HALF-HOUR STAMP DRIVE IS PLANNED

War Savings Convention Favors Raising State's Quota of Securities Promptly.

$17,500,000 TO BE RAISED

Mass Meetings to Be Held in Every Schoolhouse in State June 28 for Purposes of Subscribing Quotas.

A small square of perforated green paper is pre-eminent in the public interest of Oregon today. It is the thrifty stamp, backed by the pledge of the United States and to further its wider circulation the Oregon War Savings Convention assembles this morning in Elks' Hall, Broadway and Stark streets, with several hundred delegates in attendance from all Oregon counties.

Today's sessions are the finale of the Oregon educational campaign, carried on for the war savings stamps and mark the beginning of an active campaign for the sale of the state's quota of $17,500,000 in the stamp securities.

School Meetings Planned. Delegates to the convention will discuss and ratify the plan to pledge Oregon's allotment in a half hour on June 28, when mass meetings will be held in every schoolhouse in the state and when individual quotas will be apportioned to each citizen.

The same plan is to be observed throughout America, by the initiative of the President and is an amplification of the original plan drafted by Oregon promoters of the war savings stamp sales. This plan was to conduct an educational campaign of six months, during which stamps would be sold to all applicants and to follow the informative drive by an active campaign for the completion of all quotas during the remaining six months of the year.

"Now we've got our goods out among the people," said C. N. Wagoner, associate state director, commenting yesterday on Oregon's tactics. "They understand that a mere two-bit piece puts on over the map of America and builds great seagoing ships, that it harvests our crops, drives our traffic, and manufactures munitions. In a word, all that has gone before has been a passive retail campaign. Now we propose to sell war savings stamps by wholesale and to clear up the state's quota in half an hour."

"This is a vital and tremendously important phase of Oregon's patriotic activities. If the plan is successful, as we have every reason to anticipate, it can readily be seen that there will be no more need for long and tedious drives—that each individual henceforth will realize his or her duty to the Nation and will respond when the hour strikes."

Nationally the war savings stamp campaign calls for $2,000,000,000 for the current year. It has a larger purpose than the mere gathering of funds, though the total will be of powerful influence in the war budget, for it is to bring home to the citizen of America people a realization of what war securities signify and what the war aims of the United States consist of.

Stamps Mission Manyfold. "Through the medium of the 25-cent stamp, and of the $5 stamp, it is proposed to bring an understanding of what war securities are," explained Mr. Wagoner. "The little stamps teach not only patriotism, but they inculcate thrift and character."

"In the reconstruction period that is to follow the war, the importance of this campaign will be felt. For the boys and girls of today will be heirs to the greater part of the reconstruction era. Today we are reaching them through the schools with lessons of thrift as shown in the war savings stamp. We of America today have one great fault—we are thrifless. But the younger generation will have been taught the lesson of thrift and the influence of that lesson will be marked for good in the years to come."

Today's convention will be attended by delegates from all Oregon counties. With approximately 300 delegates in attendance from outer state points, the delegation from Multnomah County and Portland is expected to swell the total attendance to at least 500. Sessions will open at 9:30 this morning and adjournment will be taken at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Following is the convention programme: C. S. Jackson, State Director—9:30, registration; 10, "America," call of the convention, C. S. Jackson, director.
