

EAST SIDE HOUSE YIELDS BIG STILL

War Emergency Officers Take Moonshine Plant and Arrest Serbian.

JOE MILLER HELD IN JAIL

Officers Believe They Have Found Source of "White Male." With a Grape Flavor, Long Sought in This Vicinity.

Time was when the mountains of Kentucky or Tennessee were famed for their hidden whisky stills. Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock a quiet suburban residence, at 1193 East Yamhill street in this city, yielded a distillery with a daily capacity of 25 gallons and the Southern hills must acknowledge as rival. Officers Elliot, Peters and Phillips, of the war emergency squad, were the discoverers and their results were the fruits of two weeks' effort. The three officers were assisted by Police-man Drapau.

Joe Miller, 13 years away from his native land, Serbia, was arrested as the alleged owner of the still. He denies the charge, however, although his "outfit" was at work when the officers arrived.

"I don't know a thing about it," said Miller. And he stayed with the same story despite the inquiries of Lieutenant Harvey Thatcher, Chief Agent Hill Bryon, Chief of Police Johnson and Captain Jenkins. Miller is now in the County Jail awaiting Federal investigation.

Telltale Grapes Found. Upstairs the officers found J. A. Hill, a former mill owner of Skamania, Washington, who had been in the city for some time. Hill's illness and flushed cheeks, labored breathing and a wasted body seem to mark him as not long for this life. Hill declared that he knew nothing of the operations carried on in the basement. He has lived in the house since October. The work of the police department was finished Hill was removed to a hospital in an ambulance. No charges have been preferred against him in connection with the alleged liquor violations conducted under his eyes.

In the course of yesterday's investigation the grapes were investigated the retort and even before the working operation of the still was well under way one quart of pure alcohol was drawn from the mass of grape mash, enough to render 10 men intoxicated. In one corner two hogsheads of grapes were fermenting, ready for use at the owner's will.

House Is Camouflaged. That the grape brandy which has been in circulation throughout the city for the past six months has been distilled at 1193 East Yamhill street is the belief of the police. For months members of the war emergency squad have been on the alert in their attempts to trace down the maker of the "white male" with a grape flavor. Yesterday's find is considered a solution to the problem.

The Miller and Hill residence stands back of well-kept lawn and is unobtrusive in its appearance. The casual observer would rate it as the home of a well-to-do business man. There was a noticeable absence of furniture, and with the exception of a few chairs and a table, the interior was scanty. The only articles in keeping with the outside are neat, lace curtains hanging from all the windows.

Arrest Held Important. Chief Agent Bryon, commenting upon yesterday's discovery, said: "Many more such hauls as this will tend to put a stop to those who think that they can violate the federal laws regulating the manufacture of whisky. It is more than pleasing to note the efficiency of the officers making the arrest."

Lieutenant Harvey Thatcher, head of the war emergency squad, had this to say: "We had been on the look out for a long time for the makers of the raisin brandy and it is my belief that we have found them."

Neighbors were surprised to learn that one of the largest bootlegging games in the state was in progress at their very door. Old bills from the gas company were found in a drawer and these statements called for amounts far in excess of that which the ordinary family used.

The still, after being photographed, was torn down and taken as evidence.

MR. ADAMS THANKS VOTERS

Candidate Proud of Support Received in Multnomah.

"I wish to thank the people of the state for the vote they gave me for State Treasurer and I deeply appreciate their support," said City Treasurer Adams yesterday. Mr. Adams by the early returns looked like a winner, but later returns overcame his lead and he finished third.

"I also desire to thank the many kind friends all over the state for their work in my behalf. Especially do I want to thank the people of Clatsop County, Multnomah, who showed by their large vote their confidence in me. I am indeed proud to receive such an endorsement."

Cheerless letters from home are said to be the cause of many desertions from the Army.

"I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I purchased some. I could tell they helped me the fourth time I used them, and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Miss Zales Stover, Mills, New Mexico.

AIRSHIP SHIFT MADE

Production Taken From Hands of Signal Corps.

PRESIDENT PROMPT TO ACT

First Executive Order Under Authority of Overman Act Turns Over Plane Production to Separate Organization.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Reorganization of the Army air service was completed today by President Wilson as his first act under the new law permitting him to readjust Government equipment and personnel of the Signal Corps and also that the functions of producing and operating aircraft of all kinds in the military service be separated.

The order formally creates a bureau of aircraft production, described as an executive agency which "shall exercise full, complete and exclusive jurisdiction and control over the production and equipment for the use of the Army" under a director of aircraft production who shall also be chairman of the aircraft board.

This gives full legal status and power to John D. Ryan, recently appointed director of aircraft production and chairman of the aircraft board, and the order transfers to him all funds, lands, buildings and personnel of the Signal Corps having to do with aircraft production.

Similarly the position now held by Major-General William L. Kenly is formally established and all funds, duties, equipment and personnel of the Signal Corps connected with the operation of aircraft and balloons and with the training of aviators are placed under his control.

The Signal Corps reverts to its old functions, having to do only with Army signaling and the transmission of military information. Major-General Squire, of the general office, remains in that post, but without connection with the air service except as an ex-officio member of the aircraft production board.

In connection with the reorganization Secretary Baker directed that Colonel R. L. Montgomery, E. A. Deady and S. D. Waldon, of the Signal Corps, be detached from all other duties and assigned to assist the Attorney-General in his advisory relating to the aircraft production board.

COOS PRIMARY STARTS ROW

Commissioner Credited With Defeating Henry Sengstacken.

MARSHFIELD, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—The defeat of Henry Sengstacken for Port Commissioner by Harry J. Kimball, Jr., started one of the most bitter fights in the annals of Coos County politics. County Commissioner Archie Philip is the point of attack and friends of Mr. Sengstacken are active in starting a recall against him.

A meeting held in Marshfield on Sunday the attendees could not agree as to whether or not Judge James Watson should be included in the recall and the news leaked out to friends on both sides. The reason of the attack on Commissioner Philip is that he is credited with Mr. Sengstacken's defeat.

Caring For The Soldier's Teeth

IMAGINE a soldier I aiming a great gun behind the trenches—piloting a swift aeroplane above the clouds with a badly aching and swelling tooth. Uncle Sam sees to it that his men take care of their teeth. He has a staff of dentists in each camp who care for the teeth of the defenders of our country. It is the man behind the gun who must be kept in trim, otherwise the gun becomes useless.

In a short time, in the Beer War, England had to send more than five thousand soldiers, sailors, doctors and dentists to the front. The dental health of the nation's healthiest fighting men is something they can always have. Dentists have proved that artificial teeth, at least do only one-tenth of the work required of natural teeth.

Many teeth, sound in outward appearance, are being undermined by decay. Often the pulp (nerve) becomes infected with bacteria, pus forms, which, taken into the blood, menaces your entire health.
