American Yards Expected to Turn Out 10,000,000 Tonnage in Current Year.

BOARD'S BUDGET IS DUE

Rainbridge Colby and A. E. Filene at New York Meeting Point Out
Necessity of Speeding Up
Vessel Building.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—An enormous appropriation for merchant ship construction will be asked of the House Appropriations committee tomorrow by Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board, in presenting estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Until Congress is informed of the board's plans Mr. Hurley declined to indicate their extent or the exact amount involved.

With all shipyards in operation, it is estimated that more than 10,000,000 tons of shipping can be produced during the year. On this basis Mr. Hurley's budget for the new year probably will run close to $2,500,000,000, allowing for new construction yards to be built and concrete construction not contemplated in the original plans of the board.

Extensions now being made in steel plants will allow an increase in the shipbuilding program, of which it is expected full advantage will be taken consistent with the needs of other Government departments.

Steel Delays Disturbing.
Delays in steel deliveries, due in large part to transportation, are still causing officials concern. Only 50,000 tons of steel plates and shapes were delivered last week, well below requirements, and only a fraction of what will be needed as work progresses. A new yard, the Baltimore Drydock & Shipbuilding Company, today appealed for steel.

Director-General Schwab, of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, is endeavoring to arrange supplies so that a yard will have steel available for three or four months when a keel is laid. He believes that abundance of material will act as an incentive to speedy production.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The hour has come to subordinate every activity, every project, every aim to the supreme duty of keeping the ocean highways open to our troops and our war commerce, declared Rainbridge Colby, a member of the United States Shipping Board, in addressing a luncheon here today. Chairman of the war shipping committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, members of the Merchants' Association and shipbuilders of New York.

Much Depends on Labor.
Speed of ship construction within the next six months, "probably the most critical of the war," will depend upon labor more than any other factor, asserted Mr. Filene.

"Most of our shipyards are today admitting that the present output is 10 per cent efficiency—running with one shift," he said.

WESTERN MEN TO UNITE

OREGON-WASHINGTON TROOPS TO GO TO FRONT TOGETHER.

Colonel W. M. Ingalls Writes of Experiences in Front-Line Trenches
When Big Drive Begins.

When the boys of Oregon and Washington are sent up to the first-line trenches to take their stand against the Hun they will go side by side, says Colonel W. M. Ingalls, of the 161st Infantry, American expeditionary force in France, who writes to Fred W. Piper, a Portland friend. Members of the Second Washington, now the 161st Infantry, and the Third Oregon, now the 162d Infantry, are in the same brigade and the same division, and on April 9, when Colonel Ingalls wrote, they were not together.

Colonel Ingalls, who for ten years was in command of the Washington National Guard, was gassed recently and suffered some irritation of the lungs from inhaling the fumes, but he has now entirely recovered.

His letter, which is being sent to the headquarters of the 161st Infantry, American expeditionary force in France, follows:

Your welcome letter reached me a few days ago, just after my return from a special school of instruction in up-to-date methods of modern warfare, finishing up with about ten days on the front line trenches of the French army. I can assure you that the experience was most novel and exciting, as I was there at the beginning of the present big attack.

"At present I am located as commanding officer in one of the newest and largest French military posts and will probably be here until my regiment, which is now somewhat scattered, is assembled. Further than that I am not permitted to give you definite information, as you probably are well aware."

JITNEY PROBLEM UP

Civic Clubs' Committee Discusses Proposed Laws.

BOND QUESTIONS AT ISSUE

R. A. Leiter Asserts Regulation Necessary if Buses Are to Operate—Mr. Lenon Attacks Proposed Measure.

Arguments for or against the jitney regulation and the "restore-the-jitney" measures were made before the joint legislative committee representing the civic clubs of the city at a meeting at the Courthouse last night. The speakers were R. A. Leiter, for the Portland Railway Light & Power Company, and Charles E. Lenon, who appeared for the friends of the proposed ordinance to revive a jitney service. Other proposed municipal measures to be voted upon by the people in the election next week will be considered by the committee at another meeting tonight.

Speaking in support of the measure for regulating jitneys, Mr. Leiter explained that it was substantially a re-enactment of the existing ordinance with a few additions that were included to make impossible any evasion of its provisions by jitney operators and at the same time afford the public adequate protection. He said the only amendment to the present ordinance was that defining motor buses, or jitneys; providing that the routes to be traversed by a jitney should have a minimum length of at least 2 1/2 miles on the West Side and a minimum length of 4 miles on the East Side, forbidding the operation of any jitney on any street for a distance of more than one-fourth its length on any street already occupied by a street railway line and requiring the exchange of transfers between jitneys operating over different routes.

Proper Regulation Advocated.
"If jitneys are to be permitted to operate in this city," contended Mr. Leiter, "they should be operated only under proper regulations that will insure the public reasonable protection. This jitney problem concerns not only those who patronize the jitney. The pedestrian and the general public are even more interested and their rights and safety are entitled to consideration."

This measure was vigorously attacked by Mr. Lenon, who charged that it was proposed by the street railway company and, if enacted, instead of regulating jitneys, would make it impossible to operate them at all. He charged that the restrictions imposed were too severe and designed to prevent any possible competition with the street railway.

Little Talks on Classified Advertising.

When you lose an article the most sensible thing to do is to make your loss known immediately. The Oregonian has a simple, practical method to insert a classified advertisement in The Oregonian.

Most lost articles, and especially those lost in the downtown district, are found by someone. The Oregonian is honored and the finder of a lost article is usually as anxious to restore it to the rightful owner as the owner is to recover the property.

As an instance: One day last week a lady lost a valuable bar pin, set with diamonds, on a street. She promptly had it inserted in a classified advertisement in The Oregonian announcing the loss of the pin, and within a few days it was returned to her by a gentleman living in Cloverdale, Or., who had found the pin while in Portland, and who had been watching the "Lost" column in The Oregonian for the owner's advertisement.

Oregonian classified ads are read by nearly everyone in Portland and the surrounding territory, and The Oregonian is the recognized classified medium in this field.

service now furnished by the railway company, which, he charged, in many instances was not adequate to meet the needs of the public.

Mr. Lenon championed the measure for restoring the jitneys as the only practical plan for giving the railway company actual competition in the way of service. He complained that it was impossible under the present ordinance, which required jitney operators to furnish a surety bond in the sum of $2500, to obtain such a bond. He assigned this condition as the only reason jitneys are not operating in Portland today. The proposed measure reduces the amount of this bond to $1000 and provides that the surety may be furnished by either a surety company or by private individuals who are able to qualify in the required amount.

Bonds Treated Inadequate.
In opposing this measure, Mr. Leiter pointed out the inadequacy of the bond in view of the contingent liability of $7500 damages in case of death resulting from an accident due to the carelessness of a jitney driver, as well as on account of the unlimited amount of damages that might be recovered in the courts on account of personal injury.

In support of his charge that inability to obtain surety bonds was not the real reason jitneys were not being operated in this city, Mr. Leiter said jitneys were being operated in the state of Washington, where the operators are furnishing a surety bond of $2500 each. In California, he said, jitney drivers were furnishing bonds through surety companies ranging from $2500 to $5000. He offered as a further object of the proposed measure the fact that it made no provision by which the bond furnished with personal surety should be approved by some competent authority.

LOYAL LEGION ANNUAL BANQUET DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR.

Colonel Leader Says Streets of Berlin Will Soon Day Resound With the Stamp of Yankee Soldiers.

Last night, on the anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, the members of the Loyal Legion, Oregon Commandery, met at their annual banquet in the Portland Hotel.

The address of the evening was given by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist Church. He emphasized the fact that this war is not a soldier's war, or a financier's war, or even a government's war. It is a war of all the people of the United States, and he hailed the selective draft as an advance in democracy over the old system of conscription.

Colonel Leader, of the Royal Irish Rifles, told the men that America would be the determining factor in the war and that the streets of Berlin would one day resound with the tramp of American soldiers.

Charles J. Schnabel, Gus C. Moser, president of the state senate; Judge G. Burton, former national grand commander of the G. A. R., and others, addressed the meeting. A telegram of regret was sent to the late William C. E. Cline, retiring commander, Rev. C. E. Cline, retiring commander, presided.

The following officers were elected: Commander, John S. Bradley; senior vice-commander, Wallace McCamant; junior vice-commander, R. T. Chamberlain; recorder, J. E. Hall; registrar, Edwin A. Robison; treasurer, Ralph A. Coan; chancellor, John D. Ripley; chaplain, John E. Davis.

GRANGE CONDEMNS STRIKE

Clackamas Farmers Act on Appeal of Paper Mill Workers.

OREGON CITY, Or., May 7.—(Special.)—That Clackamas County's hard-working farmers haven't much time for the paper mill strike agitation in Oregon City is indicated by the action of Logan Grange, taken May 4, in answer to the paper strikers' appeal for grange co-operation. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, The Papermakers' Union has sent a communication to our grange asking co-operation in their strike; and whereas, Our Nation being at war, needs the united efforts of all our citizens; therefore, be it Resolved, By Harding Grange in regular session assembled, this 4th day of May, 1918, that we, as loyal Americans, are opposed and condemn the action of any order or organization that causes strikes or creates dissension detrimental to our Government."

U. S. WRATH VOICED

Roosevelt and Owen Speak at Lusitania Meeting.

TEUTON PERIL DENOUNCED

Anzac Veteran Many Times Wounded Pleads for Preparedness at New York.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Prussian frightfulness was denounced and the determination of America to wipe it out was emphasized at a Lusitania memorial mass meeting at Carnegie Hall tonight under the auspices of the American Defense Society and the American Rights League. The speakers were Theodore Roosevelt and Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma. Charles S. Fairchild, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, presided.

Ostracism from the markets of the civilized world until they are ready to accede to the principles of international law and enter the family of nations as law-abiding members, was urged by Senator Owen as the penalty the world should inflict upon the German, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish peoples.

Thomas Skellyhill, an Anzac who has been wounded many times and whose sight only recently was partly restored, said that the Lusitania disaster was due primarily to lack of preparedness.

Crisis of War Near.
"This is not only a soldiers' war," he said, "it is also a civilians' war. I say to you people of America, arise, arise, the foe is at the gate. The crisis of this war is approaching. Men, money, munitions are urgently wanted. Do for God's sake prepare, prepare, prepare, because America prepared is Germany defeated."

Colonel Roosevelt was greeted with applause which was not stifled until the National anthem had been sung by the great audience.

"Three years ago today," he said, "the Lusitania was sunk. I wish that every flag in this city had stood at half-mast today, for this should be a national day of mourning for America. When the Lusitania was sunk we still failed to prepare, and the fact that we thus failed, the fact that we failed to act, showed that our unpreparedness was as profound in the soul as in the body. We suffered from spiritual no less than from physical unpreparedness. Thank, and humbly thank, our God that at last our people have waked. It was the eleventh hour, but it was not the twelfth."

Many Men Needed.
"Our business is to do the fighting, and do it now. We have gone into the war, but do not forget we have only gone in about one-half of 1 per cent as yet."

"No American has the right to feel satisfied until we have in France so many million fighting men that the strain will have been taken off the French and the English armies and transferred to us, for we deserve to bear it. I hope to see immediately provision made for an army of 5,000,000 men, and at the same time tell the War Department that if they need them another 5,000,000 men can be had, too."

Tailoring Is Too Slow.

M. McMurray, a tailor of 209 Alder street, not satisfied with the mere playing of a need as a means of livelihood, according to the police, turned method to the more exhilarating pastime of distributing whiskeys. His career was a short one and last night at 10 o'clock Officers Webster, Thomas and Schmidt brought Mr. McMurray to the station, where he was being lodged against him. He will appear before Judge Rosman for a hearing today.

MANY PROMINENT MEN COME OUT FOR TANLAC

FORMER MAYOR OF BIRMINGHAM RECOMMENDS IT

Says He Now Weighs More Than He Ever Did in His Life Since Taking Tanlac.

One of the latest additions to the large and rapidly growing list of prominent men who have publicly endorsed Tanlac for the good it has done them is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, former Mayor of Birmingham. Mr. Evans is one of the best-known men in public life in Alabama today, being at one time editor of one of the South's greatest newspapers, the Birmingham Age-Herald. He was also examiner of public accounts in Alabama. In telling of the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, Mr. Evans said:

"For years I suffered with gastritis and indigestion in the worst form. I was habitually constipated and had pains in my shoulders and headache continually. My appetite left me almost entirely and everything I would eat hurt me. Finally I got to having awful attacks of acute indigestion, palpitation of the heart and smothering spells. For a long time I would have one or more of these spells every night and I would wake out of my restless sleep gasping for breath."

"I bought a bottle of Tanlac, and to my surprise and gratification I began to feel relief after the first few doses. I kept taking the medicine and now weigh more than ever before, and my recovery is simply the talk of Birmingham."

REV. A. H. SYKES MUCH GRATIFIED

Tells of Remarkable Change in His Wife's Condition; Gives Tanlac Credit.

The Rev. A. H. Sykes, pastor of the Watkins Park Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., prominent not only as a minister of the gospel, but popular as a man and citizen who has been true to his friends and every trust ever reposed in him, said recently:

"For the past ten months Mrs. Sykes has been in very delicate health, suffering from bad stomach and kidney troubles, which gradually developed into a general nervous breakdown. At times her condition became alarming, and I frequently sought medical advice, but nothing we could do for her seemed to bring relief."

"In fact, she suffered so long and so much that I felt it my duty to let everyone know what this medicine has done for her. For several months her condition was such that she had to remain in bed, and as a last resort I decided to let her try Tanlac."

"I am a conservative man and have always been skeptical regarding the use of proprietary medicines, but this case has certainly proven an exception. I am now firmly convinced that Tanlac is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything to give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had taken only two-thirds of a bottle of this medicine when we began to notice a marked improvement in her condition. In less than a week from the time she began taking it she was able to sit up and is today able to help with the household duties. Before she began taking Tanlac she had fearful pains in her side and suffered constantly from her stomach and indigestion and was intensely nervous. These distressing symptoms, I am thankful to say, have entirely disappeared, her appetite has returned and she seems to relish everything she eats. She sleeps better and is gaining strength and flesh rapidly. I think it only a question of a short time until her health is fully restored."

"Tanlac has certainly proven a remarkable remedy in her case and will do all you claim for it. I cheerfully recommend it to my friends."

PRESIDENT OF PROTESTANT HOME FOR GIRLS TALKS

Dr. W. H. Brown, 4322 Charlotte avenue, Nashville, Tenn., founder and president of the Tennessee Protestant Home for Girls, and a man whose charitable work has won for him the friendship and admiration of thousands, said:

"My friends have all noticed the great improvement in me since I took Tanlac, and I am boosting it every chance I get. From my own personal experience with the medicine and from what I have observed where others have been using it, I am convinced that it is the best medicine of the kind in the world. Mayors, Judges, State and County Officials, All Indorse Tanlac.

It is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially men holding high public office, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. Many prominent men, however, including Supreme Court Judges, Mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, Government officials and even ministers of the gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what Tanlac has done for them.

These well-known men of affairs have recognized in this medicine a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world. It is a well-known fact that these splendid indorsements have been given Tanlac time and time again, and they will continue to be given just as often as new tests of its powers are made, and it also explains why numbers of the big drug firms of the country are ordering it exclusively in carload lots.

Appearing below are a few indorsements from the large number that are continually being given to the public:

HIGH SHERIFFS ARE NOW CONVINCED

From four of the best-known Sheriffs of the South, in widely separated states, have come enthusiastic indorsements as to the merits of Tanlac.

"Tanlac has certainly helped me and I recommend it for the good it has done in my case," said Hon. W. Mangum, ex-Sheriff of Fulton County, Georgia, who resides in Atlanta, and who has been one of the most popular officials in the state, having served three terms as Sheriff.

"Tanlac seemed to be just what I needed to put my system in shape, and it has toned me right up. Naturally I would recommend it to my friends, and I know of fifteen or twenty families that are taking it now on my say-so."

Arkansas Official Testifies.
Hon. Charles L. Lewis, ex-Sheriff of Crittenden County, a merchant and a large plantation owner of Marietta, Ark., said: "I am convinced from the benefits that my wife and myself and many of our friends have received from Tanlac, that it is without an equal."

Ex-Sheriff Anderson's Statement.
"Money couldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I gladly recommend it to others for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie E. Anderson, ex-Sheriff of Harris County, Texas, who was re-elected to his high office seven times and served the people of his county for fifteen years as Sheriff. Mr. Anderson was Chief of Police of the city of Houston, where he resides, for several years, and there is not a better-known man in Harris County.

Texas Sheriff's Indorsement.
"I needed a general all-round building up for the last seven months, and Tanlac has done that very thing for me," said Hon. S. A. Kelly, who resides at Odessa, Texas, and who is one of the most popular officials in that section of the state.

"I have taken only two bottles, but I feel like a different man already. My appetite is fine and what I eat gives me nourishment and strength. The rheumatism is much better. I feel like a new man, and I am relieved of the headaches and feel more active and energetic than I have in months."

PRESIDENT COTTON OIL MILL PRAISES TANLAC

Mr. C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Company of Lawrenceville, Ga., and one of the big business men of Atlanta, said:

"I suffered for seven or eight years. . . . Not until I began taking Tanlac have I been able to notice a marked improvement in my condition. I am greatly improved, and Tanlac is unquestionably the best thing of the kind I ever tried."

Among the prominent business men and business men who have indorsed Tanlac are John F. Carroll, cotton mill superintendent and leading citizen of Chattanooga and Atlanta; N. M. Yancey, manager of contract department, Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph Company.

PASTOR OF WESLEY MEMORIAL SPEAKS

The Rev. W. C. Norton, pastor of the Wesley Memorial Church, 523 Estell street, Jacksonville, Fla., which large church he has held for many years, is not only a leader in his church, but is exceedingly popular and widely recognized as a leading citizen and a man of thought and action. The Rev. Mr. Norton said:

"I suffered from chronic indigestion for eight or ten years. . . . The benefits I derived from this medicine are nothing short of wonderful, for I really feel as well now as I ever felt in my life. In short, Tanlac has simply restored my health and I feel it my duty to recommend it."

Among many other well-known indorsements of the gospel who have indorsed Tanlac are the Rev. W. T. Roby, pastor of the West Longdale Methodist Church, 809 Leroy street, Knoxville, Tenn.; the Rev. John M. Simms, Baptist minister, and the Rev. A. L. Tull, Methodist, both of Atlanta; the Rev. J. W. West, pastor of Oak Ridge Methodist Church, Oak Ridge, Miss.; the Rev. A. J. Vallery, Memphis, Tenn., and many others.

BIG BANKERS OF THE SOUTH NOW INDORSE TANLAC

Officials of Well-Known Financial Institutions Tell Their Experience.

Two of the best-known bankers in the Southern states recently on the same day in personal letters told of their remarkable experience with the use of Tanlac. Their letters follow exactly as written.

The first letter quoted comes through Eli W. Goode, druggist and local agent for Tanlac at Hawkinsville, Ga., containing the statement of E. J. Henry, president of the Hawkinsville Bank and Trust Company, which is one of the best-known financial institutions in that part of the state. His letter follows, just as it was written:

"Hawkinsville, Ga., March 5, 1917.
"Mr. G. F. Willis, Atlanta, Georgia:
"Dear Sir: Mr. E. J. Henry, president of the Hawkinsville Bank and Trust Company, came into my store a few days ago and said: 'Eli, sell me another bottle of Tanlac.'

"I said: 'Mr. Henry, what do you really think of Tanlac?' His reply was so commendable to the virtues of the medicine that I asked him if he would give me a signed statement about it. He said: 'Yes, of course I will,' and this is his statement:

"Last Spring I was all wrong some way or other and couldn't get right. I came to you and bought a bottle of Tanlac and began to improve. Two more bottles put me all right, and I felt perfectly well. A few weeks ago I had the grippe and was beginning to get down and out again, and about a week ago I bought another bottle and have taken it and am perfectly well again. 'I understand you recommend Tanlac to anyone who is sick and worn out, as I believe that if anybody will take Tanlac when they first begin to feel badly it will prevent and keep off sickness. It certainly is a great remedy.'

(Signed) "E. J. HENRY, President, "Hawkinsville Bank and Trust Co."

The other letter referred to comes from the cashier of the Hornbeck branch of the West Louisiana Bank at Hornbeck, La., and is as follows:

"Hornbeck, La., March 5, 1917.
"Mr. G. F. Willis, Atlanta, Ga.
"Dear Sir: I wish to say that I have taken five (5) bottles of Tanlac and have gained fifteen (15) pounds in three weeks. I think it is a great medicine."

(Signed) "W. C. McELVEEN, Cashier, "Bank of Hornbeck, Hornbeck, La."

DR. J. T. EDWARDS PRESCRIBES IT

Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known physicians of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the country.

"In my thirty years of active practice as a licensed physician in the state of Georgia, I have made a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the country."

"Tanlac is simply the talk of my town. I have no hesitancy in recommending the medicine, and as a matter of fact I am prescribing it for my patients almost every day."

"Only a few days ago a well-known woman of my acquaintance came to me and told me about the remarkable relief her daughter had gained from the use of this medicine. She said her daughter had been confined to her bed for three years with what had been pronounced pellagra, and that after using Tanlac for a short time she was able to be about and was on the road to recovery."

"But this is only one instance. People in all walks of life in and around our little city are giving similar indorsements to the medicine. Seldom a day passes that someone does not come to me and say something about the good results they are getting from the use of Tanlac."

KENTUCKY NOTABLES ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Hon. Moses R. Glenn, of Frankfort, Ky., State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a man of wide experience and one who has been true to his friends and to every public trust, said on his last visit to Louisville:

"I am a conservative man and have had very little faith in medicine of any kind, but I feel it my duty to my fellow men to state publicly what your medicine has done for me. . . . The catarrhal condition of my nose, head and throat was simply distressing, and I had almost decided to go to a warm climate, preferably Florida, when I decided to try Tanlac. . . . I am now a well man, and I promise to tell others of the good this medicine has done me."

Among the Kentuckians in public life who have given their unqualified approval of Tanlac for its specific aid to them are:

Hon. McKennie Moss, Judge of the Eighth Judicial District; Hon. Moses R. Glenn, State Superintendent of Printing; John B. Gaines, editor and publisher of the Bowling Green Daily News; George W. Hinton, former secretary of the Warren County Equity League; President Pegg, of the Newport Business College, and others.
