cer wins one of Portland's most attractive and charming young maids, the engagement of Miss Ruth bull to Lieutenant William Norman Burgard being announced last night at a small and informal dinner by Mr. and Mrs. John Shull parents of the bride-

The news has been anticipated for a few weeks by close friends of the young folk, but plans were to await announcement of the engagement until after the first of the year, when a large function was planned by some of the friends of the popular couple to make known the happy news. But wartimes and romantic, bubbling spirits decreed otherwise, and the latest of the belies otherwise, and the latest of the belies to join the long list of "engaged girls" is a charming and lovable maid.

This Price Proven in Court Recently

You have seen pianos displayed in windows with price-cards covering the name of the piano, or the cover of the piano closed.

Why should the name of the piano be covered up? Why should not the piano have its price identity? Why should anything be covered up in the piano business?

Since 8 per cent interest is charged for time by the local piano stores, why should it not be advertised? Why should it remain hidden? Why should the piano-buyer not be entitled to know the full amount he must pay for the piano before he buys it? The piano-buyer is entitled to know, not only the quality, but also the full price of the piano. The terms of the time-buyer may include: The local dealer's 10 per cent cash discount, $37.50, on this $375 piano to the cash buyer, besides the 8 per cent interest, amounting to $44.40. Therefore, he pays $81.90 more than their cash buyers need to pay. He is entitled to know this, to decide how he will pay and where he
