EX-PORTLANDER RISING

F. W. SLADEN, WELL KNOWN HERE, NOW BRIGADIER-GENERAL. Former Oregonian Now is Counted One of Ablest Young Officers in Army Service.

Through the Army and Navy Journal it is learned that a former Portland resident has risen to high rank in the National Army. He is Brigadier-General F. W. Sladen, who spent his boyhood in this city, and who went from here to West Point, later being stationed for some time at Vancouver Barracks, with the rank of First Lieutenant.

General Sladen is the son of the late Major F. C. Sladen, retired, who for a number of years was clerk of the United States Circuit Court in this city. Major Sladen in early days was stationed at Vancouver Barracks, with the rank of Captain. He retired from service and was promoted to the grade of Major shortly before his death, which occurred ten years ago.

His son, General Sladen, was educated in the Portland schools, and the family resided in this city when he received his first commission as an instructor in drill. Throughout his career he has been marked by expert ability as one of the ablest young officers in the service. He is 45 years of age.

As Lieutenant-Colonel Sladen he was in command of the First Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Presidio, and won high commendation for the manner in which he conducted the camp.

FREE RIDES PLAN

Give Enlisted Man Lift, Mayor Asks Auto Owners.

WAR COUNCIL WILL ACT. Many Soldiers and Sailors Sending Money Home, Executive Says, and Little is Left for Paying Traveling Expenses.

"Give the soldier and sailor a lift." is the slogan in connection with a plan proposed by Mayor Baker, which, if adopted by the automobile owners of the city, will result in continuous transportation for every uniformed man visiting Portland.

Under this plan, automobile owners, upon seeing a soldier or sailor walking in the same direction as his car is traveling, would draw up to the curb, open the door, invite the man to "hop in" and carry him as far as the automobile owner had originally planned to go.

At this point another automobile owner would pick up the uniformed man and ultimately the latter would reach his destination without causing anyone any inconvenience.

Thousands of soldiers visit Portland during the course of a week, and many of these are sending money to their relatives, paying for liberty bonds and subscribing for patriotic funds.
