Captain Cullison Reports on Class A-1 Registrants.

20,000 MEN NOW IN ARMS

Oregon Has 19,457 in First Draft Class-1514 Men Delinquent in State-Next Call May Take Approximately 1850.

Oregon has 9988 selected fighting men ready to answer calls to the colors. This is the total of Class I registrants remaining available for immediate active duty, according to compilations postoffice building, Portland, Or.

completed yesterday in the office of Captain J. E. Cullison, head of the selective service system in Oregon.

The figure given out was obtained from reports turned in by all draft boards of the state in response to a hurry call made by Provost Marshal-General Crowder last week. It was obtained by deducting from the tentative roll of Class I eligibles, which aggregated 19,457 men, those who have asgregated 19,457 meb, those who have already been inducted, and the many others not subject to immediate call.

Oregon's Fighters Number 20,000. An interesting associated summary shows that Oregon has already sent under arms 18,541 of her sons. In giving out this total Captain Cullison calls attention to omissions which should bring the aggregate of Oregon's calls attention to omissions which should bring the aggregate of Oregon's fighters now serving their country to 20,000. Officers commissioned from training camps, medical officers called out and forestry and engineer enlistments were not embraced in the 18,041 men handled more directly through state channels.

Explanation needed to account for the fact that, while the total of ablebodied Class 1 men in the selective service is 19,457, but 3935 are now in the A-1 division and subject to call is made in detail in Captain Cullison's report to General Crowder.

Eligibles under deferred classifications temporarily because on the Emergency Fiest Corporation list number 1760 whites and five blacks. Men who will be available for limited service number 1810, of whom three are colored. In group B, including those who may be put in trim for fighting by means of minor operations or medical attention, are 309. from the grand total is that of 2389 young men already inducted or called for induction since December 15, 1917. Selective service officials are expectantly awaiting the next draft call, which it is believed will be the largest yet made. Thus far the three special calls have summoned, respectively, 5 per cent, 12½ per cent and 3.4 per cent as many men as Oregon had listed in the first draft, or 7374. From intimations that have come from Washington tions that have come from Washington no one would be greatly surprised were the impending call to summen 25 per cent of that number. Under a 25 per cent call Oregon would induct nearly 1850 men.
