NEW LIBERTY LOAN SPELLS SACRIFICE

Chairman Emery Olmstead Outlines Sweeping Plans of Campaign Committee.

HARD JOB TO BE PUT OVER

Slackers Are Not Men With Grimed and Calloused Hands, but Those With Comfortable Salaries and Others Able to Subscribe.

It was the man with grimed and calloused hands, who earns his wage at day labor, that carried off all honors for prompt and loyal response to pre-vious liberty loan issues. Oregon workmen were imbued with the spirit of the drives and the opportunity to of the drives and the opportunity to serve the Nation through their savings.

These men were the inspiration of other drives, declared Emery Olmstead, chairman of the Portland campaign committee for the third liberty loan, in sketching plans of the local workers yesterday. They came to the banks to make their subscriptions, thousands of them, with fingers so stiffened by work that the pen spluttered and straggled as they wrote their signatures.

gled as they wrote their signatures. gled as they wrote their signatures.

"They realized to the fullest extent the importance of the duty and their willingness was a source of courage to all. They did their utmost, they made their payments promptly—and they are going to do it again. There is no need to worry about these in the third grive."

All Portland to Be Indexed.

Chairman Olmstead's observations were made apropos of the appointment of his fellow-committeemen and the discussion of plans so inclusive that all Portland will be indexed and the last prospect asked to render an account of his attitude toward the liberty crusade.

his attitude toward the liberty crusade.

"Two classes of men have been derelict in their plain duty in both previous drives," continued Chairman Olmstead. "One of these is the middle-class man of salary, who earns from $1500 to $2400 a year. With his eye on the job just ahead, straining to maintain social position, living beyond his means, he lent but little aid to the liberty loans, I fear.

The second class comprises those who, abundantly able to subscribe, bought just enough bonds to get under the tape of criticism. Men who could have subscribed for $1000 took $500; and men who could have subscribed for $1000 took $500; and men who could have subscribed for and men who could have subscribed for $10,000 took $5000.

Sacrifice Must Be Met.

"If the third liberty loan spells sacrifice, we must meet it. There is no turning away from the course before us. It is absolutely imperative that the Government have this money to carry on the war—our war. It means that every one of us must economize and save and put every dollar we save into liberty loan bonds.

This is the task of the Portland committee, as I see it—to stir the red blood of our citizens into a response as generous as that made by our young men when the Nation called. We have a hard job before us. Yet it can be put over, by system and thorough organization, and we are taking steps to

It is almost certain that Portland "It is almost certain that Portland will be called upon for twice as much as the previous drive demanded. We took pride, and properly, in the response of the city and state to all patriotic calls, but we must accomplish this new task, not merely for the sake of saying that we achieved it, but for the good of the cause. This viewpoint is imperative?"

Pertland Most Raise $25,000,000.

City to Be Districted.

Under the plan of the Portland campaign, the city will be districted and committees named for the solicitation of each district. So comprehensive will be the campaign that every adult citizen of Portland will be indexed and approached by solicitors. Official records will be kept of prospects, with reasons given for their failure to subscribe if the solicitors should meet with refusal. In perfecting the local organization, and many business and professional men will be wressed into the volunteer service, pledging themselves to temporarily abandon or relax their own affairs and to give their time to the task of heaping approach 250e in number.

"Sacrifice is to be the keynute of the dive," asserts Chairman Olmstead.
