Dving Wish of Late William Farrell Related.

WILL CASE NEARING END

Following Arguments by Opposing Counsel, Litigation Will Be Submitted to Judge Tazwell for His Decision.

That it was the dying wish of the late William Farrell that she should take care of Mrs. Ann Eliza Farrell until the time of her death, was the assertion of Mrs. John B. Yeon, who appeared as the final witness in her behalf in the County Court yester day in defending the estate against the attack of Lydia Lott, Harriet Pad- First on Sallet Is One Initiated by Em-the attack of Lydia Lott, Harriet Paddock and Albert Sunderland, surviving sisters and brother of Mys. Farrell, who are seeking to break the will.

"If was Mr. Farrell's last wish that I look after his wife," testified Mrs. Yeon. "I did so constantly up until the time of my marriage to Mr. Yeon in 1307. During the later years I have had my four children to care for, and naturally I could not be with Mrs. Farrell as frequently as before. But until the time of ner death I cared for her business interests and took her in my machine every place she wanted to go."

Jury Recommendation to Lenlency Not Considered by Judge Rossman in Passing Sentence.

Ivan de Marcel, self-styled Russian the Seward. ballet dancing maitre, who was found guilty by a jury in Municipal Court the Portland. Tuesday of using false and deceptive H. O. Burn

The bail money, posted at the time of de Marcel's arrest, was sufficient to cover the fine, and the so-called ballet instructor was permitted to go. A few of his pupils were present in court when the fine was imposed.

man said:

I think this way about the jury's recommendation: They have recommended leniency under the idea that this flamboyant practice is common to the theatrical prefession. There is a city law and a state law sagainst this practice, and I do not think any practice ought to be allowed to overrule a law. So I do not think any practice ought to be allowed to overrule a law. So I do not think that this part of the recommendation of the jury ought to be binding. This case has attracted so much attention it will become a sort of a inflessione in the advertising business here is no doubt that this case will have its effect on all advertising.

However, the money that he pays to the clerk of this court will not be the only penalty he will pay, because the loss of business and loss of standing in the dancing prefession will be great. While you are only paying a fine of a few dollars to the clerk of the court, in the loss of patronage you will lose hundreds of dollars. Your immediate penalty will be a fine of $100.

tells of her part in saving a reservoir and in locating spies, but best of all in recruiting her slacker husband into service. There's keen good fun in the story and a touch of childhood interest that appeals. Gladys Hulette, a talented picture girl, plays the role of Susie in fine fettle.

In the vaudeville portion of the bill comedy interest settles liself around the angular figure of a red-haired comedy queen who is one of the "Four Seasons," a quartet of singing girls. There's Spring, Summer, Winter and Fall. The red-haired one might be Spring, for she's early with her fun and full of pep. She might be Summer, for she searly with her fun and full of pep. "Did you ever tell the nurse at the Patton Home to put morphine in Mrs. Farrell's tea, as has been testified bere?" she was asked by Arthur I Moulton on direct examination.

"I most certainly did not," was her immediate answer. "I never heard of such a thing."

Mrs. Teon further explained that she did not know she had been made the chief beneficiary of Mrs. Farrell's $40,-000 estate until after the will had been made out and executed.

"Mrs. Parrell told me that she had left me everything after she had come from the office of Attorney George P. Lent," she testified.
