Braft Exceeds Expectations.

General Crowder finds that the first draft surpassed the highest expectations and pays high tribute to the thousands of civilians whose services made the plan a success.

"At the President's call," he says. "all ranks of the Nation, reluctantly entering the war, nevertheless instantly responded to the first call of the Nation with a vigorous and unselfish co-operation that submerged all individual interest in a single endeavor toward the consummation of the National task. "However, already in this declaration, the representatives of the German government have refused to admit the free right of oppressed nations and colonies seized before the beginning of the war in 1914 to dispose of their own destiny. This restriction, which was immediately reported by the Russian delegation, signifies that the dominant parties in Germany, compelled by a popular movement to grant concessions to the principles of a democratic peace, nevertheless, are trying to distort this idea in the sense of their own mainpolicy.

Troops Must Be Withdrawn. "The Austro-German delegation, in setting forth the practical conditions of peace in the east, alters still further its idea of a just, democratic peace. With the demands of the trade exceeding those of any former year, local manufacturers of foodstuffs are finding it impossible because of the curtailment in their output imposed by the National food conservation campaign to fill orders.

This state of affairs is reported by the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company, which reports that the demands for the output of its factory never were so great. The restrictions placed upon operations by the National Food Administrator have made it impossible for this company not only to supply the ordinary volume of business offered, but to enlarge its output to meet the unprecedented demand.

Operating under this handleap, this company, however, today employs 200 employes, the same number required a year ago, and disburses in wages $15,000 every month.
