

BRITISH ATTACKING IN CAMBRAI AREA

Village of Fontaine Notre Dame Center of Severe Fighting Which Is Still in Progress.

WARFARE IS OF OLD TYPE

Germans Concentrating All Efforts in Attempt to Oust British From Bourlon, Which Is Essential to Maintain Present Positions.

By the Associated Press.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 27.—A new assault was made at Fontaine Notre Dame at daybreak, a comparatively quiet night and hard fighting developed immediately. The Germans poured a heavy machinegun fire against the British from the windows and roofs of buildings and a large concentration of enemy machine guns in La Polle wood, southeast of Fontaine also was brought into action against the attacking troops.

This machinegun fire presented the main difficulty to the advance for the Germans in the hamlet were working from behind walls and other cover, while it was necessary for the British to charge across more or less open stretches, giving the enemy a good chance to sweep their ranks with an intense fire.

Bourlon Battle Continues.

The battle on the southern edge of Bourlon Village continued last night. As a result of a determined drive against the German line the British were enabled to break through at one point and bring back a party of English troops that had been holding out in the southern part of the hamlet and had been isolated for some time. No attempt was made to remain in the village after this body of men had been rescued and gotten back through the gap in the German line.

It was reported this morning that another body of British troops was holding a position in the northern section of the village with Germans all about them. But this is uncertain.

Counter Attack Repulsed.

The enemy delivered a counter attack against the northeast corner of Bourlon wood about 11 o'clock last night but was repulsed. The British line this morning is holding firm along the northern fringe of the wood and up to the edge of Bourlon village.

Outside of the operations about Fontaine and Bourlon there was little infantry action on the rest of the front last night. The British artillery has been hammering the Germans heavily at various points and during the night projected a large amount of gas into German lines.

Air Service Active.

The air service was active yesterday. One party of British planes crushed one enemy and brought down two others out of control in a fight.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The report from Field Marshal Haig's headquarters tonight said that the British had repulsed a counter attack by the Germans.

"At dawn today our local attacks in the neighborhood of Fontaine Notre Dame and Bourlon led to severe fighting. The enemy counter-attacks with great stubbornness, and the night was dark and foggy during the day. We have advanced our line and taken more than 200 prisoners."

"During the afternoon the enemy attempted to attack the position we hold in the Hainaut line on the spur west of Meuvres, but was driven off by our fire."

"The enemy's artillery has again shown great activity east and northeast of Ypres."

FRENCH MAKE FOUR RAIDS

Successes Reported Along the Aisne and Verdun Fronts.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The French communication issued today follows: "Active artillery fighting is under way north of the Aisne between Flandrin and Pilon."

"In Champagne one of our detachments last night penetrated German trenches north of Prunay. After having explored the positions, destroyed shelters and captured materials, our men returned to their own lines without losses. This morning we made a successful raid west of Taboury."

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) we carried out with success last night an operation in detail north of Hill 244. On the left bank of the river a patrol action near Bethincourt enabled us to take prisoners, including an officer."

"In Lorraine, northeast of Nomay, we made a raid and brought back prisoners."

INDIVIDUAL PREPAREDNESS

This is a time when our people need to be strong of muscle and steady of nerve. Hysterical people are of no use in war time. When they try to help they hinder.

Preparedness should start with the individual. If you are run-down and nervous, pale and lacking in strength to do your part, you need more blood. If your hands, your thumb or foot trembles when you try to hold it still, if the lines are shaky when you write, if you have tremors of your lips or chin, your nerves need strengthening.

Proper food and a good tonic will keep most people in good health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the most popular tonic medicine in the world, harmless, non-alcoholic and certain in their action, which is to build up the blood and to restore vitality to the run-down system. For those who are falling in strength Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of useful information. So is the pamphlet on "The Home Treatment of Nervous Disorders." They are sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Adv.

proceedings when, just prior to the noon recess, a juror yawned so loudly that District Attorney Weeks turned to Justice Manning and said: "The jury seems to be tired."

"You can't blame the jury—anyone would be tired," said Mrs. de Saulles in a tone so low the remark barely reached the ears of the attorney and the justice.

"You mean that I am tiresome?" asked Weeks. "Yes," answered the witness candidly. "To you?" the lawyer questioned. "Yes," she replied.

When Weeks explained that he understood he was not exactly "entertaining" but that his duty demanded that he make the examination he was conducting, Mrs. de Saulles apologetically said she meant "no disrespect."

Pathetic Incident Recalled. There was a pathetic incident related from the witness stand later in the day which contrasted with this occurrence. It was during the questioning of Miss Ethel O'Neil, a nurse, who attended Mrs. de Saulles after the birth of her son, John L. de Saulles, Jr., at South Bethlehem, Pa., in 1913.

Mrs. de Saulles' examination completed, her attorney, Henry Uterhart, tonight declared that tomorrow would mark the beginning of the introduction of expert testimony in support of his client's claim of mental derangement at the time of the shooting. This is to be adduced through alienists, X-ray specialists and a physiological chemist.

Seventeen committees are working in Alhambra in preparation for the auction at Helena December 7 and Butte December 14. The entire proceeds of the Nation-trotting sack will be turned over to the Red Cross.
