice away from the line men suitable for such specialties as Signal Corps work, both construction and aviation, and other branches calling for skilled labor.

As the graduates of the training camps are already steeped in military discipline, they are highly desirable additions to the specialty ranks.

Some Wear New Uniforms. The commissioning of many of the erstwhile students in aviation and the like stirred up some excitement for a few days. Most of those commissioned appeared in their barracks a day or two later decked out in new uniforms to be saluted by their former schoolmates.

Now that the first thrills have passed, the interest again centers in the activities of the efficiency boards. Theirs is the task of comparing the men in their commands as to military aptitude, personality, physical perfection and general value to the service.

The efficiency boards review the records the men have made in camp, take into consideration the jobs they held before coming to camp and weigh carefully the recommendations that led to their appointment. When the personnel of each company has been considered there will be a general meeting to apportion the commissions. And after that has been done and the representative of the Adjutant-General has arrived, Colonel Farr will make his recommendations.

Salkum Woman Defrauded. CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—A warrant issued here today, charges O. R. Corbin and G. B. Proffitt with victimizing Mrs. E. D. Overstreet, of Salkum, who have not yet been apprehended, are said to have secured $10 from the woman.

Irrigation Plan Favored. NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—Sentiment among Tieton water users at a meeting held in this city was almost unanimous in favor of adopting the irrigation district plan of organization in place of the present association plan.

EASTERN OREGON REPUBLICAN ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR.

news and editorial comment endorsing his candidacy. That the sentiment of the voters of the state regarding the Umatilla County man might accurately be determined, a copy of the Standard was mailed to every Republican voter in the state. Responsive to this Mr. Stanfield received several hundred letters from Republicans representing every county in the state. The great majority of these letters strongly endorsed Mr. Stanfield for Senator and insisted that he become a candidate, the writers uniformly pledging him their loyal and enthusiastic support.

Based on this expression from the voters, combined with a desire further to serve his native state, Mr. Stanfield yesterday reached his decision. He is planning a vigorous campaign, which, however, will probably not assume active proportions before the first of the year. In the meantime, Mr. Stanfield expects to arrange his business affairs so that he can give most of his time to directing personally and participating actively in the campaign.

Candidate Native Oregonian. Mr. Stanfield is a native Oregonian, aged 40 years. He was born at Umatilla, Umatilla County, of pioneer parents, who came overland to Oregon by the Oregon trail in 1849. At the age of 18 years, upon the death of his father, "Bob," as he is best known to his friends, succeeded to the management of the small stock business which under Stanfield had been conducting and also assumed the responsibility of maintaining the family, consisting of his mother and 11 children, including himself, some older and some younger than he.

In the 21 years that followed Mr. Stanfield experienced a number of lean and unprofitable years in the stock business, but he knew no disappointment. Instead of becoming discouraged, he redoubled his efforts, and by the application of industry, coupled with an intimate knowledge of the business, acquired through experience, he persevered, making a success of the livestock business.

Although the requirements of his private business demanded his attention, he found time to take an interest in politics. For six years he served his district as a member of the House of Representatives in the Oregon Legislature, being elected Speaker at the 1917 session.

Wool Clip Tendered Nation. As presiding officer, he served with ability. As a legislator, he took an active part in the work of each session. The constructive and progressive statutes enacted in Oregon during the last few years had his earnest support.

Mr. Stanfield attended the National conference of Governors and their representatives at Washington last May, representing the state of Oregon, when plans for the aggressive conduct of the work of war preparedness were decided upon.

Believing the Government would need the wool supply of the United States in order to insure adequate wool with which to provide uniforms for the soldiers Mr. Stanfield, immediately after war was declared last April, offered his entire 1917 wool clip to the Government.

Mr. Stanfield is married and lives with his family, consisting of Mrs. Stanfield and one daughter, at Stanfield.

BOLSHEVNIK FALL SEEMS TO HINDER

Nearly Third of Maximalist Executive Committee Out. Separate Peace Opposed.

MOSCOW'S RELIEF SOUGHT

General Kaledines With Army of Cossacks Is Reported to Be on Way to City—Trotzky Now Heads Foreign Office.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 21.—Reports at Torneo by travelers from Petrograd indicate a revulsion of feeling is setting in against the Bolsheviki. Reeling in the soldiers paraded streets of the Russian capital bearing banners with inscriptions such as "We want no separate peace." "Down with Petrograd domination by a minority party tyranny" and "Nicholas' regime was never so tyrannic as the Bolsheviki regime."

The central committee on the anti-Bolshevik Socialist coalition has passed a resolution demanding liberty of the press, the dismissal of the Red Guard and the immediate cessation of fratricidal war. Maxim Gorky's paper and the Valva Narodna also demand that the Red Guard be disbanded.

Leanne Issues Decrees. Nearly one-third of the members of the Maximalist executive committee have resigned and it is reported that the remainder conferred dictatorial law-making powers on Nikolai Lenin, who is now issuing decrees altering the fundamental laws.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Swedish reports on the situation in Russia received today said General Kaledines, with an army of Cossacks, was moving against Moscow, where 8000 persons were reported to have been killed in riots. The State Department has no official information to confirm the reports.

The Russian Maximalist group has declared Russia out of the war, according to information from German and Scandinavian sources. A dispatch to Copenhagen from Berlin says that the belief is held in German sources that the prospects for a "peace of conciliation" are far better than previously.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The Foreign Office has been taken over by Leon Trotzky, secretary of the committee, who has had charge since the arrest of M. Terestchenko, formally surrendering control and departing with the other employees.

Recognition Is Desired. The Volna Narodna says that within a few days Lenin and Trotzky will announce the successful establishment of a workers' and peasants' government, after which it is hoped that foreign governments will enter into official negotiations through the new Foreign Minister.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The military chief of the district of Kiev and the temporary governor, with their staffs, are reported to have left their posts. Ukrainian commissars are said to have been recalled from the front. This is commented upon here as meaning a serious crisis in the government and the possible opening of the front to the enemy.

Moscow Duma Dissolved. The town duma of Moscow has been dissolved by the revolutionary war committee. Mayor Roudneff, of Moscow, is reported to be in hiding to escape threatened arrest.

A breach in the workmen's and soldiers' organizations throughout the country is threatened through the existence of two central committees, each claiming authority as the duly constituted body and denying the rights of the other.

The Bolsheviki have issued a warning to "the wealthy classes and their servants," whom the extremists accuse of inciting strikes in the state and municipal services. The warning says: "You are playing with fire. You will be the first to suffer from the famine that is threatening the country and the army. You will be deprived of the right of receiving products. All your stores will be requisitioned and your property confiscated."

Anarchy Is Advocated. The Bolsheviki leaders are holding out to their supporters the hope that the proletariat of other countries will sympathetically revolutionize on the Russian model. Their decree says:

The German and Austrian Socialists hail the Bolsheviki revolution. The French Socialists greet the Bolsheviki in their newspapers.

A number of anarchist newspapers in Petrograd are now protesting against the abolition of all authority of any kind.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 21.—Communications have now been established between the Russian Bolsheviki and the German Moderate Socialists. The telegrams from the Bolsheviki committee to Stockholm, which was to have been one of the features of the great Socialist mass meeting addressed by Philipp Scheidemann, the German Social Democrat leader, at Dresden on Sunday, arrived at the capital of Saxony too late to be read.

A majority of the German Socialists have over and over again shown that they have no intention of departing from their attitude of supporting the government and of doing their duty as loyal Germans in the war.

KALEDINES SAID TO BE BOLD

Members of Russian Mission Here Have Confidence in General.

An intrepid leader, who commands the respect and devotion of his men, is the character ascribed to General Kaledines, mentioned in dispatches as a new factor in the Russian situation by members of the Russian Embassy mission, who were in Portland on Tuesday.

Kaledines is said to be preparing a counter-revolutionary movement at the head of Cossack troops and has been credited with designs to re-establish monarchical government in Russia. That this latter is true is scouted by members of the Russian Embassy mission, and they expressed confidence that his participation meant aid to the restoration of the present government and the prosecution of the war.

Lieutenant-Commander Basil Hweschinsky, of the party, after reading newspaper accounts of Kaledines' activity, was manifestly delighted.

I wish to call your attention to the name Kaledines," he said. "He is a Cossack and a hetman of Cossacks. I know this man. I had the honor to fight under him. I am sure that he will be in Petrograd soon, and if he is, you may be certain that order will be restored."

Both declared that Kaledines was a born leader and the idol of the Cossack soldiers, and predicted that traitors to Russia would be given short shrift if he obtained control.
