

$75,000 FOR 3 URGENT CASES

Money Will Be Used in Keeping Wearers of Khaki and Blue Fit to Fight.

SWIFT CAMPAIGN PLANNED

200 Workers Acting by Authority of Foodstuffs Commission and Y. W. C. A. Will Canvass Portland Five Days This Week.

Are there 75,000 willing dollars in Portland ready for the call between Tuesday morning and Saturday night to do necessary duty in backing up making and keeping fit the wearers of the khaki and the navy blue? The answer is a resounding "yes" to the requests which two hundred patient men and women will carry forth. Everybody else, the country over, every other city, is lining up, and Portland cannot be slack in this particular. The money is for three purposes—you take your choice. Your choice should be the entire program.

All Causes Merged.

Instead of three separate campaign enterprises to demand your consideration, here are three mustered into one. They are:

First—For the purpose of soldiers' and sailors' clubhouses in Portland and other cities throughout the country adjacent to war camps. Enterprises under supervision of and requested by the Foodstuffs National Commission. Portland's quota is $25,000.

Second—National War Council of the Young Women's Christian Association, National and International, covering Hostess Houses in War Camp communities for soldiers, their women relatives and friends; emergency housing for employed girls taking the place of men in our changed industrial condition and work in other countries; work endorsed by the Government. Portland's quota is $25,000. Portland is the first to lead off in the entire Northwest campaign.

Local Work Needs Support.

Third—Local Young Women's Christian Association work for 1918, including in the budget, proportion of National fund and many welfare enterprises on behalf of girls and providing for problems requiring extension of operations to look after the women left behind by the soldiers. This fund requires $25,000.

The triple drive is to be officially launched from the Portland Hotel assembly room today. Much careful planning of the solicitation for these subscriptions has been made by Manager Charles F. Berg and Miss Ida V. Junt.

Tonight at the Portland at 6:15 the team workers will hold an inspirational meeting, the keynote of which will be patriotic, stunts, music and explanatory talks of the work being carried forward by the enterprises, for which funds must be drummed up, will feature the meeting.

The Ad Club quartet will entertain with songs and entertaining speakers will bring to the assembly some of the atmosphere of the war camps that will create an invincible morale of the money-drafting forces.

Maximum Called For.

"The least you can give," say the campaign managers, "is the most for every call. The 'can't-afford-it' man should remember that the Government fact that Americans are being shot and killed in the trenches. If a soldier couldn't afford to risk his life by going over the top he would be taken out and shot."

The soldiers and sailors' clubhouses project, requested by the Foodstuffs Commission, has joined its forces in this call and only as a matter of convenience the men's division will utilize a part of the organization machinery to establish the Foodstuffs Commission work for soldiers' welfare in this city.

This is in the hands of the following committee: Emory Olmstead, chairman; H. E. Clodier, secretary; Harry Davis, treasurer; Mayor George Baker, Guy W. Talbot, E. V. Hauser, W. J. Burns, L. C. Gilman, W. B. Barrett, William McMurtry, John P. Dugal, Mark Woodruff.

Hoster of Workers Complete.

Following is the roster of the workers in this week's drive who will be called at tonight's rally to start the work tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock:

Columbia: Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot, Wilbur E. Coman.

Captains, women's division—(1) Mrs. William C. A. Bell, (2) Mrs. J. E. Clodier, (3) Mrs. Frank Fey, (4) Mrs. George C. Woodley, (5) Mrs. Louis Gerhart, (6) Mrs. E. J. Gilman, (7) Mrs. David T. Honeymann, (8) Mrs. Edward P. Northrup.

Captains, men's division—(1) Paul C. Bates, (2) J. A. Craven, (3) E. R. Decker, (4) Aaron Frank, (5) W. J. Hoffmann, (6) George S. Woodley, (7) W. H. Hoffmann, (8) S. P. Lockwood, (9) A. C. Spencer, (10) H. E. VanDusen.

General committee—L. C. Gilman, chairman; C. H. Davis, Jr., treasurer; W. J. Jones and Charles F. Berg, campaign managers; Frank Bates, cashier; Wilbur E. Coman, Mrs. William C. A. Bell, Mrs. J. E. Clodier, Mrs. Frank Fey, Mrs. George C. Woodley, Mrs. Louis Gerhart, Mrs. E. J. Gilman, Mrs. David T. Honeymann, Mrs. Edward P. Northrup.

Team No. 1—Mrs. W. C. Alford, captain; Mrs. William D. Whitehead, lieutenant; Mrs. F. A. Dwyer, Mrs. J. E. Clodier, Mrs. E. R. Decker, Mrs. S. B. Bennett, Mrs. Clarence Curry, Mrs. A. A. Knapp, Mrs. Esther Margherly, Mrs. M. J. Hargrave, Mrs. George McLeod, Mrs. J. E. Kirby, Mrs. Thomas Sharp, Mrs. Donald Spencer, Mrs. E. C. Willard, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. George Lawrence.

Team No. 2—Mrs. Everett Ames, captain; Mrs. A. L. Maxwell, lieutenant; Mrs. Frank Kerr, Mrs. Lloyd Wentworth, Mrs. Harry Torrey, Mrs. Hazel Weidner, Mrs. E. W. Laskie, Mrs. Alan Ellsworth, Mrs. Fred Moore, Mrs. Helen Truitt, Mrs. James Goble, Mrs. W. H. Gilbert, Mrs. Everett Babcock.

Team No. 3—Mrs. J. A. Bell, captain; Mrs. M. J. Sterling, lieutenant; Mrs. W. F. Norman, Mrs. Charles Kamm, Mrs. Forest Fisher, Mrs. George S. Woodley, Mrs. William C. A. Bell, Mrs. J. E. Clodier, Mrs. Frank Fey, Mrs. George C. Woodley, Mrs. Louis Gerhart, Mrs. E. J. Gilman, Mrs. David T. Honeymann, Mrs. Edward P. Northrup.

Team No. 4—Mrs. C. D. Brun, captain; Mrs. W. H. Marshall, lieutenant; Franklin T. Griffith, J. W. Gannon, C. D. Brun, A. Sargent, E. E. Doyle, Lea F. Power, A. M. Silworth, E. B. Hassen, Sam Luders, C. C. Cook.

Team No. 5—Mrs. Frank Fey, captain; Mrs. Morris Whitehouse, lieutenant; Mrs. William Linn, Mrs. Alice Gilman, Mrs. Alan Brown, Mrs. John A. Keating, Mrs. Sarah Patrick, Mrs. Harriet Kearns, Mrs. Gertrude K. Talbot, Mrs. E. E. Eckhardt.

Team No. 6—Mrs. E. M. Nichay, captain; Mrs. W. A. Mackay, lieutenant; Mrs. C. J. McKenna, Mrs. William J. Morrison, Mrs. J. Vanacker, Mrs. E. M. Nichay, Mrs. C. J. McKenna, Mrs. William J. Morrison, Mrs. J. Vanacker.

TWO VIEWS OF THE Y. W. C. A. HOSTESS HOUSE AT VANCOUVER BARRACKS

Cocktails Is A Favorite Pastime With The Soldier Boys.

of Jolly Party in The Hostess House.

"NOTHING is too good for the soldier boys," is the spirit which prevails at the Y. W. C. A. Hostess House in Vancouver. On almost every night during the week some sort of a program or party is given to which all of the soldiers are invited. It is here that the men may meet their mothers or their friends and chat with them as long as they care to stay.

The parties run the gamut from the song fests, which are staged around the piano, to the popcorn and taffy-pulling parties. Mrs. Robert C. Wright is the official hostess in charge, and she is assisted by the girls of the Junior League, the Honor Guard Girls and by individual girls and women who are interested in seeing that the soldiers feel at home when in the house. Mrs. Guy Talbot has been one of the most enthusiastic workers in promoting the affairs of this social center.

It is the sentiment of General Chairman L. C. Gilman, of the Y. W. C. A. War Work Community Service joint campaign for welfare work for the Nation's defenders, "that nothing is too good for the soldier boys" and that "they ought to have whatever they like and want. And I am willing and anxious to help them get this."

One of these things is the soldiers' and sailors' clubhouse in Portland, desired by the Foodstuffs National Commission. It is said that none of the other club facilities will fill the bill for the enlisted men when visiting Portland. In other cities, near training camps and mobilization centers, separate clubhouses are provided for the troops, and are meeting with great success. These recreational places are strong factors in making the spirit of the new Army, the hostess houses near the camps are including far-reaching, uplifting influences in the community for the soldier. Portland's quota of the Y. W. C. A. National war work council is $25,000.

for the purpose of conducting hostess houses and other National work in the war camp communities. The sum of $25,000 is estimated to be necessary for the local association's requirements for a year, including the extension of many activities for the help of girls and women drafted into the industrial army to take the places of men. Another project is the soldiers' and sailors' clubhouse in Portland. The chairman of the special committee on this work, under the direction of the Foodstuffs commission, is Emory Olmstead. Mayor Baker is actively interested in the plan for this clubhouse. The total of $25,000 is the object of the campaign to be conducted by the 200 workers, organized for this drive under Mrs. Guy Talbot and Wilbur E. Coman. Formal inauguration of this drive will be marked with a dinner of the workers and their captains at the Portland Hotel this evening at 6:15 o'clock.

PORTLAND GETS JOB

Local Firm to Furnish 100,000 Feet of Spruce.

5000 MEN WILL BE NEEDED

Grant-Smith-Porter Brothers Company Estimates That It Will Cost in Excess of $10,000,000 to Complete Contract.

MUCH CEDAR AVAILABLE

COOS COUNTY ABLE TO HELP OUT

AEROPLANE PROGRAMME.

Definite Information From War Authorities Awaited by Timber Interests Ready to Serve.

WAR TOPIC OF SERMON

DR. JOHN H. BOYD TALKS BEFORE LARGE CONGREGATION.

Minister Says America Is Dedicated to Battle for Highest Ideals of Human Conception.

That America, entering the war with motives similar to those which actuated France and England, already has risen above this level and is now dedicated to the highest of human conception, was the declaration of Dr. John H. Boyd, in his sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church, entitled "Is the American Ideal of Humanity and Right Sufficient to Sustain the War Spirit?"

"The question of the hour is this, Have we the present time motive sufficient to set that Nation on fire with a purpose to sustain the war and carry it on to victory?" said Dr. Boyd. Repeating the list of America's wrongs, suffered on sea and land, and culminating with Germany's decision to wage ruthless submarine warfare, Dr. Boyd declared "Under that provocation, touched as we were at the very center of our National dignity and honor, at the insult of Germany, we entered the war."

"Very little is being said concerning the causes of the war. The highest and most impressive discussions of the war rise above this ground into the realm of idealism, and we hear about the setting of mankind free, of a universal and abiding peace that is to come after the war."

"We are in the presence of a unique phenomenon, the like of which history has never seen—that a great Nation should undertake a stupendous conflict for the sake of an ideal. Every war has been decided by a change in the map of the world. American idealism says that this war shall end without a change in the world's map. We have concluded that this war shall be the end of all wars, and that in some way an enduring and unbreakable peace shall be assured to the world."

Purse Snatcher at Work.

Mrs. J. Burnette, 547 Hoyt street, reported to the police last night that her purse had been snatched from her hand by a robber at Park and Hoyt streets. Patrolmen Johnston, Collins and Reek investigated.

Stop Using a Truss.

TRUSS WEARERS, Here's Good News. Trusses, Torturous Trusses can be thrown away forever, and it's all because STUART'S PLAPAO-PAD is here. These trusses, being made of rubber, are self-adjusting to prevent slipping. Awarded Gold Medal International Exposition, Rome, Grand Prix at Paris. Write us today to prove it by sending THREE PLAPAO FREE. Address, Plapao Laboratories, Block 103 St. Louis, Mo.

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Always reliable for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Tickling Throat, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Bronchial Cough, and it is your very best buy for La Grippe.

"Every mother in the land should keep a bottle right at hand."

Prices as over 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold Everywhere.

ABIE AIDS MAWRUSS

Potash and Perlmuter as Movie Magnates Win Again.

BAKER REVIVAL SUCCESS

Montague Glass' Famous Characters Have Lost Nothing of Old-Time Power to Please, as Shown at Last Night's Performance.

"TATASH AND PERLMUTER."

CASE.

Mawruss Perlmuter..... Edward Everett Horton
Abie Potash.....George R. Taylor
Marka Pasinsky.....James Guy-Under
Henry D. Feldman.....Smith Davies
Boris Andrieff.....Eugene Shakespeare
Henry Steinhilber.....William Lee
Senator Murphy.....Edward Harrington
Gentleman.....Neil McKinnon
Sidney.....Walter Siegfried
Federal Officer.....William Lee
Ruth Goldman.....Ruth Gates
Mrs. Potash.....Lora Rogers
Mrs. Cohen.....Betty Barnicoat
Irma Potash.....Ann Winston
Miss Levine.....Katherine Graham
Miss O'Brien.....Edith Halcob
Miss Nelson.....William Dierck
Miss Wilson.....Pearl Thompson

BY LEONE CASS SAER.

Ireland, Australia, Russia, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium and Paris have witnessed versions of "Potash and Perlmuter." It opened at the Cohan Theater in New York on August 16, 1913, and played every night excepting Sundays until September 2, 1914, and the next season, in 1915, seven big companies went on tour with it.

One of them, following the "Ziegfeld Follies," equaled or surpassed the business of that organization in every big city in the United States. The play was presented at the Queen's Theater, London, in December, 1913, and ran for a year and a half.

It has visited us as a traveling production and last season the Alcazar Players put it on in stock, and it's still a good show and will remain a classic as long as folk express a preference for clean, keen comedy and genuine fun.

Montague Glass, whose stories of Abie and Mawruss have a tremendous vogue, and their day is young. They have been transferred to the stage with cause for offense to no one. Since the original Potash and Perlmuter "In Business" made its appearance, Potash and Perlmuter has come out, and was given here last season, and now the third of the series, with the two partners interested in moving pictures and a screen vampire, is established as possibly the greatest of the New York season's successes.

Its revival at the Baker this week promises to be one of that theater's real successes, too, if yesterday's turnout is any criterion.

All the dramatic possibilities in the Glass accounts of Abie and Mawruss, business partners, have been retained. Roy, Abie's pinocchio-playing wife, and Ruth Goldman, the fascinating designer, who comes as an angel and saves the little firm from going on the rocks and builds it up until it is able to spread out for seasons more, as witness Abie and Mawruss "In Society" last year, and this year as movie magnates, all these characters and the characteristic Glass has given them are to be seen at the Baker.

Abie and Mawruss squabble as delightfully as ever, and are soon as devoted enemies through four wholesomely funny acts.

The first takes place in their cloak and suit emporium, with Ruth Goldman's emporium on the scene as a newly hired designer.

When she finds Boris Andrieff, one of her own young friends, and a Russian refugee in the eve of deportation to exile in Siberia because of his supposed participation in a rebellion of his countrymen, she accepts the new place in the Potash and Perlmuter firm, and stays on to help Boris to send the firm on to prosperity and to capture the heart and name of Perlmuter.

It is all so quaintly told, so humorous, and the Alcazar Players, following in the role of Edward Everett Horton as another Alexander Carr in the role of Mawruss, playing with a quick, sure touch the Hebraic character, never caricaturing any bit of it, but always keeping it alert and, as he puts it, "strictly business," until the capitulation to Ruth's charms, and an occasional warning of kindly emotion over his partner's woes.

Scenes Together Are Capital.

The partner, Abie, is nicely presented by George R. Taylor, who makes his old-fashioned, slow-thinking Abie a fine foil for Mr. Horton's up-to-the-minute, capable businesslike Mawruss. They have a dozen capital scenes to savor.

Ruth Gates is a gem in her characterization of Roy Potash, following the prescribed dialect faithfully, never getting out of the type for an instant and unforgettably reminiscent of many roles in the film.

Eugene Shakespeare offers a fine piece of real dramatic acting as the artistic Boris.

In the first act a flock of attractive girl models from a local store add to the interest by appearing almost dressed in some marvelous clothes.

WAR TOPIC OF SERMON.

DR. JOHN H. BOYD TALKS BEFORE LARGE CONGREGATION.

Minister Says America Is Dedicated to Battle for Highest Ideals of Human Conception.

That America, entering the war with motives similar to those which actuated France and England, already has risen above this level and is now dedicated to the highest of human conception, was the declaration of Dr. John H. Boyd, in his sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church, entitled "Is the American Ideal of Humanity and Right Sufficient to Sustain the War Spirit?"

"The question of the hour is this, Have we the present time motive sufficient to set that Nation on fire with a purpose to sustain the war and carry it on to victory?" said Dr. Boyd. Repeating the list of America's wrongs, suffered on sea and land, and culminating with Germany's decision to wage ruthless submarine warfare, Dr. Boyd declared "Under that provocation, touched as we were at the very center of our National dignity and honor, at the insult of Germany, we entered the war."

"Very little is being said concerning the causes of the war. The highest and most impressive discussions of the war rise above this ground into the realm of idealism, and we hear about the setting of mankind free, of a universal and abiding peace that is to come after the war."

"We are in the presence of a unique phenomenon, the like of which history has never seen—that a great Nation should undertake a stupendous conflict for the sake of an ideal. Every war has been decided by a change in the map of the world. American idealism says that this war shall end without a change in the world's map. We have concluded that this war shall be the end of all wars, and that in some way an enduring and unbreakable peace shall be assured to the world."

Purse Snatcher at Work.

Mrs. J. Burnette, 547 Hoyt street, reported to the police last night that her purse had been snatched from her hand by a robber at Park and Hoyt streets. Patrolmen Johnston, Collins and Reek investigated.

Stop Using a Truss.

TRUSS WEARERS, Here's Good News. Trusses, Torturous Trusses can be thrown away forever, and it's all because STUART'S PLAPAO-PAD is here. These trusses, being made of rubber, are self-adjusting to prevent slipping. Awarded Gold Medal International Exposition, Rome, Grand Prix at Paris. Write us today to prove it by sending THREE PLAPAO FREE. Address, Plapao Laboratories, Block 103 St. Louis, Mo.

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Always reliable for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Tickling Throat, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Bronchial Cough, and it is your very best buy for La Grippe.

"Every mother in the land should keep a bottle right at hand."

Prices as over 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold Everywhere.

HOLSUM BARLEY BREAD

Notice to Everyone Who Signed the Food Pledge:—

The Log Cabin Baking Co., after numerous scientific experiments, has perfected another wheat-saving Hoover Bread. It is

HOLSUM BARLEY BREAD

—and It Will Keep FRESH for Days!

It is a wholesome, appetizing loaf—not a makeshift! It is heartily recommended by everyone interested in conservation of wheat. HOLSUM BARLEY BREAD saves from 10% to 15% more wheat than Whole Wheat or Graham Bread.

You can do your "bit" by serving this delicious new "conservation loaf"—and at the same time enjoy a brand new bread treat!

ORDER A LOAF FROM YOUR GROCER TODAY!

Other wheat-saving breads recommended
For Wheatless Wednesdays and Wheatless Meals:
HOLSUM LIBERTY BREAD
(composed partially of oat meal)

WAR BREAD

RYE BREAD

ALWAYS INSIST ON HOLSUM—GET THE BEST
LOG CABIN BAKING CO.
Bakers of HOLSUM and TIP-TOP Bread

HOLSUM

ABIE AIDS MAWRUSS

Potash and Perlmuter as Movie Magnates Win Again.

BAKER REVIVAL SUCCESS

Montague Glass' Famous Characters Have Lost Nothing of Old-Time Power to Please, as Shown at Last Night's Performance.

"TATASH AND PERLMUTER."

CASE.

Mawruss Perlmuter..... Edward Everett Horton
Abie Potash.....George R. Taylor
Marka Pasinsky.....James Guy-Under
Henry D. Feldman.....Smith Davies
Boris Andrieff.....Eugene Shakespeare
Henry Steinhilber.....William Lee
Senator Murphy.....Edward Harrington
Gentleman.....Neil McKinnon
Sidney.....Walter Siegfried
Federal Officer.....William Lee
Ruth Goldman.....Ruth Gates
Mrs. Potash.....Lora Rogers
Mrs. Cohen.....Betty Barnicoat
Irma Potash.....Ann Winston
Miss Levine.....Katherine Graham
Miss O'Brien.....Edith Halcob
Miss Nelson.....William Dierck
Miss Wilson.....Pearl Thompson

BY LEONE CASS SAER.

Ireland, Australia, Russia, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium and Paris have witnessed versions of "Potash and Perlmuter." It opened at the Cohan Theater in New York on August 16, 1913, and played every night excepting Sundays until September 2, 1914, and the next season, in 1915, seven big companies went on tour with it.

One of them, following the "Ziegfeld Follies," equaled or surpassed the business of that organization in every big city in the United States. The play was presented at the Queen's Theater, London, in December, 1913, and ran for a year and a half.

It has visited us as a traveling production and last season the Alcazar Players put it on in stock, and it's still a good show and will remain a classic as long as folk express a preference for clean, keen comedy and genuine fun.

Montague Glass, whose stories of Abie and Mawruss have a tremendous vogue, and their day is young. They have been transferred to the stage with cause for offense to no one. Since the original Potash and Perlmuter "In Business" made its appearance, Potash and Perlmuter has come out, and was given here last season, and now the third of the series, with the two partners interested in moving pictures and a screen vampire, is established as possibly the greatest of the New York season's successes.

Its revival at the Baker this week promises to be one of that theater's real successes, too, if yesterday's turnout is any criterion.

All the dramatic possibilities in the Glass accounts of Abie and Mawruss, business partners, have been retained. Roy, Abie's pinocchio-playing wife, and Ruth Goldman, the fascinating designer, who comes as an angel and saves the little firm from going on the rocks and builds it up until it is able to spread out for seasons more, as witness Abie and Mawruss "In Society" last year, and this year as movie magnates, all these characters and the characteristic Glass has given them are to be seen at the Baker.

Abie and Mawruss squabble as delightfully as ever, and are soon as devoted enemies through four wholesomely funny acts.

The first takes place in their cloak and suit emporium, with Ruth Goldman's emporium on the scene as a newly hired designer.

When she finds Boris Andrieff, one of her own young friends, and a Russian refugee in the eve of deportation to exile in Siberia because of his supposed participation in a rebellion of his countrymen, she accepts the new place in the Potash and Perlmuter firm, and stays on to help Boris to send the firm on to prosperity and to capture the heart and name of Perlmuter.

It is all so quaintly told, so humorous, and the Alcazar Players, following in the role of Edward Everett Horton as another Alexander Carr in the role of Mawruss, playing with a quick, sure touch the Hebraic character, never caricaturing any bit of it, but always keeping it alert and, as he puts it, "strictly business," until the capitulation to Ruth's charms, and an occasional warning of kindly emotion over his partner's woes.

Scenes Together Are Capital.

The partner, Abie, is nicely presented by George R. Taylor, who makes his old-fashioned, slow-thinking Abie a fine foil for Mr. Horton's up-to-the-minute, capable businesslike Mawruss. They have a dozen capital scenes to savor.

Ruth Gates is a gem in her characterization of Roy Potash, following the prescribed dialect faithfully, never getting out of the type for an instant and unforgettably reminiscent of many roles in the film.

Eugene Shakespeare offers a fine piece of real dramatic acting as the artistic Boris.

In the first act a flock of attractive girl models from a local store add to the interest by appearing almost dressed in some marvelous clothes.

WAR TOPIC OF SERMON.

DR. JOHN H. BOYD TALKS BEFORE LARGE CONGREGATION.

Minister Says America Is Dedicated to Battle for Highest Ideals of Human Conception.

That America, entering the war with motives similar to those which actuated France and England, already has risen above this level and is now dedicated to the highest of human conception, was the declaration of Dr. John H. Boyd, in his sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church, entitled "Is the American Ideal of Humanity and Right Sufficient to Sustain the War Spirit?"

"The question of the hour is this, Have we the present time motive sufficient to set that Nation on fire with a purpose to sustain the war and carry it on to victory?" said Dr. Boyd. Repeating the list of America's wrongs, suffered on sea and land, and culminating with Germany's decision to wage ruthless submarine warfare, Dr. Boyd declared "Under that provocation, touched as we were at the very center of our National dignity and honor, at the insult of Germany, we entered the war."

"Very little is being said concerning the causes of the war. The highest and most impressive discussions of the war rise above this ground into the realm of idealism, and we hear about the setting of mankind free, of a universal and abiding peace that is to come after the war."

"We are in the presence of a unique phenomenon, the like of which history has never seen—that a great Nation should undertake a stupendous conflict for the sake of an ideal. Every war has been decided by a change in the map of the world. American idealism says that this war shall end without a change in the world's map. We have concluded that this war shall be the end of all wars, and that in some way an enduring and unbreakable peace shall be assured to the world."