post now have access to the greater conveniences of a modern dub in the A. R. C., thanks once again to Miss Givenwilson, who has made such a tireless offort to provide these comforts. From the little one-round building erected first, connecting wings have spread out until now the Red Cross system is almost entirely complete, containing in all a new officers' mess hall and ciubrooms, cadet cafeteria, reading and writing rooms and a soldiers' hall, which has been in *operation from the first. A new kitchen with modern storerooms connecting enables the preparation of more varied dishes and more persons can be accommodated at one time. The mending shop now in operation is equipped to care for all odd jobs of repair work to the men's clothes, the only requirement being that the clothes be turned in unsoiled for whatever repairs may be required. The men are urged to make use of this department of the A. R. C. A garden with rustic benches and winding walks is in course of construction and it will be a place where a soldier can go and think of his girl and home.

22 Million Families in the United States

4 CUPS OF WHEAT FLOUR TO THE POUND

If each family used 4 cups of flour less per week, the saving would be 22 million pounds or 112,244 barrels every week.

The greatest help housekeepers can give to win the war is to make this saving and it can be done by using this recipe in place of white flour bread.

Corn Meal Biscuits

% teaspoon salt
1 cup white flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Save % cup of the measured flour for board. Pour milk over corn meal, add shortening and salt. When cold, add slited flour and baking powder. Roll out lightly on floured board. Cut with biscuit cutter and bake in greased pan fifteen to twenty minutes.

BY PROF. A.G.B. BOUQUET. Succession Cropping Desirable.

HERE is hardly a garden in which It is not possible and very desirable employ some means whereby there will be a definite succession of crops. This does not mean necessarily in-suggestion that this important feature of intensive gardening be practiced as far as possible by home gardeners.

Early peas grown at a similar distance to Fall cabbage may be followed by the same, while the second or third by the same of t planting of peas might be well suc-ceeded by Winter cabbage such as Danish Ball Head. If the planting of peas is quite extensive, other, crops such as Scotch kale and brussels mer pea ground.

Green onions from sets being grown at a similar distance as far as the rows are concerned, could be followed by head lettuce for Summer, sown from seed using such varieties as Iceberg or Hanson. Early bunch beets and carrots, used in their tender condition when small, can be succeeded by a planting of Fall cauliflower or some celery plants. Early cabbage, harvested and removed by some time in August, could be followed by at least two or three rows of Fall spinach.

This does not mean necessarily intricate cropping of the garden, but a simple, well considered proposition of following a short season crop with one which will mature in Fall or Winter.

In the garden plan of Bulletin 287 I have shown the possibility of continuous cropping and am listing here other means of crop following as a suggestion that this important feature of intensive gardening be practiced as
