

SHIP HAS GERMAN- BORN COMMANDER

Sister Living in San Francisco
Says Worley's Name Was Formerly Wichtmann.

CYCLOPS MYSTERY DEEP

Naval Officials Declare No Theory
Has Yet Been Advanced to Explain Sudden Disappearance of the Big Collier.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 15.—(Special.)—In a modest home at 75 Carl street, the sister of the commander of the missing United States collier Cyclops, Lieutenant Commander G. W. Worley, was nervously waiting today for further word from Washington.

She is Mrs. A. M. Angermann, and despite the gloom of the Navy Department announcement she is hoping that word still may come of the safety of her brother and the 32 men aboard the missing ship.

According to his sister, Lieutenant Commander Worley was born in Germany and came to this country when he was a child. His name was originally Wichtmann. He changed it, however, when he entered the United States Navy many years ago. He enlisted originally as a seaman, but worked his way up to a commission.

His nephew, Mrs. Angermann's son, is Dr. E. Angermann, of the St. Joseph's Hospital staff. Lieutenant Commander Worley has a wife and child living in Norfolk.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Unrelenting search of trade routes will be carried on by American and French naval and merchant vessels until every possible hope of finding some trace of the missing Navy collier Cyclops has been exhausted.

Further Search Ordered.
Secretary Daniels has ordered additional fast scouts detailed for this service.

Although today passed without a report strengthening in the slightest degree to the hope still felt by Mrs. Daniels and several of his chief assistants, these officials refused to believe that the great 19,000-ton collier and the 323 lives she carried could have been wiped out without leaving a trace.

Naval officials frankly confessed that no theory yet advanced to explain the disappearance of the Cyclops from March 4, when she left Barbados—it was officially stated tonight that the ship was the last seen from which she sailed—seemed plausible in the face of the facts.

Enemy Seizure Doubtful.
While it was true that one engine was out of commission, enough power remained to drive the big ship 10 knots an hour. Enemy agents may have gained control in a midnight mutiny, but even in such a well-guarded vessel, an event lack of coal would have prevented an attempt to start on a trans-Atlantic voyage.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The American steamship which was burned off the coast of Nova Scotia on Saturday night was identified here today as the City of Wilmington, formerly the Barber Line's freighter Camino. She was a vessel of 3200 tons gross, and was on a voyage from a seaport port for France with a cargo of cotton and flour.

All Crew Taken Off.
The City of Wilmington's agent is Alexander Sprunt, of New York, who said his advice gave no details regarding the vessel's fate beyond those contained in a news dispatch received last night from Sydney, N. S. The dispatch said the crew was transferred to a United States warship which had gone to her assistance.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The steamer James H. Bruce, bound from Eureka, Cal., for Newcastle, Australia, has been wrecked and its crew is proceeding to a Pacific port on the barkentine E. R. Sterling, according to a message received here today from the Sterling's master.

The Bruce had a cargo of lumber and a crew of between 15 and 20 men. No details of the wreck were given.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 15.—The former Army transport Meade, which anchored off the New England Coast because of the storm last week, is right and sound notwithstanding her buffeting.

She has been brought in here and will be entirely refitted for use as a training ship for the Shipping Board's recruiting service.

BROTHER IS ABOARD CYCLOPS

Charles Filz, Carpenter's Mate, Well Known In Hood River.

HOOD RIVER, Or., April 15.—(Special.)—Charles Filz, listed as carpenter's mate aboard the collier Cyclops, is well known here.

Completing a term in the Navy at Manila in 1914, Mr. Filz, who had won the title of "warrior" for his valor in the Orient, came here for a visit with his brother, W. J. Filz, a meat packer. He remained here until last summer, when he returned to the Navy for a visit with his parents before re-enlisting.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This dissolves it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and these are four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

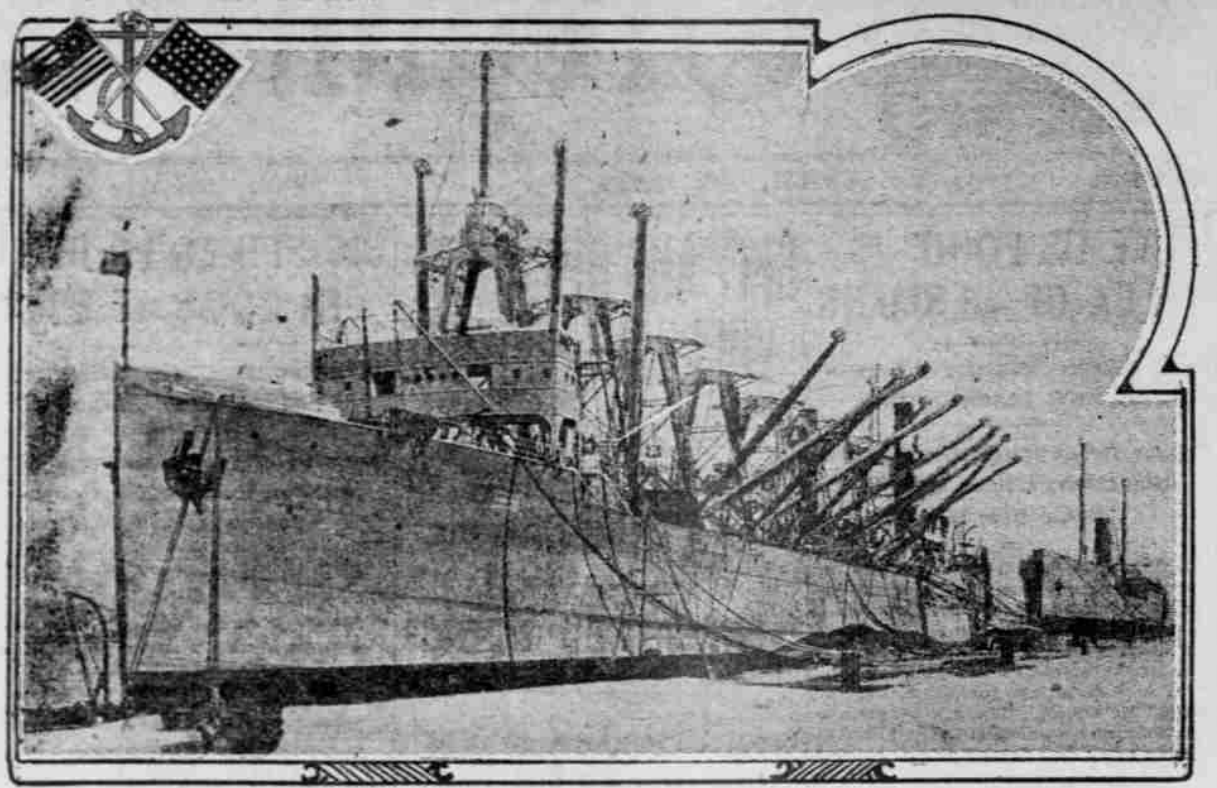

You will find, too, that itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

U.S. TO HOLD WOMEN

Alien Enemies in Skirts Will Soon Be Interned.

SOME ALREADY IN FLIGHT

Action to Follow Signing of Bill by Wilson—Wives of Many Germans and Austrians Now Under Surveillance.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Many German and Austrian women are under surveillance by Government agents and will be arrested and interned as soon as President Wilson signs the bill which includes women in the class of enemy aliens. It was said today the number is more than a hundred.

In anticipation of this action by the Government, some of the most dangerous German and Austrian women have left the country recently, officials said today.

Enough remain, however, to make it advisable, officials believe, to prevent them from running at large within the United States and gathering information on war activities. The women under surveillance, it was said today, include the wives of prominent German and Austrian business men, particularly in and about New York.

Arrangements probably will be made to intern some of the women in camps with their husbands and limited house-keeping arrangements may be provided. Unmarried women may be cared for in special camps.

Property in possession of the women interned will be taken over by the alien property custodian. Many Germans who have been interned turned their holdings over to women, it was said today.

German women may be required to register with Chiefs of Police and Postmasters, and the same regulations covering the registration of German males, although this question depends upon President Wilson's decision. Many Department of Justice officials advocate a limited registration of the women.

Whether German women are to be excluded from certain prohibited zones and German males have also to be decided by the President.

Future Holds Problems.
Mr. Gary said the corporation was studying the war situation carefully, "not only as patriotic citizens, but in order to look ahead, and to prepare for any eventuality. We do not know what kind of conscription we shall run into after the war," he added, "but we can protect ourselves as well as anyone else."

NEW YORK, April 15.—Publication of the statement by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, at the stockholders' meeting in Hoboken, led to a big turnover in the corporation's common shares in the stock market here this afternoon.

Common Stock Advances.
The common stock recorded a gain of 1 1/2 to 3 1/2.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Shipping Board today submitted to Congress a bill for a concrete ship construction.

A total authorization of $20,000,000 is requested, of which the $15,000,000 would be made immediately available.

GRIT AND OPTIMISM AID

enthusiasm was tremendous and sincere. Applause constantly attended to the telling points driven home by the speaker. Captain Champion and Sergeant Mirat have been loaned by the French government to the United States to serve as instructors and are stationed at Camp Lewis.

Grit and Optimism Count.
Captain MacQuarrie was the first speaker. His talk was highly illumined by humorous flashes, by a sparkling, ready wit and the charm of personality, and had for its foundation that grit and optimism that will count immeasurably in winning the war.

He spoke of the indomitable faith and optimism of the French and British and paid a big compliment to our American gift of smiling while we fight.

"Drive for the British boys, give them your sympathy for the losses they have suffered," said Captain MacQuarrie, "but bear in mind that the Kaiser will be beaten. It is not written in the Book of the Hereafter that Great Britain, France and America united can lose a war."

"America is the unconquered nation and will remain so to the end. The Germans in this last drive against the British have lost tens of thousands of

FINN CAPITAL FALLS

Americans a Force Irresistible.

"When Americans are ready to take the field in force against the Huns they will find those Huns weak and weary, weak from fasting and weary from long fighting and from that deferred hope that makes the heart sick. Americans will go to the conflict strong and well trained, a force irresistible."

Captain J. C. Champion, of the French army, further emphasized the fighting qualities of our American boys. "When I came to Camp Lewis five months ago there were no soldiers, only willing, eager, patriotic boys, ready to learn, ready to give their all. Now I tell you in truth, and I have been in many camps in your United States, that there is no other camp as excellent as Camp Lewis, and it is your Oregon boys who go to help us win this war."

Champion constantly interrupted. Captain Champion as he told of the wonderful work the boys are doing in the camp. He paid his tribute to the women of his France.

Women Have Saved France.
"It is the women who have saved France," he said. He told of the active physical work the women do in his country and said that while our American women cannot many of them go to Europe, they can be patriots at home and help supply the needs of the boys over there. He made a strong and urgent plea on behalf of the liberty loan, for a rigid personal sacrifice for each of us.

Captain Champion was followed by Sergeant Mirat, who told of his personal experiences in the French army. "Every soldier of the Kaiser is a Kaiser," he said, and raised a storm of applause. If we kill the Kaiser, his Crown Prince steps into power; when we kill the Crown Prince another takes his place, and so on down the terrible line. Therefore, it is up to us to kill every prospective Kaiser. If we do not kill them they will kill us. It is not justice they seek, it is power."

Soldier Speakers Thanked.
Following the addresses by the three officers, Edgar H. Piper, who had presided as chairman and introduced the speakers, gave a forceful, energetic and original presentation of each of the remaining soldiers to the audience. Each soldier stood up and received an ovation as his name was called and told a bit about his personal achievements.

Mr. Piper thanked the men for their splendid service in the campaign and said the American people in Oregon realized the sacrifice the soldiers had made and paid tribute to the help these men have given as an incentive in spreading patriotism.

The first soldier introduced was Sergeant Christy, a soldier of Canada and the British Empire. Gold helped the German who gets in front of him," said Mr. Piper, as the strapping soldier bowed his acknowledgments to applause.

The next was Sergeant O'Rourke, who has won for himself three medals for glorious and valorous service, one the military, one the service and one the Victoria Cross.

A thrilling recital of Sergeant O'Rourke's valorous deeds, one in capturing single-handed 20 Germans and taking them into camp, and again when he dropped a hand grenade on 20 Germans in a hiding place and killed them all, and other daring exploits were told. The audience whooped and yelled and applauded the modest, big soldier.

Next was introduced Private Thompson, who is in, who has won with a stomach halved by a German shell.

"We, Too, Had an Adair."
Then came Corporal Adair. "We, too, had an Adair," said Mr. Piper, "and the feeling of the speaker of that other Adair, son of Oregon, who made the supreme sacrifice in Mexico."

Sergeant Goodrich came next and made a splendidly patriotic speech, toasting the cause in water. "I'm glad our governments have decided to abolish liquor until the fight is done," he said. "We soldiers have our rasher of rum; sometimes it is good and maybe we need it, but a cool head and a clear vision will carry us to a triumphant victory. Whisky and rum never will."

Colonel Jordan was introduced as "our very own." He comes of fighting stock, his father was a soldier and he is a cousin of the lamented Adair. Private Smith, a journalist and a Canadian soldier in the camouflage of a Scotchman, was the unique introduction of the next man. Then came Private Burke, whose story, as told by Mr. Piper, led the audience by turns into applause for the soldier's bravery, pity for the horrors he has undergone at the hands of the Hun, and honor at his record of sufferings spent in eight German prisons, and finally his escape by way of Holland.

This story, graphically told, was one of the most interesting events the meeting offered. It was followed by the entire audience rising while the "Marseilles" and "God Save the King" were played.

TOKIO, Wednesday, April 10.—Several instances of Russian sniping against Japanese patrols in Vladivostok are reported in a dispatch from that city to The Asahi. One Russian was injured.

The message also reports that the local council of soldiers and workmen has telegraphed to headquarters urging the dispatch of armed German and Austrian prisoners to Vladivostok as a reinforcement.

A PACIFIC PORT, April 15.—Viscount K. Ishii, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, has arrived here en route to Washington. Discussing suggested Japanese intervention in Siberia, Ambassador Ishii said that if the Imperial Japanese government deemed it wise or necessary to undertake the sending of a military expedition, such action would be for the benefit of the entire allies and not for Japan. He declared any suggestion of a Japanese-German alliance to be absurd.

"Germany may establish bases on the Pacific waters by a successful drive through Siberia," said Ambassador Ishii. "In this event it would be up to Japan to sweep them away."

He would not discuss the recent landing of Japanese troops at Vladivostok.

LONDON, April 15.—Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Rapprochement, answering a question in the House of Commons today, said:

"No assurance has been given that the British and Japanese troops will be withdrawn from Vladivostok as soon as order is restored, but it is hoped that the incident will soon be closed."

tions have been coming in from women in all sections of Oregon.

"There is no question that enough women will respond, if it should be decided to use them," he said today. "There won't be enough lookout posts to go around. Letters from women have been piling up on my desk until the stenographer will have to work overtime to answer them."
