CLASS IV AHEAD IN REGISTRANTS

Four Groups of Men Included in Divisions Swells Its Membership.

DRAFT SUBJECT CLASS BIG

Exemption Boards of Multnomah County Grapple With Many Problems in Course of Passing Returned Questionnaires.

First classification work done by the exemption boards of Multnomah County indicate that the greatest number of registrants will go into Class IV, while Class I promises to claim the next greatest number.

Men who are assigned to Class I are subject to the draft; those who land in the other classes are either not subject to the draft or are on the deferred list. Strictly speaking, registration officials point out, only such disabled and disqualified men as are assigned to Class V are actually given permanent exemptions.

Board No. 9 yesterday reported having passed upon 31 returned questionnaires. In three instances the documents had to be held for needed correction by the registrants. Nine of the remaining 28 were assigned to Class I and 18 were put into Class IV, while one went into Class V.

Approximately similar results are reported by Board No. 7, which had classified 46 registrants. Of this number 12 were assigned to Class I, and 32 were listed in Class IV, while two were held for correction.

Four Groups in Class.

Class IV includes four groups of registrants. The first and far the largest group is that of men who have a wife or children dependent on them for support. A second group embraces all who are mariners, now actively engaged in sea service. The third division includes those who are the "necessary or sole manager, controlling or directing a necessary agricultural enterprise." In the fourth group are placed men who are the directing head of some necessary industrial enterprise.

"Are the registrants always being assigned to the class in which they sought to place themselves?" one of the board chairmen was asked.

"They are not," was the emphatic reply.

"We have already used our own discretion," said the chairman, "in ignoring claims of men who thought they were entitled to be enrolled as skilled laborers. We also have turned down the claim of a man who thought himself the necessary head of an industrial enterprise. It looks as though there will be numbers of registrants who will not be classified according to their hopes and wishes."

One or two other board members who have been working on classifications reported similar experiences.

Age Mistakes Reported.

Several of the exemption boards have been confronted by men who claim to have discovered mistakes in their age records, which, if corrected, will put them out of the conscription limits.

One of these men appeared at the headquarters of Division No. 11 yesterday. He was told that an official transcript from the birth records of his home county would be necessary to prove his contention. He explained that he was born in Arkansas, and sought an extension of time that he might write for the documentary evidence. Advised that he must file his completed questionnaire within the time limit and get the evidence as to the date of his birth at leisure, he went his way.

Numerous registrants who say they belong to church bodies opposed to war, and for this reason seek deferred classification, have appeared.

Two young men who said they belonged to the Plymouth Brethren Church and should be classed as "conscientious objectors" visited Division No 11 yesterday. They were told to get affidavits from their pastor, to explain the founding, history and tenets of the sect. The pastor is now in California, but they expect to write to him for the affidavits, the men stated. In the meantime they are to file their questionnaire answers.

Sixteen Returns Delayed.

Just what proportion of the registrants to whom questionnaires were mailed December 15 failed to get their answers back yesterday remains undetermined until all mails of the day have had time to arrive at the headquarters.

Examination of a list of 81 names, comprising the first day's mailing of one board, showed that 16 questionnaires had not yet been returned. It is calculated that 10 of the documents were addressed to men who have enlisted for military service. Not until tomorrow will it be known how many of the remaining six transgressed the time limit.

Questionnaires mailed out Monday, December 17, are due to be returned tomorrow if the recipient is to escape penalties.

Few of the advisory board headquarters will be open today. The advisers of Division No. 1, who have thus far observed Sunday hours, have given notice that they will enjoy a complete holiday.

Question lists were sent forward yesterday to these registrants:

Press Bureau Makes Announcement.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The official Press Bureau this evening announced that there will be no further communications issued until tomorrow afternoon

TO OUR THOUSANDS OF PATRONS AND FRIENDS:--

For today let us forget that we are buyers and sellers of merchandise, and remember that there are other things more worth striving for than business success. Life's greatest achievements and best rewards are not found in material things.

To think in terms of another's welfare—to be interested in another's happiness as in our own—to value another's friendship and esteem more than possible material gain—these are not easy of attainment in the stress of present-day life. But to pause for just a day and dwell for even a fleeting hour in the realm of idealism is the priceless privilege the Christmas Season brings to all.

We, therefore, join with you and yours in acknowledgment of many blessings that have been showered upon us even in a time of tragedy, and we wish for you an abundant share in those deeper experiences which alone can bless and enrich and beautify life.

Most cordially yours,

IRA F. POWERS FURNITURE CO.

I. F. Powers

December 25th, 1917. President.

REQUESTS FOR AID FEW

WELFARE BUREAU FINDS A DECREASE IN DESTITUTION.

No Cases Noted Where Inability to Get Employment Is Reason for Poverty; Illness Chief Cause.

Requests for assistance during the Christmas holidays reaching the Public Welfare Bureau this year aggregated about 300, as against between 400 and 500 last year. With scarcely an exception these appeals came from families rendered destitute through sickness, desertion or old age. Inability to find employment, so frequently the plea, was not urged in a single instance by those seeking aid this year.

"Our total Christmas distribution this year did not exceed 75 per cent of that of a year ago," said A. R. Gephart, secretary of the Public Welfare Bureau, yesterday. "In a general way there were not more than 50 per cent as many requests for aid this year as were presented last year. These requests were confined almost entirely to those made destitute through sickness, desertion or old age, which make for individual cases of poverty regardless of how prosperous times may be.

"Agencies carrying on this local relief work are caring for about 75 per cent as many cases as last year. This difference is explained from the fact that a less number of agencies this year are engaged in this work. Many churches, lodges and other agencies that have heretofore aided the needy this year are devoting their energies chiefly to patriotic work. However, due to the increased cost of everything, the actual cost of caring for the fewer number of cases asking aid is as great as that of last year when a less number of cases were served. Consequently the bureau, which is dependent upon public subscriptions, will require practically the same amount of money for its work this year as was contributed by Portland citizens last year."

Actively associated and co-operating with the Public Welfare Bureau in its relief work this year are the following organizations: Cathedral Parish, Catholic Women's League, Council of Parent-Teachers' Association, Fruit and Flower Mission, Episcopal Social Service League, Juvenile Court, Methodist Deaconess Association, People's Institute, Rotary Club, Salvation Army, Visiting Nurse Association and Volunteers of America.

Not Quite Down and Out.

Many a man feels that he is down and out when as a matter of fact he still has in him many years of good service that can be brought out by proper treatment. Stomach trouble often makes one despondent. It hits him where he lives, saps his strength and energy and makes him feel like giving up. Give him a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets to improve his digestion and invigorate his liver and bowels, and in most cases recovery is prompt and effectual.—Adv.
