

LANSING BACK OF CAILLAUX ARREST

French Action Follows on Word From the United States Government.

AMBITIOUS PLOT EXPOSED

Arrests of Many High Officials, Among Them Clemenceau, Contemplated, as Shown by Documents Seized at Florence.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The arrest yesterday of former Premier Caillaux, was due principally to a cablegram from Secretary Lansing at Washington, saying that in 1912, M. Caillaux had been in communication with the Berlin Foreign Office.

Secretary Lansing's cablegram stated that the American representative at Buenos Aires had been able to establish that M. Caillaux, during his visit to Argentina in 1915, had been in communication with the Berlin Foreign Office through Count von Luxberg, then German Minister to Argentina with the object of concluding peace with Germany at any price, so as to permit the resumption of business.

Florence Evidence Damaging. The investigation of the Italian effects of former Premier Caillaux is said by the Matin to have resulted in the discovery of important military and political papers in the safe of the Bank of Florence, which was rented under the maiden name of Madame Caillaux and used by the former Premier during his visit to Italy in December, 1914.

Among the military papers found there, the newspaper asserts, were a number of notes in which M. Caillaux in the expectation of gaining office as Premier, drafted a Cabinet, designated a generalissimo and sketched various exceptional measures.

These measures included the arrest of certain politicians and Generals, among whom Premier Clemenceau is said to have been one, and the dismissal of a number of officials.

Evidence is Stronger. In addition to these, says the Matin, there were documents of a military character which, by their very nature, seem to constitute the strongest evidence against M. Caillaux.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Secretary Lansing today refused to affirm or deny or comment upon the dispatch from Paris. There seems to be no doubt, however, that some of the dispatch is contained in the captured Luxemburg correspondence.

Inasmuch as the Caillaux case is in a judicial state, the United States will not publish any documents upon it which have not been arranged for in advance with the French government. The dispatch and many others undoubtedly will be given out if France requests it.

Cattle Shipped During Year Average 75 Pounds Under Normal Weight. Marketing Too Heavy.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 15.—Declaring there is a "red flag of danger flying at the mast of the cattle business," and suggesting that the government should be taken to protect the livestock industry of the United States, A. E. de Riquelme, of Denver, Colo., addressed the 121st annual convention of the American National Livestock Association today on "A Livestock Policy for Washington."

"The danger that we see at this time," said Mr. de Riquelme, "is in the increased cattle receipts at market. I believe the cattle that have gone to market this year have averaged 75 pounds less in weight than the average for the 10 years previous."

Mr. de Riquelme said that the immense receipts showed that the reserve supply had been deeply cut into, and that on account of the short calf crop in 1917 and an assured short calf crop in 1918 the reserve could not be quickly restored.

Meatless and wheatless days to remain at least for the period of the war was the message brought by Joseph P. Cotton, chief of the meat division of the Federal Food Administration and principal representative of the Food Administration at the convention.

YARMOUTH UNDER FIRE

ENGLISH CITY BOMBARDED BY GERMAN VESSELS. Three Persons Killed and Ten Injured as Shells Explode Material Damage Slight.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Yarmouth was bombarded from the sea last night. About 20 shells fell in the city. Three persons were killed and ten injured. Fire was opened at 10:55 P. M., and lasted about eight minutes. The material damage done was not serious.

Yarmouth, England, Jan. 15.—The enemy craft which bombarded Yarmouth last night, presumably was a submarine or a light cruiser. The bombardment, which was preceded by illumination of the town by large star shells, continued about eight minutes. Owing to the blackness of the night, the enemy was not seen. He fired 20 to 25 shells in rapid succession. Many windows were shattered and a number of roofs and chimneys were wrecked.

TORPEDO FATAL TO MANY

David W. Bagley, Commander of United States Destroyer Jones, Tells of Incidents Following Submerging of Big Craft.

(By the Associated Press.) AN ATLANTIC PORT, Jan. 15.—The irrepressible humor of the American fighting man in the face of death was not abated by the German torpedo that sank the United States destroyer Jacob Jones December 6. Lieutenant Norman Scott, who survived here today with Lieutenant Commander David W. Bagley, commander of the Jacob Jones, told the story of the sailor who had been hurled into the sea by the explosion of the torpedo.

Spouting water and battling with the waves, the sailor grinned and shouted to his boys: "Where do we go from here?" Commander Bagley, it was learned from naval officers who accompanied him, planned to surrender himself as a prisoner of war to the submarine in order to save the crew of the Jacob Jones, 66 of whom perished. The U-boat disappeared, however, before he could make the offer to the German commander.

Commander Bagley was the last man to leave the ill-fated destroyer. After he had been hauled into a dory, Commander Bagley said and putting them "Keep an eye out for the sub Scott, if Fritz will give us a tow I will give myself up."

Soon the periscope of the submarine came to the dory and 500 yards away. The U-boat approached an American sailor struggling in the water and four Germans dragged the man aboard. The submarine then headed off.

Depth Bombs Explode. "We went around in the dory, equalizing the weight on the rafts," he said, "taking men off some and putting them on others. When this was done, it seemed the only chance of saving the men was to summon aid. So I decided to take to the dory and row to shore. It was a 30-mile pull, we knew, for Scott and myself had our position when we went down. I placed all but two of the men on rafts and kept Scott in the boat with me. Then we all took an oar and pulled away."

"We rowed all night and all the next day until we had covered 23 miles, and were within seven miles of land. Then a patrol boat came along and picked us up. Its commander told us that the others had been found. That 23-mile pull in heavy seas was a corker."

Other naval officers said that when the torpedo struck the depth bombs on the afterdeck of the Jacob Jones exploded, blowing Commander Bagley off the bridge. It was thought that several of those missing were killed either by the explosion or the torpedo or the depth bombs.

LEGISLATION TO SPEED UP

Chamberlain Bill Proposing Secretary of Munitions Will Be Amended in Harmony With Views of Military Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Legislation to be passed by the Senate military committee for one-man control of war supplies probably will provide for an administrator with broad powers under the President, instead of creating the new department and Cabinet officer to which President Wilson and Secretary Baker object.

Chairman Chamberlain and other members of the committee indicated tonight that the Chamberlain bill proposing a secretary of munitions would be so amended before it reached the Senate for consideration. The committee, which plans to suspend temporarily its investigation of Army preparations Thursday to give attention to legislation, heard tonight Walter S. Gifford, director of the Council of National Defense, who approved the plan for individual centralization, under the President, of authority to direct industrial co-ordination and Government war purchasing, as outlined yesterday by Daniel Willard, chairman, and Bernard M. Baruch, of the War Industries Board.

Mr. Gifford said the War Department reorganization ordered by Secretary Baker is defective in that it fails to place munitions authority in one person and also relies upon voluntary effort. He also opposed making the munitions director or administrator a Cabinet officer.

Work of the civilian advisory bodies was defended by Gifford, who said they had saved the Government several billions of dollars on subcontracts. Before suspending its inquiry tomorrow the committee will hear a statement by Waddill Catchings, of New York, representing the United States Chamber of Commerce.

It will then begin consideration of the Chamberlain and other legislation, including Army bills submitted by the War Department for the registration of men beginning of age since the first draft registration was authorized and making of other important changes in the draft law.

House Republicans met in caucus tonight to consider the proposals for changes in the Government's war organization.

(By the Associated Press.) LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Roumanian Minister to Petrograd and his entire staff have been arrested by the Bolsheviks, the Roumanian Legation here announces.

The arrests are believed to have been made in reprisals for the arrest of a number of Bolshevik agitators at Jassy, Roumania.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 14.—The entire diplomatic corps, including the neutral embassy this morning and determined to go in a body to Premier Lenine and demand the immediate release of Comstaline Diamandi, the Roumanian Minister. Ambassador Francis, as dean of the corps, telephoned Premier Lenine asking for an immediate appointment. The diplomats considered the arrest of the Roumanian Minister as a most flagrant violation of the rights of envoys, necessitating the most urgent action.

The diplomatic corps has been unable to ascertain the reasons for and the details concerning M. Diamandi's arrest and is taking the position that the cause of his arrest is of no consequence. The Bolshevik government authorities declined to explain the arrest of the Roumanian Minister to the Associated Press, saying that details would be given out later.

The receipt of a telephone call from the American Embassy, together with the promise of the appearance at the Smolny Institute of the entire diplomatic corps, which up to this time has scrupulously avoided any semblance of recognition, has created a stir and caused unusual activity on the day set aside for the celebration of the Russian New Year.

Foreign Minister Trotsky's absence at Brest-Litovsk caused the diplomats to appeal to Premier Lenine, instead of the Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs. After a long conference with his subordinates Premier Lenine agreed to receive the corps.
