

MONTANA EX-CHIEF FOUND IN PORTLAND

Granite County Sheriff Traces Fugitive to Hotel Here and Makes Arrest.

CITY TOO BIG FOR DEPUTY

Officer First Sent for Law-Breaking Policeman Gets Homesick Among Sights and Sounds of Metropolis and Returns Home.

Give a Montana Deputy Sheriff a horse and a pair of chaps, send him after a desperado over sweeping prairies or through towering hills and frowning mountains, but him have no money for expenses and force him to get his food as best he can, and he will continue the long, lonely pursuit for six months and return with his quarry.

But send the same officer to Portland or some other city, on a similar chase, where he has to pass hard-paved streets and walks, let him fail to find the fugitive within 48 hours, and he will return to the hills and prairies of Montana, homesick and utterly disgusted, an admittedly defeated man.

Such has been the experience that Sheriff F. C. Burke, of Granite County, Montana, has had with his deputies.

"You might as well try to transplant Montana mesquite to Washington street and expect it to grow as to expect a back-country Montana Deputy Sheriff to perform his duty as well here as he would on the prairies in chaps and on horseback," said Sheriff Burke.

Deputy Is Sent on Case.

"A month ago I sent Deputy Sheriff Metcalf here to find F. J. Wright, Chief of Police of Phillipsburg, Mont., and wanted there for assault and robbery. Two days of pacing Portland streets and mingling with Portland crowds and hearing Portland noises made him a handkerchief. He wired me that he was so homesick and disgusted that he would resign unless I gave him permission to come back. Yet he is one of the most capable men in my city. In the hills and on the prairies of Montana I would trust him for a year on a man chase, and I know he would come back with his man or never come back alive."

That's the Montana back-country Deputy Sheriff from A to Z, and you simply can't make him stay in my city. Sheriff Burke came to Portland and concluded successfully the man hunt on which he sent Metcalf.

F. C. Wright, a dashing young athlete of 29 years, weighing 215 pounds and standing six feet tall, prepossessing of manner and handsome in appearance disappeared about five weeks ago after brutally assaulting a well-known doctor. It is charged.

Losses Traced to Wright.

While Wright was being sought, says Sheriff Burke, miners complained that they had been despoiled when taken into custody. At the same time S. E. McGowan, Mayor of Phillipsburg, who appointed Wright Chief of Police and in the rear of whose jewelry store Wright was rooming, discovered that several hundred dollars worth of his jewelry was missing. The loss was traced to Wright, it is said. The fugitive's pecuniary all told, according to Sheriff Burke, amounts to $1500 or more.

Wright went to Phillipsburg from some point on the Coast about 28 months ago and he and his young wife, asserts Sheriff Burke, were unusually popular in Granite County. Since then Wright and his wife separated and Wright began to keep bachelor apartments in Nicholas' jewelry store, a step which led to his undoing.

Wright was arrested at the point of a gun Monday night while operating a stillboard for parties at the Newlands Hotel, Thirteenth and Washington streets, where he was stopping under another name. Sheriff Burke says he covered Wright with a gun because he has a reputation for being fearless and is inclined to use a revolver if caught in a tight place.

Sheriff Burke declares that the people of Granite County know nothing about Wright or his past.

THRIFT HITS THEATER

LYRIC EMPLOYEES PURCHASE $2505 WORTH OF WAR STAMPS.

A. G. Clark's Four-Minute Talk Held Responsible for Movement in Government "Baby Bonds."

Attributed as a direct result of a "four-minute" talk at the Lyric Theater by A. G. Clark some days ago, purchases of war savings stamps to the value of $2505 have been traced. The stamps were bought from the postman who delivers mail to the theater.

Ben T. Dillon, director and comedian, and Thomas Castle, stage director, invested $1000 each in the popular little "baby bonds." Ed Olander, property director, purchased the little stickers to the value of $100. Al Franks, comedian, and Buck Orchard invested to the extent of $100 apiece, and Miss Olive Floney bought $2 worth of the stamps.

Today at noon the Portland Ad Club will have the thrift campaign up for discussion and consideration at its weekly luncheon at the Benson Hotel. Director Jackson, Associate Director Wagoner and John H. Stevenson will detail aims and methods of the W. S. S. campaign. The Ad Club Quartet will sing.

ADVANTAGES ARE TOLD

PORTLAND MAN BOOSTS PACIFIC COAST THROUGHOUT EAST.

Oregon People Are Asked to Write Their Eastern Friends to Attend Talks by Frank Branch Riley.

Frank Branch Riley, premier word-weaver of Portland, is now in the East, bearing his message of Pacific Coast scenery and climate to the public of many large cities. The travel tale that Mr. Riley tells, and which is to direct the attention of vacationists this way, is termed "The International North-west."

The complete itinerary of the speaker has been received, and it is suggested that Portland people having friends or relatives in the various cities to be visited write to them and urge their attendance.

Mr. Riley is commissioned by the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association to carry word of our scenic and climatic advantages to the East in the general campaign for increased tourist travel during the coming and succeeding seasons. His itinerary henceforth will be as follows:

February 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10—Chicago, LaSalle Hotel.

February 11—Battle Creek, Mich., and Camp Center, care George B. Dolliver, editor Moon Journal.

February 12 and 13—University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich., Zeta Psi House.

February 14 and 15—Detroit, Mich., Hotel Statler.

February 16—Toronto, Canada.

February 20 and 21—Buffalo, N. Y.

February 22—Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., Zeta Psi House.

February 24, 27 and 28; March 1, 2, 3 and 4—Philadelphia, Pa., care William A. Law, First National Bank.

EXTENSION SERVICE LONG

Important Trips of College Leaders Are Announced.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Feb. 5.—(Special).—A long list of appointments for extension service is being made.

ONE OF STAGE'S BUSIEST WOMEN NOW AT PANTAGES THEATER.

Rose Langdon. With two brothers already in the service and a third about to leave, Rose Langdon is one of the busiest of stage women these days.

Miss Langdon is with Harry Langdon, the noted comedian, in the successful farce, "Johnny's New Car," featured at Pantages this week. One brother is stationed at Fort Meade, where the temperature was recently 24 degrees below zero, and the other is in the submarine-chaser service on the other side of the Atlantic. Miss Langdon devotes all the time she can find to knitting and otherwise constructing articles that will make her brothers more comfortable.

work this week is issued and covers many branches of the department work. Among the most important trips will be that of H. C. Serrmon, state club leader, and Miss Helen Cowgill, assistant, who will go to Washington, D. C. Saturday to attend the conference of workers called by O. H. Benson, Federal club leader.

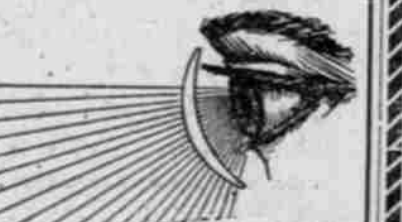

L. J. Allen, state pig club agent, and Philip Forner, assistant, will spend the week in Marion County. C. I. Lewis, of the horticulture department, will speak before a gathering of the Dallas orchardists Saturday, on the use of agricultural lime in orchards. W. S. Brown, also of the horticulture department, will do orchard demonstration work in Douglas County.

Home makers will organize for food conservation campaigns in Coos County under the direction of Mrs. Jessie McComb, assistant of home demonstrations.

Edwin T. Reed will address the Parent Teacher association of Lebanon, Saturday, on educational work. Dr. H. J. Kraus will deliver a lecture on pruning to the Russellville Grange, Graysham, on the same day. George Hyslop will continue the work of the bulk handling of grain campaign by a trip to The Dalles, where he will meet grain men of the community.

Labor Leader to Visit Pendleton.

PENDLETON, Or., Feb. 5.—(Special).—E. J. Stack, organized labor leader, will be here tomorrow night to meet with laboring men and women here. As a result of his visit, it is expected that a new union or two will come into existence, and possibly a branch of the State Federation formed. Several of the trades here are already organized.

Eye-Strain

Defective eyes very often give clear vision by straining.

In such cases glasses are needed—not to increase the vision, but to remove the strain, which causes headache and other nervous troubles.

My 20 years' experience, and the proper application of that experience in using the latest scientific instruments for eye-testing, assure you of perfect-fitting glasses.
