THE MORNING OREGONIAN, SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1918.

Busy at his figures all yesterday, with a most gratified smile as town after town turned "blue," was James B. Lynch, second assistant stats man-ager. To Mr. Lynch fell the task of Malory Talent Cottage Grove Cariton ager. To Mr. Lynch fell the task of keeping at all times in touch with dis-tant points by telephone and telegraph, receiving and tabulating their returns. "Bee that map" he found time to ask. "There are few builtons there that aren't blue. The last yellow or red will turn as blue as the rest. It's only a matter of hours." Crowding one upon the other have come the inspiring incidents of the liberty drive—too many to tell, and all shining with patriotism of diamond quality, and not a few bearing the lineswith County
