BEES GET VALUABLE MAN

Speed on Bases and Fielding Ability Make Farmer Profitable Acquisition—Portland to Get Three or Four Players in Exchange.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON. Jack Farmer will play with Salt Lake next season.

Walter McCredie has requisitioned the services of the fleet-footed outfielder from Judge McCredie, and the Portland team will receive three or four replace players in exchange.

OTHER MANAGERS COINCIDE

Hugo Bezdek, Pirate Chief, Is Only Pilot in National Who Is Especially Successful With Method in 1917.

Under the Huggins administration the New York Yankees are not likely to use the squeeze play as frequently as they did when their attack was directed by "Wild Bill" Donovan.

Hugo Bezdek, the Pirate chieftain, 1917 National League champion, used it successfully eight times during the year. When Jimmy Callahan was the Pirate manager Pittsburgh got away with this play twice.

Pat Moran's Phillies worked the squeeze on their opponents twice, and so did Christy Mathewson's Cincinnati Reds. George Stallings' Boston Braves used the play once, but the Brooklyn Dodgers under Wilbert Robinson, the Giants under John McGraw and the Chicago Cubs under Fred Mitchell had no use for this scheme as a means of acquiring runs and never once tried it.

The only double squeeze of the year in the National League was worked by the Phillies at New York in the sixth inning on April 27, and became a double squeeze because Jeff Tesreau pitched the game.

WELL, WELL, OUR OLD FRIEND 'HIG' WANTS TO COME BACK

Elongated ex-Beaver, Now Running "Panorium," Asks for Job.

WHOM do you suppose wants to pitch for the Portland Pacific Coast International League baseball team?

Each fan is entitled to three guesses. Can you guess who?

Well, it's none other than Irve C. Higginbotham, former Beaver pitcher, who helped Portland win a pennant one year ago by himself and later went the release route.

Higginbotham at present is located at Butte, Neb., and the letterhead on the stationery, which "Hig" used in writing for a job reads as follows:

IRVE C. HIGGINBOTHAM, Proprietor, Butte, Nebraska.

Clothing, Dyeing and Pressing. Which to Portland fans is a new line of venture for the former Portland twirler.

Higginbotham, after his release by the Portland management, joined the Western League and later retired to private life. Judge McCredie always had the highest regard for Higginbotham as a pitcher, but the erratic notions and frenzied finance ideas of Higginbotham had the judge up in the air most of the time "Hig" was a member of the Portland team.

"I would like very much to get on as a member of your club," Higginbotham wrote McCredie. "I stayed out of the game last season and my arm is in wonderful shape. I never felt better. I have several opportunities to sign elsewhere, but would prefer to take another try with the Portland team."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The fact that the East faces a temporary meat shortage because of transportation difficulties was disclosed by the food administration tonight by instructions sent to packers not to increase their prices above a normal margin of cost and to distribute their available supplies fairly among their customers.

Wholesalers and retailers received virtually the same instructions.
